HILTON READY FOR LONG TRIP

Arrangements have been completed for Hilton Belyea's departure for Montreal tomorrow afternoon en route to England to train for the great diamond race at the Henley. His shell has been created and will be shipped to Montreal and then placed on board the Cunard liner Andania, which sails for London next Saturday. On his return from England Hilton expects to go to St. Catharines to participate in the Canadian Henley where he will defend his title of Canadian champion. From there he expects to go to Baltimore for the United States National championship events. His plans regarding the last race and also for meeting Hoover in Duluth on Labor Day depends on circumstances. On his arrival in Montreal Thursday Hilton will be met by Joe Page and other well known sporting men, who will assist him in completing his arrangements for his long voyage.

BARBERS REBEL AT BOBS FOR WOMEN

New York, May 16.—Underneath the wish to earn $35 a week instead of $30, which made all the tonorial artists of Broome Street and the Bowery throw down their clippers in one grand revolutionary gesture, there lies a real grievance. Women do get blamed for all sorts of things. Now it's the barbers' strike, or, if one is a stickler for precision, the bobbers' strike. Nevertheless, down on Broome Street and the Bowery they are one and the same thing.

John Arena will tell you about it. He owns an aristocratic parlor at 160 Broome Street, which used to be the place where all the sweller gents went. Now, he says, it's the place where all the swell ladies go as well, in consequence of which he has had to learn all the intricacies, not only of shearing off tresses but the psychology located under those tresses. He says he used to have some leisure, but what with the women his leisure has been cut as short as the hair.

They all have the same complaint. Even over in the Brownsville section of Brooklyn barbers walked out, ostensibly for more pay, something for which people have walked out before, but in reality because the female of the species has been so trying on the nerves of the barber. Before the day is over it is expected that more than 1,000 harassed members of the profession will be idle.

The first intimation of the strike came when outside each parlor there were visible long queues of anxious persons whose appearance was almost heavenly. Barbers hustled out of bed at 5 o'clock to accommodate crowds who wanted to make sure at least of a weekly grooming. It was estimated there were 8,667 more shaves and haircuts in evidence on Grand Street last Sunday than there have been on any single Sunday morning since the war, not excepting even Easter.

TRAVEL CHEAPER ON CONTINENT

London, May 16.—The low rate of exchange will enable hundreds of Englishmen to spend their vacations this summer with their families on the continent, making the trip in the style previously reserved for those of wealth. Never before has such a golden opportunity for continental travel arisen.

The English will not be the only ones to benefit, for despite the propensity of the continentals to raise prices where Americans are concerned, the latter will be able to travel even more cheaply than last year.

The cost of a continental trip is less than the expense of a similar time at any English resort. It will be possible for any one to spend two weeks on the continent this summer at a cost varying from £5 to £25, according to the accommodation, which is far below the pre-war figures.

In the face of forest fires many animals lose their fear of man.

Paris Children Adopt Romper

Paris, May 16.—"Romper" have hit Paris. The world's fashion venders have at last discovered the utility of the one piece sexless garment, and first editions of it are now appearing along the Avenue du Bois de Boulogne. The Parisian rompers, unlike the American, are highly decorated as they come from the smart dressmakers for children. Often they have animals or fantastic fairy figures embroidered on them.

Cheerful colors to make cheerful children also are being advocated in France, with particular reference to the traditional black laced apron or blouses worn by virtually all youngsters, except those of the rich and fashionable. A few private schools now prohibit any but gaily colored aprons being worn by children.

THE NEPTUNE'S REPAIRS.

The contract for repairing and overhauling the Furness Withy & Co's tug Neptune, damaged by fire some time ago has been awarded to the Metropolitan Marine Railway and Shipbuilding Company. The work will be commenced about June 1 and will occupy about four weeks. The Neptune was damaged by a fire in the latter part of January. The fire broke out while the tug was shifting the steamer Manchester Brigade. At the time it was estimated that the damage would amount to about $5,000.

FORD TO OPEN GARNET MINE IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

Plant Near Danbury Will Ship Material to Detroit for Finishing Automobile Bodies.

Boston, May 16.—A plant for the quarrying and finishing of garnet for use in the automobile manufacturing industry will be erected almost immediately on the 200-acre property near Danbury, N. H., recently purchased by the Ford Motor Company. It was learned here. Approximately $600,000 was involved in the purchase from the Garnet Grit Company, of this city.

Nathan C. Harrison, of this city, who acted for the Ford company in the deal, said tonight that the company planned to mine and ship the garnet to Detroit in its rough state until the plant here is completed. Garnet is used for grinding and polishing plate glass and in the making of material used for finishing and polishing automobile bodies.
