LABOR REPORT TO PEACE CONFERENCE

Commission on Legislation and International Regulation of Conditions

Paris, April 12.—The report of the commission on international labor legislation, containing a draft convention for promoting international regulation of labor conditions, a recommendation for an international labor conference and detailed labor terms to be inserted in the peace treaty was presented yesterday afternoon at the plenary session of the peace conference.

The report aims to provide against the lowering of labor conditions by permitting fierce competition after the war and a permanent international labor bureau and a regular international labor conference.

The commission appointed at the plenary session of the peace conference on Jan. 18 consisted of fifteen members, representing Great Britain, the United States, France, Italy, Japan, Belgium, Cuba, Poland and Czechoslovakia. Thirty-five meetings were held and the report, finished on March 24, was made public April 3. Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, acted as general chairman.

The entire consideration of the conference centered in the belief that universal peace could be established only if based on social justice. The preamble of the report says:

"Conditions of labor exist involving such injustices, hardship and privation to large numbers of people as to produce unrest so great that the peace and harmony of the world is imperilled, and the improvement of these conditions is urgently requested, as for example, by regulation of hours of work, including the establishment of a maximum working day and week, regulation of the labor supply, prevention of unemployment, provision of an adequate, living wage, protection of the worker against sickness, disease and injury arising out of his employment, the protection of children and young persons and women, provision for old age and injury, protection of interests of workers when employed in other countries than their own, recognition of the principle of freedom of association and organization of technical, vocational, educational and other measures.

The establishment of a permanent labor organization to remedy industrial evils and injustices "which mark the present state of society" is viewed as indispensable. Toward the achievement of the object of the league of nations, the report says that every state a member of the league felt morally bound to accept the principles enunciated and to participate in the labor organization as a condition to membership in the league.

The international labor conference is to meet at least once annually and consist of four representatives from each state, including two representing the government, one the employers and one workers.

The first meeting is recommended for October in Washington.

The programme will embrace the principle of the eight-hour day and the forty-eight hour week, prevention of unemployment, women's employment before and after child birth, women and children's employment during the night or in unhealthy processes, minimum age for the employment of children, the extension of the international conventions adopted at Berne in 1906 prohibiting night work by women and the use of white phosphorus in the manufacture of matches.

The report says that an international labor office is to be established at the seat of the league of nations, as a part of the league, to collect and distribute information on the international adjustment of conditions of industrial life and labor; subjects which it is proposed to bring before the conference; the conduct of special investigations as ordered by the conference; the preparation of agenda for the conference; the publication of a newspaper in the French, English and other languages generally to act as a clearing house on matters of international labor.

This office is to be controlled by a governing body of twenty-four members of whom twelve are to be selected by the governments, each elected by delegates at a conference representing employers and workers respectively.

Each delegation to the international labor conference may have two advisers, one of whom must be a woman. When questions affecting women are under discussion the voting shall be individual and not the traditional procedure of voting.

The report says that employers and employees must be able to express their views with complete freedom and frankness if the conference is really to be representative of all concerned with industry.

The most difficult question, says the report, was the method of making the recommendations effective, especially in view of the amendment of the constitutions of states to control labor legislation as opposed to federal control. It was finally agreed that the proposals should take the form either of recommendations to be submitted to the various nations prior to being carried out by legislation or of a draft convention to be ratified as a treaty.

Machinery also has been provided by which a state failing to carry out its obligations may be subjected to pressure.

An industrial association, employers or workers, may make representations to the international labor office, which governing body may communicate to the state criticized. If no satisfactory reply is received the correspondence may be published, which, the report says, probably would create considerable moral pressure.

The governing body also may apply to the secretary-general of the league of nations to appoint a commission of inquiry to investigate reports and recommend economic pressure if desired.

SAYS OUTSIDE INFLUENCE IS SWAYING CHURCHES

(Toronto Star.)

"We are just on the starting point of a new era where it will be possible for God to be represented in His true form and where it will be possible for people to live a true life," declared Peter Wright

He concluded by saying that questions relative to the adoption of an eight-hour day, equality of salaries for men and women workers and legislation dealing with night work must be settled.

"There are two ways to arrive at these results," he said. "One is the Russian way and the other the British method. I prefer the latter."

M. Collard, a French labor delegate, spoke briefly, bespeaking French support and approval of the report.

New York, April 12.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, last night called President Wilson protesting against re-opening of the report drafted by the committee.

Mr. Gompers' action was based on the fact that the plenary session of the peace conference had adopted the report with an amendment offered by G. N. Barnes, labor member of the British cabinet. This amendment, it was said, recognizes that "conditions peculiar to the Orient make absolute uniformity in labor legislation impossible."

MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS

Act as a stimulant to the sluggish liver, clear the forward tongue, sweeten the foul, obnoxious breath, and clear away all the poisonous accumulations from the system by causing the bowels to move regularly and naturally every day, thus preventing as well as curing constipation, sick headaches, bilious headaches, water brash, heartburn, and all diseases arising from a lax, slow or torpid liver.

They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take, and there is nothing of the griping, weakening and sickening effects of the old-fashioned purgatives.

Mrs. John Kadey, Chipman, N. B., writes: "I have been using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for some time and can recommend them to anyone suffering from heartburn and liver trouble. I tried other remedies, but they only relieved me for a short time. I always recommend Laxa-Liver Pills to all sufferers, as I think they are a valuable remedy."

When you go to your dealer and ask for Laxa-Liver Pills, see that you get the genuine "Milburn's." Price 25c a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SYNOPSIS

SHIRLEY was the pluckiest little girl in the world, and when doctor said her invalid mother must get out of the city and she had only pennies in her pocket-book, she rented an old stone barn, in the midst of brooks, birds and flowers. Prince Bountiful was her landlord and he loved Shirley for her bravery in living in a barn, so he transformed it into a Wonderland, and her mother shook her head and prayed that the Prince would not break her daughter's heart. There was a beautiful Princess who tried to lure the Prince away from the little stenographer who lived in a barn. And there were robbers who tried to steal the Prince's fortune, but Shirley foiled them, and because she would not take any reward, the Prince married her in The Enchanted Barn.

In an address delivered at the Bloor St. Baptist church. Mr. Wright accused the church of not living up to its obligations and said that it was not sufficiently Christlike in its deeds. He contended that it was too much swayed by outside influences, the chief influence he referred to being the powers of finance. Unfortunately, he added, the Church is crawling behind something instead of getting out in the open and creating public opinion. If Christ were on the world today He would not be found in the churches of cities such as Toronto, but He would be living His life out with those who are considered as outcasts and beneath the attention of church people.

"The churches could be made the greatest power under the sun, if they only occupied their legitimate place in the world. They could rule affairs at Ottawa, instead of being ruled by them.

Referring to Toronto, he found that there are buildings in the city which are a disgrace to civilization. Those are existing conditions, but if the Church did its duty, they could be swiftly swept aside.
