

HENRY & JOHNSON'S

Compound Arnica and Oil Liniment.

FOR MAN AND BEAST.

The healing and curative properties of this Liniment will at once be recognized and approved by every Physician and Surgeon, as affording the quickest and surest means of curing Wounds, Sprains, Strains, Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Burns and Ulcers of every kind, including Skin Diseases generally; and, while its application is harmless and never painful, its effects are most wonderful—so much so that frequently a single application is enough to complete a perfect cure. It cleanses thoroughly, and removes all the impurities and suppuration in obstinate sores, and the healing process begins as soon as the parts to which it is applied are cleansed from impure and offensive matter. For Sprains and strained Ligaments it has no equal. Rub it faithfully with the palm of your hand. Is your valuable horse strained in the back, or sinews, wrung in the withers, or suffering from galls of saddle or harness, legs swelled, or any of the troubles for which you want a reliable embrocation? Try this Liniment.

It is warming and penetrating, and only requires to be well rubbed in two or three times a day to produce the desired effect.

As a Family Liniment it meets the wants of every household; none, indeed, should be without a bottle of it ready for use at all times, and a single trial is all that is necessary to prove the astonishing curative and healing properties of this truly invaluable remedy.

We furnish you a large bottle for Fifty Cents, and believe that if you use one bottle it will be classed among the "valuables" of your household. We have long seen the need of just such a "Family Medicine."

BURLINGTON, Vt., May 23, 1882.

While on duty as letter-carrier last fall, I slipped and strained my ankle very badly. I got one bottle of Henry & Johnson's Arnica and Oil Liniment and used it, rubbing it in freely. It cured me entirely. I think it is a valuable remedy and would not be without it in my family.

GEORGE W. AUSTIN,
