LONDON, June 8.- The war office has received the following message from Lord Kitchener under today's

The Boers who are to surrender are assembled and the Boer leader delivers an address to his men urging them to listen to the British officer who has been detailed on this work. The British officer then makes a speech to the men of the commando, in which he in-forms them of the admiration of King Edward and the British nation for the gallant struggle and the bravery of their people, and promises that the British authorities will do their utmost te help them resettle on their farms A meal is then provided for the Boers after which the formal surrenders occur. In many such instances the Boers have cheered King Edward and they have sometimes expressed surprise that no army was sent out to receive their surrenders. The Boers are allow ed to retain their horses and saddles, and the majority of them appear to be all the purpose will be issued upon requiglad that the war is at end, and that they will now be able to join their man.

PRETORIA, June 3.—The service of thanksgiving for the return of peace was held in the principal square of Pretoria. The Archbishop of Cape Town officiated at the service and Lord Kitchener, Gen. Baden-Powell and Lady Methuen and other prominent persons were present. The massed bands of various regiments supplied the music, and the troops and public joined in singing the hymns with wonderful effect. The singing of God Save the King and Kipling's Recessional closed the service. Lord Kitchener then mounted a dais and called

"Now that there is peace, and although it is not a peace such as we longed for, yet let us abide where God has led us. Let us now grasp each other's hands for another great struggle lies before, a struggle for the spiritual and racial prosperity and welfare of our people. Terrible Scenes in a Chicago Sanitarium, Where Patients J. N. HARVEY, - Clothing and Tailoring. Shackled and Strapped to Their Beds Were Slowly Roasted to Death - Nine Young Girls Burned in the London Fire.

LONDON, June 9 .- The inadequacy LONDON, June 9.— The inadequacy number of people, who were carried of the fire equipment of London has down the ladders by the firemen, it gain been demonstrated by the fatalities which attended a comparatively small blaze in the centre of the city at a late hour, this morning. The fire occurred in the upper portion of a five story building adjoining the Mansion House station, in the busiest section of London. The first extension ladders to arrive at the scene could not be elevated to the height of the fourth story and the inmates of the upper floors were compelled to jump down into a tarpaulin which had been hastily commandeered by the firemen from a passing fruit van. Several of those who jumped were badly injured and others who refused to take this risk disappeared within the smoking windows. London. The first extension ladders to

HORRIBLE SCENES IN CHICAGO. CHICAGO, June 9.- Nine men and thirty persons were injured in a fire which this afternoon destroyed the sanitarium conducted by the Saint of patients suffering from delirium tremens and some who were deranged by drugs. Several of these were strapped to their beds and it was found im possible to save them, so rapidly did the fire spread through the building. . THE DEAD

so far as known are: S. J. Newell, Carl A. Carlson, Joseph Harrington, Samuel Dalzell, Dr. J. T. Stanton, Geo. A. Ribbick, Hillsdale, Mich.; William Kent, alderman of the fourth ward,

The fire originated in the basement of the building and spread rapidly to the upper stories through the elevator shaft. The blaze was discovered by James Newell, a grocer, who noticed smoke coming from one of the basement windows and ran into the engine room to discern its cause. Behind the boilers in the centre of the cellar and within a few feet of the elevator shaft, he saw a small flame. The next in stant the flames were caught by the draught in the elevator shaft and carried up with a roar. Newell shouted to several men in the alley to alarm the inmates of the building. Severa hurried to do this, but by the time they reached the first floor of the building the flames had been carried to the roof. As the cry of fire rang through the building patients sprang from their beds, and before they could be pre-vented several had jumped from the windows to the pavement.

The fire department was on the scene within a few minutes, and as the windows were filled with people shricking for help, the firemen devoted their first efforts to save lives. While this was the means of saving a large

With a the alarm of fire was sounded wattles ran to investigate. He found the elevator shaft a mass of flame, and ran back to help the alderman, who was shouting like an in-

Wattles tried to drag him down the hall to a place of safety, but Kent had become so crazed that it was almost impossible to do anything with him. Wattles was finally compelled to run for his life, as the flames were already scorching his clothing. He ran to a window, across which were iron bars, managed to tear two of these from their fastenings, and two other men who had followed him, climbed out on the sill. They were seen by the firemen and the three men were taken down. Wattles

FROM PALACE TO ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.

London's Streets Densely Thronged to Cheer King Edward and Oueen Alexandra

As They Passed to and From the Impressive Peace Thanksgiving

LONDON, June 8.—The noisy jubil ation with which London has resounded for the last week was succeeded today by more subdued, although not less impressive public denonstrations of thankfulness for the return of peace in South Africa. The thanksgiving services held in London today were typical of the ser-able historic occasion. The programme of this morning was not intended to be accompanied by special ostentation; King Edward and Queen Alexandra did not pass through the streets even in semi-state, but rode to St. Paul's in an ordinary landau drawn by four horses, accompanied by pos-tillions and putriders clad in scarlet tunics. Only those members of the royal family who reside in Bucking-bam Palace accompanied their ma-jesties, the Prince and Princess of Wales and others proceeded to St. Paul's separately but by the same route. The King and the Queen were joined at the cathedral by the Prince and Princess of Wales and many other distinguished personages. Although the weather today was chilly and dublous, the streets for the entire distance from the palace to the cathedral were thickly lined with people, who bared their heads and cheer ed as the members of the royal family and other notabilities passed. King Edward, who wore the uniform of a field marshal, was greeted with enthusiasm, and the King, the Prince of Wales and other princes were busily engaged in acknowledging salutations from the crowd. Lord Roberts, who drove with his wife and daughters, was one of the figures most conspicuously greeted with cheers. The royal personages were driven down The Mall to Trafalgar square and through the Strand and Fleet street. At Temple Bar officials of the city of London for the first time since the jubilee of the late Queen Victoria awaited the sovereign in state. The King's carriage paused when it reached the city officials, and the lord mayor of London, Sir Joseph C. Dimsdale, presented the sword of the city to the King and uttered a formal and loyal welcome. The King returned the sword, smiled, bowed and simply remarked: "Thank you very much," The streets leading to St. Paul's cathedral were densely crowded, and a number of persons fainted in the crush. The King and Queen alighted at the west entrance of St. Paul's. Here they were received by the Bishops of Stepney and London and conducted by them to their seats, which were under the dome of the building and directly in front of the pulpit. The seats in the choir stalls were occupied by the members of the present cabinet and by members of former cabinets. These gentlemen, in their dark clothes, formed a sombre group in the great gathering in which the uniforms of officials, the costumes f ladies and white surplices were con-

Members of the house of lords and nembers of the house of commons were seated on opposite sides under the dome. In addition to the presence of many army and navy officials, the military prowess of the empire was represented by detachments of the Royal Fusiliers, the Horse and Foot Guards and other regiments.

Their majesties entered the Cathedral to the accompaniment of the hymn, "Onward Christian Soldiers," by the organ and choir, and the throng of worshippers rose and heartily joined in the singing. The Cathedral organ at this morning's service was reinforced with horns and other more martial musical instruments. A notable feature of the musical service was the rendition of a Te Deum composed by rendition of a Te Deum composed by the late Sir Arthur Sullivan for a thanksgiving peace service.

Following the thanksgiving collects and at the request of King Edward, the hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," was sung to the tune of "Old Hundred."

The sermon by the Bishop of Stepney was short and simple, and was preached on the effective text, "The Blessings of Peace." The service was concluded with the singing of the Na-tional Anthem.

The members of the royal family returned from the Cathedral to Buckingham palace by way of Victoria Em-bankment and received ovations all along the route from the crowds.
