It is safe to say owever, that the great majority of the male popu-tion of the iown will content themselves with sing fishing to some of the various lakes and going fishing to some of the various lakes and streams a few miles out of town. No one was ever known to catch any fish in any of them, but that will not affact the result of the expeditions in the least. I will not be surprised to hear of numerous four-pounders, on Saturday, all the same. Faster.
