Purses Mounting
Into High FiguresTime Not Far Distant When $10,000 Golf Purse Will be Hung for Professionals.

Are we approaching the day when ten thousand dollars will be put up as prize money for either 72 holes medal play or knockout match play golf? The question is pertinent in view of the steady growth of prize money sums culminating this year in the $10,000 prize for the winner of the Glenholme Golf Course near Hillsburgh.

History of Stakes.

The history of prize money and stakes is interesting from more than one angle. Beginning in 1849 when Allan Robertson and Tom Morris beat the Lanes brothers at Musselburgh for a stake of $5,000, equal to much more than the prize money of today, just into the beginning of the 20th century, the Macdonald tournament in 1901 to be exact, almost all playing receipts were the result of the challenge matches at hole play. In this Macdonald tournament a prize of a hundred pounds was given to the winner, J. H. Taylor being the successful golfer after a win over David in the final round.

The Nova of the World tourney also at match play for the professionals of Great Britain was patched with it for some years. A total prize money list of $350,000, with first place securing $50,000, in 1909 at North Berwick $100,000 was put up as prize money, with Geo. Duncan winning. The first prize of $500,000 was won by Willie Anderson at San Francisco and the Panama-Pacific Exposition. Walter Hagen topped all previous prize money sums by annexing the $100,000 given for the first place.

Big Prize in Germany.

In 1912 in Germany over $3500 was set aside for the open championship, while in this country since 1916 the Rodman Wanamaker prize for the Professional Golfers' Association match play championship has totalled yearly over $2500 in cash and another $1000 or so in diamond gold medals.

In recent years the national association has increased the amount of prize money and the number who share in the prizes, while local and lesser gold champions have secured the best prizes in the country by grants far in excess of the chief association. Indications point to further advances, and it may be well to inquire into the reasons.

There are diverse reasons. Primarily it is not to have people who play the game to see where they play. Few, indeed, are the players who beat about at all who have not heard about the Glenholme prize money. The fact that the sponsors put up almost $4,000 last year as prizes for four days' play gave unique prominence to the thing. "By the way," that this year's prize money is $10,000, has been kept wonderfully in the limelight.

There have been many other courses which have become known almost overnight by the large sums of money which they have donated for play. Down South this year there was a general increase in the total sums donated, forced upon the managers of the courses given at other major clubs or hotels or by private subscription. It began to look a couple of seasons ago that hotel courses would satisfy the desire to see high class golf of their patrons by having restricted tournaments or matches between the four best obtainable professionals. Fortunately for the game, this idea did not flourish, and the extra sums voted have been given as prizes for those who have finished in tenth, eleventh and twelfth places.

Norfolk Wants To Enter SchoonerCould Have Vessel Ready to Fish Four Months Before
Elimination Races.

GloUCESTER, Mass., April 21.—The desire of Norfolk, Va., to contest for the international fishing vessel championship, with Boston, Gloucester, and Halifax, was announced in a letter to the American Race Committee today. Henry G. Burbee, president of the chamber of commerce of Norfolk, made application for the conditional entry of a fishing vessel to be named Norfolk, the plans of which he said had been drawn. The committee was asked to consider the advisability of waiving the time clause which stipulates that a vessel must sail for the fisheries by April 24, in order to qualify.

An outline of the vessel, the Norfolk schooner, should carry 410,000 pounds of fish, with measurements of 145 feet over all, 130 feet waterline, a beam of 31 feet 3 inches, a draught of 16 feet 3 inches and a sail area of 16,000 square feet. It was said that the schooner could be built in time to fish four months before the elimination races next fall.

The Government has been racing because of labor troubles. It was asked to consent to the fishermen being run off because of their importance to the coast, and the fact that the two thousand fishermen who were throughout the year, when the fishermen were cancelled.

Colby Plans Fourth
Jack Coombs GameWill be One of the Features
at the Commencement Week Exercises.

Waterville, April 21.—According to recent reports, Colby College may have her fourth actual Jack Coombs game next June at the commencement exercises as the big league star has signified his intention of returning to his alma mater to play the game along with the rest of the 1906 team which cleaned up everything in sight that year. Albert K. Sisson, of the class of 1891, who was manager of that team, is promoting the scheme and it is expected that the athletic council and the college authorities will co-operate with him to make all arrangements satisfactory.

Familiar figures on that famous team are Charlie Dwyer, at present athletic director at Hoboken, who coached Jack Coombs for three years, Coombs himself, Pete Wiley, the six-foot first sacker, silent Mose Fulton at second, who afterward played semi-pro ball, Shesky Cask at third, and Doc Reynolds in the short position. In the outfield, Coombs alternated with Rip Shaw at centre, who also pitched, Ben Tribon in left and Art Palmer in right.

Portland baseball fans will remember this team as the aggregation that won from the city team at that time twice during the season with Jack doing the delivering in both engagements.

This will be the fourth time that the iron man of baseball has returned to his alma mater. The first game was played in 1910 with Ralph Good in the box, resulting in a victory for the alumni, the second game in 1912 with Frank James in the box was another victory for the alumni, the third game in 1913 with Frank James in the box was another victory for the alumni, the fourth game in 1914 with Frank James in the box was another victory for the alumni.
