JOHN MARKETS

local market have been Flour is reported weak, but m with an upward tendency also stronger and some of the talking higher prices. Clear little lower, but domestic mess ry market beef was a little lower shade higher. nenal advance is noted in the is attributed to the fact that re was a shortness in the crop stocks on the other side

COUNTRY MARKET

western 0.091/2 butchers 0.081/2	66	0.101/2
butchers 0.081/2	66	0.10
country 0.083/2	"	0.091/2
on, per lb 0.09	46	0.10
per lb 0.10	46	0.101/2
e calbage 0.60	"	1.00
g lamb 0.12	44	0.13
per lb 0.08	44	0.10
potatoes, per bbl 1.90	64	2.00
hennery, per doz 0.00	"	0.30 case, per doz 0.00	66	0.27
butter, per lb 0.20	44	0.22
butter, per lb 0.21	44	0.24
nery butter 0.24	66	0.26
per lb 0.08	66	0.09
kins, per lb 0.00	"	0.15
a 1.00	66	1.25
, pair, fresh killed 0.90	"	1.25
g chickens, pair,
h killed1.00	"	1.25
ys, per lb 0.25	66	0.28
ce, per doz 0.35	44	0.50
, per doz 0.00	66	1.20
syrup, per gal 1.00		1.25
sugar, per lb 0.12	56	0.14
	44	0.16
0.00	"	0.16
ts, per bbl 0.00		1.25 per bbl 0.00	44	1.25
rooms 0.50	66	0.00

FRUITS, ETC.

...... 0.60 4 0.00

walnuts		to	0.13
ble walnuts	0.14	66	0.15
ot walnuts	0.13	14	0.00
ds	0.13		0.14
rnia prunes	0.96%	66	0.0914
ts	0.11	44	0.12
8		- 66	0.15
S		44	0.16
dates, per lb	0.05		0.06
ts, roasted			0.11
gs, per lb		66	0.05
as, Messina, box		66	3.25
nuts, per doz		46	0.70
nuts, per sack		46	4.50
as			2.50
rnia oranges, naval		"	3.50
ranges			4.50
nions, case		. 46	3.50
mions, bag		. 66	1.40
figs, box	0.08	66	0.12

domestic mess	23.50	66	24:50
American clear	22.25		24.00
can plate beef	20.25	"	20.50
pure, tub	0.13	66	0.131/2
compound, tub	0.11%	11	0.12

CANNED GO	ODS.
following are the per case:		ale	quota-
n, cohoes	6.50	to	6.75
n, red spring	7.00	"	7.50
haddies		"	4.50
red herring			4.40
	4.00	68	4.25
s, ls	1.35		1.45
s, 2s	2.25	"	2.50
s, ls s, 2s l beef, rs	2.00	14	2.10
beet, 28	3.35	66	3.45
s, 2s	1.95	"	2.00
s, 3s	3.00	44	3.05
de, sliced	1.85	44	1.90
ple, grated	1.60	"	1.65
ore pineapples		"	1.80
rd plums		"	1.25
erries		44	1.90
per doz		"	1.05
	1.20	"	1.80
perries	1.85	•€	1.90
oes	1.35	"	1.40
ins		"	1.10
		66	1.25
beans		"	1.10
1	7 00	44

GROCERIES.

seeded, 1s 0.081/4	- 66	0.084
do 0.081/4	"	0.09
clusters 2.35	"	3.00
its, cleaned, 1s 0.081/2	66	0.0834
per lb 0.13½ per lb 0.03½	"	0.1334
per lb 0.031/4	"	0.034
tartar, pure, box. 0.26	"	0.27
soda, per keg 2.10	"	2.20
es, fancy Barbados. 0.27	"	0.28
hand picked 2.15	66	2.20
vellow eve 2.40	"	2.50
peas 5.75	-	6.00
arley 5.50	46	5.75
eal 2.75		2.80
ated cornmeal 4.65	46	4.75
ool salt, per sack, ex
0.70	"	0.75
SUGAR.
rd granulated 4.65	"	4.75
Empire granulated 4.55	1.0	4.65
vellow 4.45		4.55
vellow 4.15	11	4.25
	. 64	5.75
FISH.
		Principal Control
Iry cod 5.00	a	5.25

" 11.60 0.85 herring, per doz. 0.30 GRAINS. lots25.00 ots, bagged..26.50 ts, bagged .. 24.50

5.25

nadian 0.46 OILS. 0.00 ade Sarnia and Arc

BURNING DAYLIGHT BY JACK LONDON 1910, by the New York Herald Co. All rights reserved.

It Was All a-Glitter with Tiny Specks of Unmistakable Free Gold.

at listens, amazed.

alk has its effect. Daylight decides to get rid vast fortune, save only a little ranch at Glen and reform his mode of life. He puts this pian Dede Mason and she decides to be his wife, prohe means what he says. She will not take him is money too, for his wealth is his master. CHAPTER XXXIX.

he is the type that dominates.

means, in his mind, that he is conquered.

giants that come before him.

woman, because he dreads the idea of being mastered

Drink leads to boasting, and in the turmoll that follows Burning Daylight shows his amazing muscular in the Klondike. Burning Daylight's luck deserts him in the end, and he rises from the table penniless-worse men shows itself. He declares himself in readiness to o Dyea and back with a dog team and an Indian.

awore in '83 never to go out till I'd made my he exclaimed, "and I swear once more, by the he outside till I make my pile, and I tell w, it's got to be as almighty big pile." journey, gets to Dyea and back to Cir-he plunges into the Tivoli, winning his celaim of the crowd that had seen him reaking journey.

, this amazing man makes a wild lances men, and women, too; wins i, still scorning slumber or any redaybreak, with three partners and newest gold strike in the upper battle for gold. Strike after strike hes the dathe for gold. Strike after strike Daylight sees himself the dominant figure ruken and in the golden Dawson. Discourantly, he refuses to allow life's loaded dice, and in the end comes victory—and millions, axilight leaves the Yukon behind for new jeavor. His departure is an event of great and as the vessel swings clear this all-conmunication.

ceps—a little. He tears off his cap and odby, you-all," he cried, "goodby, you-

San Francisco Daylight becomes the sensation of Sar Francisco Daylight becomes the sensation of ag. He is still woman-shy, however, and reasons he has brought his miflions to the States to play a s game, not a woman's. He meets the men in the inancial world, tries to polish up his rough speech manners, runs over to Tonopah, makes a big up there and then feels the call of Wall street, goes on to New York, gets into the clutches of wall street sharks, who have not forgotten how at them at their own game in the R indike and millions that should have been theirs. They es no less hard. The reason for his savagery a despises the men with whom he plays, for he not one in a hundred of them is on the level, tune increases magically and he lives a hard, when all of a sudden Dede Mason enters his is his stenographer and she first attracts his by correcting some of the slips in his dictions that she is an orphan and is supporting a brother, loves to ride horseback and is alto-orother, loves to ride horseback and is alto-just opposite of all other women Daylight association with Daylight and admiration

LIGHT had made no assertion of total abstithough he had not taken a drink for ths after the day he resolved to let his busigo to smash. Soon he proved himself strong corrigibles. to dare to take a drink without taking a sec-In the other hand, with his coming to live in ry had passed all desire and need for drink. yearning for it, and even forgot that it occasion, when invited by the storekeeper, ly:-"All right, son. If my taking a drink ride with you to Hood Mountain." you happy, here goes. Whiskey for mine." the valley to come up the hill to the g, and picnicked for the day. perpetual riding through the hills. tempt the breaking of a certain inwas able to earn whatever money he desired at this, to him, agreeable work.

association with Daylight and admiration sistence begin to impress Dede Mason, and they have a heart to heart talk, in practically "takes the hide off" the man lim flatly she does not take his life and his "There are women who would marry a man id be happy," she says, "but I couldn't and cared for such a man the more unhappy I "So the profligate Daylight begins to see ig, but after a tame defence of his methods on a new plan, and, to the amazement of is associates, proceeds to carry it out. And of Dede Mason. has, meantime, doubled his fortune, but noney he possesses the more distant seems in. He at last proposes marriage to her, is refused. He does not give up—that is y—and demands that the girl tell him just its, for she has confessed to an interest in resupon she tells him he has too much money, he wrong kind of a life, and, in short, is als wealth, and nothing else. She shows him taking on unhealthy flesh, is becoming cruel and brutalized and degraded. And istens, amazed. A sugar king, whose breeding farm and training stables were at Caliente, three miles away, sent for him in time of need, and before the year was out offered him the management of the stables. But Daylight smiled and shook his head. Furthermore, he refused to undertake the breaking of as many animals as were offered. "I'm sure not going to die from overwork," he assured Dede; and he accepted such work only when he had to have money. Later he fenced off a small run in the pasture, where, from time to time, he took in a limited number of in-

"We've got the ranch and each other," he told his wife, "and I'd sooner ride with you to Hood Mountain any day than earn forty dollars. You can't buy sunsets, and loving wives, and cool spring water, and Yet he refused to be afraid of it, and in such fol-de-rols with forty dollars; and forty million dollars can't buy back for me one day that I didn't

His life was eminently wholesome and natural. a drink begot no desire for a second. It Early to bed, he slept like an infant and was up with apression. He was too profoundly strong the dawn. Always with something to do, and with a ted by a thimbleful. As he had prophesied thousand little things that entired but did not clamor, Burning Daylight, the city financier, had he was himself never overdone. Nevertheless, there ck death on the ranch, and his younger were times when both he and Dede were not above he Daylight from Alaska, had taken his confessing tiredness at bedtime after seventy or eighty threatened inundation of fat had sub- miles in the saddle. Sometimes, when he had accull his old time Indian leanness and lithe- mulated a little money, and when the season favored, had returned. So likewise did the old they would mount their horses, with saddlebags bein his cheeks come back. For him hind, and ride away over the wall of the valley and the pink of physical condition. He be- down into the other valleys. When night fell they mowledged strong man of Sonoma Val- put up at the first convenient farm or village, and on est lifter and hardest winded among a the morrow they would ride on, without definite plan, farmer folk. And once a year he cele- merely continuing to ride on, day after day, until their thday in the old fashioned frontier way, money gave out and they were compelled to return. On such trips they would be gone anywhere from a put on its back. And a fair portion of week to ten days or two weeks, and once they mansponded, brought the women folk and aged a three weeks' trip. They even planned ambitiously, some day when they were disgracefully hen in need of ready cash, he had fol- prosperous, to ride all the way up to Daylight's boyon's example of working at day's labor; hood home in Eastern Oregon, stopping on the way at stimulating and more satisfying, and of anticipation were theirs a thousand times as they im even more time for Dede and the contemplated the detailed delights of this grand adventure.

llenged by the blacksmith, in a spirit One day, stopping to mail a letter at the Glen Ellen post office, they were hailed by the blacksmith.

to know if you didn't live hereabouts, but the crowd horses are fresh." still going on breaking his own record."

Daylight had long since told Dede of the incident. he succeeded so signally as to earn "Say, Daylight," he said, "a young fellow named the hammer thrower. He put my hand down twice, nearer that way." tion as a horse breaker. And soon he Slosson sends you his regards. He came through in the young scamp!" He turned suddenly to Dede. There was little difficulty, once in Santa Rosa, in

"You're the first man that ever succeeded in doing it," he said. "Let's try it again." "Sure," Daylight answered. "And don't forget, finding Slosson. He and his party had registered at the Oberlin Hotel and Daylight encountered the young

"Look here, son," Daylight announced, as soon as he had introduced Dede, "I've come to go you another flutter at that hand game. Here's a likely place."

Slosson smiled and accepted. The two men faced each other, the elbows of their right arms on the counter, the hands clasped. Slosson's hand was quick-bammer thrower himself in the office.

ly forced backward and down.

son, that you're the first man that put mine down. That's why I lit out after you to-day." Again they clasped hands, and again Slosson's hand went down. He was a broad shouldered, heavy muscled young giant, at least half a head taller than Daylight, and he frankly expressed his chagrin and asked for a third trial. This time he steeled himself to the effort and for a moment the issue was in doubt. With flushed face and set teeth he met the other's strength till his crackling muscles failed him. The air exploded sharply from his tensed lungs as "You're too many for me," he confessed. "I only hope you'll keep out of the hammer throwing game." Daylight laughed and shook his head. "We might compromise and each stay in his own class. You stick to hammer throwing and I'll go on he relaxed in surrender, and the hand dropped turning down hands." But Slosson refused to accept defeat.

limply down.

"Say," he called out, as Daylight and Dede, astride their horses, were preparing to depart. "Say-do you mind if I look you up next year? I'd like to tackle you again."

"Sure, son. You're welcome to a flutter any time. Though I give you fair warning that you'll have to go some. You'll have to train up, for I'm ploughing and chopping wood and breaking colts these days." Now and again, on the way home, Dede could hear her big boy husband chuckling gleefully. As they halted their horses on the top of the divide out of Bennett Valley, in order to watch the sunset, he ranged alongside and slipped his arm around her waist.

"Little woman," he said, "you're sure responsible for it all. And I leave it to you if all the money in creation is worth as much as one arm like that when it's got a sweet little woman like this to go around." For of all his delights in the new life Dede was his greatest. As he explained to her more than once, he had been afraid of love all his life, only in the end to come to find it the greatest thing in the world. Not alone were the two well mated, but in coming to live on the ranch they had selected the best soil in which their love would prosper. In spite of her books and music there was in her a wholesome simplicity and love of the open and natural, while Daylight, in every fibre of him, was essentially an open air man.

One thing in Dede Daylight never got over marvelling about, and that was her efficient hands—the ids that he had first seen taking down flying shorthand notes and ticking away at the typewriter; the hands that were firm to hold a magnificent brute like Bob, that wonderfully flashed over the keys of the piano, that were unhesitant in household tasks, and that were twin miracles to caress and to run rippling fingers through his hair. But Daylight was not unduly uxorious. He lived his man's life just as she lived her woman's life. There was proper division of labor in the work they individually performed. But the whole was entwined and woven into a fabric of mutual interest and consideration. He was as deeply interested in her cooking and her music as she was in his agricultural adventures in the vegetable garden. And he, who resolutely declined to die of overwork, saw to it that she should likewise escape so dire a risk.

In this connection, using his man's judgment and putting his man's foot down, he refused to allow her to be burdened with the entertaining of guests. For guests they had, especially in the warm, long summers, and usually they were her friends from the advertisement, and she smiled and nodded acquies-"Slosson?" he meditated. "Slosson? That must be "We'll cut across by Bennett Valley," he said. "It's not long in gravitating to a form of work Dede's girlhood home in Siskiyou. And all the joys an automobile on the way to Santa Rosa. He wanted "Say, it's only twelve miles to Santa Rosa and the city, who were put to camp in tents, which they cared for themselves, and where, like true campers, they with him was in a hurry. He sent you his regards She divined what was in his mind, of which his had also to cook for themselves. Perhaps only in and said to tell you he'd taken your advice and was twinkling eyes and sheepish, boyish grin gave sufficient California, where everybody knows camp life, would such a programme have been possible. But Daylight's steadfast contention was that his wife should ot become cook, waitress and chambermaid because she did not happen to possess a household of servants.

The Mining Camp Contest.

(2's be continued.)