

1st, 7th, and 14th are unfortunate birthdays, bringing a liability to accidents, ill health or misfortunes. The 1st, 16th, 23rd and 26th are rather fortunate. At the end of this month, Saturn is in opposition to the midheaven of London, causing some trouble of a public nature, and the fall of houses.

SEPTEMBER, 1888.—Jupiter and Mars are in conjunction on the threshold of the sign Sagittarius, at 20 p. m. of the 10th inst. This is of fortunate omen for Old England, and promises her the victory over her enemies. From the 13th to the 20th, while Mars is in transit over the opposition of the Sun, Moon, and ascendant of the nativity of a great personage, our Foreign Office will be busily employed. Saturn now reaches a point where he afflicts persons born on or near the 6th of August, particularly those born in 1844, and they are hereby warned to keep out of danger and avoid travelling in either France or Italy this autumn. Spain gains by the re-entry of Jupiter into her ruling sign, and will be in a happier state than her neighbor France, which country is still suffering under the incubus of Saturn in Leo. Uranus is again afflicting persons who were born on about the 4th of April, or 10th of October; they are warned to avoid speculation and dangerous places. The 24th of this month is a fortunate birthday anniversary; the 14th and 15th are fairly fortunate; on the other hand, the eighth is unfortunate. At the end of the month, Saturn afflicts a certain statesman born in 1831.

OCTOBER, 1888.—The planetary positions at the new moon are very similar to those at the autumnal equinox; and are favorable to the expansion of trade and commerce and the buoyancy of the funded interests; the shipping trade will be in good case. The Czar of Russia has a transit of Uranus now plaguing him and thwarting his plans, if not afflicting his health. The financial condition of Russia will be in an entangled state ere long. The ruler of Germany is also under evil planetary influence. The son of the Comte de Paris has Saturn now in opposition to the place of the Sun at birth, and the Crown Princess of Portugal has Uranus in transit over the place of Mars in her ascendant, and will suffer accordingly; the head of the Orleanists will find his path beset with thorns. Saturn is near the oppo-
