It is now about three years since the Advertiser published the story of the Electrical Girl in the township of Rom-Electrical Giri in the township of Rom-ney. The tale passed through nearly all of our exchanges, and occasionally re-appears now. The story in brief was that the girl was so highly charged with electricity that she could not handle any that the girl was so nghry charged with electricity that she could not handle any article of steel. She was a veritable magnet, needles, knives, etc., would cling to any part of her person. The publica-tion excited a good deal of curiosity con-cerning the girl, and many people called upon her at her home. Recently she was taken ill, and the local physicians were called in. She described her peculiar sensations. In her kneejoints severe pains were felt, shooting at intervals, as though a battery were at work and giving her intermittent shocks. The knees began to swell, and the pains spread to other parts of her body, generally becoming permanent in the joints. All the doctors could do was of very little avail. Occa-sionaffy slight relief would be obtained, but in wet and murky weather the pains slondfly slight relief would be obtained, but in wet and murky weather the pains would redouble in violence. Finally when the doctors had given up treating her, and regarded her simply as a physio-logical wonder, a tramp called one day at the house. While he was being given a meal he was told about and asked per-mission to see the girl. He had here a mission to see the girl. He had been a soldier in the Crimean army, and while working in the trenches around St. Petersburg he contracted rheumatism in its most severe form, and noticing that the girl's symptoms agreed with his, he pro-nounced her to be suffering from theum-atism. The parents of the girl were overjoyed, but were again cast down as they recalled the fact that the doctors had said they could do nothing for her. "Why," said the tramp, "do you want to bother the doctors about rheumatism ? Get a bottle of St Jacobs Oil. It cured me, and will cure many a case. I know plenty of old soldiers who have been cured of chronic rheumatism by the use of St. Jacobs Oil." The advice was taken, and Jacobs Oil." The advice was taken, and the so-called Electrical Girl is to-day prepared to add her testimony to the thousands of others who bear witness to. the efficacy of the Great German Remedy. To the Editor of the London Can. Advertiser DEAR SIR:-As you have given me a good deal of notoriety by writing of me as the Electrical Girl, I thought I would write to tell you of my condition.  (Here follows the recital which is summar-ized above.) My parents obtained a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil, and to its effects I owe the fact that I am now able to walk is claiming a good share of attention, and this incident was about to be forgotten ; but in due time the sorrow and alarm of relatives and neighbors bycame very great upon observing unfortunate Michael man-ifesting unmistakable signs of hydropho-bia which resulted in the poor man's death. This, as already stated, was a se-vere shock to the subject of my remarks. However, Mr. John Sullivan toiled and lived on in bic own undernsive way equ lived on in his own unobtrusive way, en-joying the love and esteem of all who joying the love and esteem of all, who knew him. In his case the force of habit could be seen with remarkable clear-ness; for the habits of industry adhered to him to the last, and notwithstanding his circumstances he seldom could be found unemployed. A singular example of presence was in the language of which he made use three'weeks before his decease. While attending the funeral of his brother-in-law, Mr. Buckley, another old settler, his remarks were on that occasion-"4"m the next will be laid in this cemetery," which proved true. The large concourse of people that followed his remains to the grave showed in some degree the respect in which the deceased degree the respect in which the deceased was held. The general regret at the loss washeld. The general regret at the loss of so worthy a citizen and so sincere a friend was modified by the recollection that few reach the ripe age at which he arrived, for he died in his 90th year. Mrs. Sullivan, who is considerably his junior, still lives. Many will miss the departed for the most conspicuous in church was the venerated white locks of old Mr. John Sullivan and in spite of

THE MITCHELL BAZAAR.

The Catholice of Mitchell held a bazaar during the closing days of the outgoing year. It turned out a grand success, and the Venerable Dean Murphy is to be con-gratulated on the success of his undertaking. The efforts made to render the bazaar a success were by no means confined to the members of the Catholic congregation. was compelled to leave Rome, and whether they would undertake to guarantee the safety of the Pope's churches and palaces after his departure. Cardinal Jacobini is known to be one of the most adroit dip-lomatigs now living. part not to draw special attention to the fact that to the Protestants of this town and vicinity much of the success of this bazaar is due. Many of them not only gave it their warm support, both financially and otherwise, but interested themselves so much as to take an active part in its carrying out. The generous manner of their bear. out. The generous manner of their bear-ing will not soon be forgotten by the Cath-olies of this parish. Auch of this support is attributed to the winning manners of our popular pastor, Rev. Father Shea, who is held in the highest respect by all classes. Although our Protestant friends did so much, still I must not forget to make meeting of our own people who make mention of our own people, regardless of time or expense, made so many sacrifices in order to make the bazaar a success. To one and all, I am surce, our good pastor is deepiy indebted, and the wish upper-most in the minds of all is that the day is not far distant when the Catholics of the parish will have the proud sat-isfaction of knowing that their church, which is one of the bandsomest in the diocese, is out of the handsomest in the diocese, is out of debt. The town band, under the leadership of Prof. Pratt, dis-coursed some excellent music during each evening of the basear, which had a very placing of the basear. pleasing effect ...

The net proceeds of the bazaar, after paying all expenses, will amount to the handsome sum of a little over $2,000, which will go a good ways towards liqui-dating the debt on the church. Everything passed off satisfactorily, no ill-feeling or arimony seeming to have worked its way among the congregation, so each in their different spheres did their share of the labor imposed more their share of the labor imposed upon them in a cheer-ful and pleasant manner, a consummation much to be wished for in future efforts of be same kind.
