

"PRETTY MINNIE LEE." ONLY A WOMAN'S STORY

How a New Yorker Whooped a Toronto Girl.

HIS $500 WORTH OF BLISS.

Everybody knows Julius Kaufman, the high grade exploiter of champagne. Kaufman was greatly smitten with the charms of Miss Minnie Lee, and it looked as though this lady, who comes from Toronto, would fully reciprocate his affection.

But there came a gloomy day. Miss Lee and Mr. Kaufman had a slight disagreement. The lady for some reason best known to herself, concluded that the winter season was much more enjoyable in Toronto than New York, and went home, with scant leaving of the wine agent.

It was then he called "Sammy" Newman into counsel. Mr. Newman exploits beer, but, although not a wine agent, is a natural authority upon affairs of the heart.

"Go to Canada and see her," was Mr. Newman's dictum. "Make propitiatory offerings, and yourself in the wrong. A man always is in cases like this, and the sooner he acknowledges the fact the better for him. Be wise, my boy, be wise. Go to Toronto and admit your error at once and ask for forgiveness."

"Will you come along and back me up?" queried Mr. Kaufman. "I need moral support in a matter like this. It is the first time in my life I ever had to admit I was in the wrong, and it comes hard, I can tell you. Still, I think you have the right idea, even if you do push beer."

And so it came about that these two gentlemen journeyed to Canada last week, but neither of them heeded the chill blast and other discomforts of life in a high latitude.

Before he left New York Mr. Kaufman laid in a stock of such things as he believed Miss Lee would regard with favor. There was a satchel which, with the engraved plate, cost $72. There were six pairs of silk hosiery worth $3.75 a pair, cakes of soap at $3 a throw, diamonds and other things which brought the total expenditure up to more than $300. All these he had with him when he landed in Toronto under the convoy of Mr. Newman.

THE LADY SMILED.

As soon as they had landed Mr. Kaufman sought out the home of Miss Lee. She smiled upon him. She also received the presents he had brought and listened to his explanations gratefully. She seemed to appreciate the fact that he had found gayest New York a dreary, deadly, dull thing without her presence. She was apparently altogether forgiving and complacent.

But this was not all. As Mr. Kaufman gazed upon her and basked in the radiance of her smile a realizing sense of the inadequacy of her gifts was impressed upon him. They were all too slight to show the full force of his affection. Hence he opened his heart and his pocketbook still further and bestowed $500 upon Miss Lee, accompanied by a fervent petition that she purchase some small souvenir of his happy reconciliation. The young woman smiled still more sweetly and Mr. Kaufman went away in a glow of bliss to report progress to Mr. Newman, who was waiting outside.

It took them some time to reach the hotel at which they were putting up, for the happy wine agent insisted upon buying all along the line.

HE GOT HIS PRESENTS BACK.

When they did get there the clerk handed Mr. Kaufman a bundle and a note. The note stated that Miss Lee felt herself greatly distressed by the presence of Mr. Kaufman in Toronto. It might lead to unkind remarks upon the part of her friends. If his protestations of regard were true he could show his feeling best by at once leaving the city and returning to New York. In the bundle was found all his gifts, even to the $3 cakes of soap, but she had been compelled to use the $500 cash, which she would send to him in New York as soon as she conveniently could.

That is why Mr. Kaufman looks sad and chastened these days, and is also the reason why he does not take Mr. Newman's advice on any subject, even to the backing of horses. Still he has his presents back, all except the cash, and what could a man ask more than that?

SHE WANTED TO SPIT.

An Old City Woman Gave the Railway Conductor a Fight.

Soon after the morning train going toward Buffalo, and packed with Coney country one-day not long since, says the City Herald, a middle-aged woman of very heavy build, who had boarded the train at that place, left her seat and, walking to the front door of the coach, opened it quickly and stepped out onto the platform. Surprised at her action, Conductor Turner, who had observed her movements, followed her in haste to see what it all meant. Ten minutes later, and after "Charley" had recovered his nerves sufficiently to talk, he told another passenger of what had taken place outside.

"Well, sir," he said, "when I got to the platform I looked about for the woman, and I'm bamed if she wasn't standing on the lowest step, hanging to the side rods and leaning out clear over the track. We were going at about a 25 mile clip, and the slightest jolt or curve would have thrown her headfirst from the car. I did not take time to get scared. I just stepped down behind her and secured a full Nelson hold about her waist before I dared speak."

"Then I asked her what in the world she was trying to do, and what do you suppose she said?"

"What did she say?" asked the passenger, who had been an interested listener.

"Well, sir, she looked around at me in a surprised and innocent sort of way, and says she:

"I came out here to spit."

"Well, go in the car and spit just as quick as you can," I said, and I tell you," said Charley, "I haven't had anything shake me like that in many a day."—Buffalo News.

But it Will Bring Hope to Many Silent Sufferers.

Nervous Prostration—Heart Weakness—Agonizing Pains and Misery Such as Woman Alone Endure Made the Life of Mrs. Thomas Sears a Burden.

Just a woman's story. Not strange because it happens every day; not romantic or thrilling, but just a story of misfortune and suffering such as is shared by too many women endure in silence.

For several years, Mrs. Thomas Sears, of St. Catharines, felt her illness gradually but surely gaining a firmer hold upon her system, and ultimately she almost despaired of recovery. To a reporter who called upon her, Mrs. Sears said:

"What I have suffered is almost beyond description. My illness has been gradually growing upon me, and eighteen months ago I found myself almost helpless. My nerves were shattered, my heart weak and my entire system seemingly broken down. I had no rest, night or day; the little sleep I did get did not refresh me. I was in constant agony, and only a woman can understand what I endured as I tried to do my household work. Any sudden noise would frighten me and leave me in a condition bordering on collapse. At times I experienced attacks of vertigo, and these would last a time to affect my memory. The least exertion would leave me almost breathless, and my heart would palpitate violently. I had no desire for food of any kind, and yet I had to force myself to eat to maintain life. I treated with three different doctors and spent much money in this way, but without avail, and I was in a condition bordering on despair. I was urged to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and in December, 1898, I consented to do so. I first got four boxes and noticed change for the better, but I had finished the second box. When the four boxes were finished there was a great change for the better, and I then procured another half dozen boxes. Before these were all used I was again enjoying the blessing of good health. There can be no doubt of my cure because months have passed since I discontinued taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and during that time I have never felt the slightest symptoms of the trouble, and I cheerfully and strongly urge other women who are suffering to use this wonderful medicine, feeling sure that it will cure them, as it did me."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a specific for all forms of weakness. The blood is vitalized, the nervous system is re-organized, irregularities are corrected, strength returns and disease disappears. So remarkable have been the cures performed by these little pills that their fame has spread to the far ends of civilization. Wherever you go you will find the most important article in every drug store to be Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

POWER OF HIGH EXPLOSIVES.

To Do Great Execution They Must Be Confined.

There is a widespread misapprehension in regard to the devastating effect of these high explosives, for when unconfined the effect even of large charges of them upon structures is comparatively slight. At the Navy Ordnance Proving Ground, so long ago as 1884, repeated charges of dynamite, varying from five pounds to one hundred pounds in weight, were detonated on the face of a vertical target consisting of eleven one-inch wrought-iron plates bolted to a twenty-inch oak plank, until 143 pounds of dynamite had been so detonated in contact with it, and yet the target remained practically uninjured, while at Bramfontein the accidental explosion of 55 tons of blasting gelatin, which was stored in railway vans, excavated but 30,000 tons of soft earth. This last may seem a terrible effect, but the amount of explosive involved was enormous, and the material one of the most energetic that we possess, while if we compare it with the action of explosives when confined its effect becomes quite moderate. Thus at Fort Lee, on the Hudson, but two tons of dynamite placed in a chamber in the rock, and exploded, brought down 100,000 tons of the rock; at Llanberis, Wales, two tons and a half of gelatin dynamite similarly placed threw out 180,000 tons of rock; and at the Talcan Mawr, in Wales, seven tons of gunpowder, placed in two chambers of the rock, dislodged from 125,000 to 200,000 tons of rock. We might cite many such examples, but on comparing these with the action of the gunpowder confined in the interior of the Talcan Mawr we find that the gunpowder confined in the interior of the Talcan Mawr was over forty-two times as efficient as the explosive gelatin on the surface at Bramfontein, while the dynamite at Fort Lee was over ninety times as destructive. Tons of Leaden Death.

Forty million rounds of small ammunition, 11,000 rounds of shrapnel, 1,000 rounds of common shell, 855 boxes of fuses and forty boxes of pistol ammunition were recently dispatched to the seat of war. This is one of the largest consignments of ammunition ever sent from Great Britain.

Alluring Oriental Shoppers.

Here are some extracts from advertisements in oriental papers: "Goods brought to you by the ship, and care as a loving wife bestows upon her husband." "We sell paper upon an elephant's hide." "The print of our books is clear as crystal, the matter shining as a single girl." "Customs are treated as politely as by rival steamship companies." "Our silk and satins are smooth as a lady's cheek and colored like the rainbow."

WANTED-A BOOKKEEPER.

The Ad. and the Reply it Called Forth.

An advertisement in a newspaper calling for "a first-class bookkeeper at $3 a week," drew forth the following lug:

I am a young man 37 years of age, having had a business experience of 24 years, being connected with the United States Embassy at Madrid, Spain, and feel confident if you will give me a trial I can prove my worth to you. I am not only an expert bookkeeper, but a stenographer and typewriter, excellent o.e.a. or any grade college graduate, but have several other accomplishments which might be desirable. I am an expert snow shoveller, a first class peanut roaster, have some knowledge of removing superfluous hair and clipping "puppy dog's ears" and giving your office that delightful "not thing To night," am a skillful chiropractor and practical farmer; can also cook, take care of horses, dress, sew, open oysters and repair umbrellas.

Being possessed of great physical beauty, I would not only be useful, but would be ornamental as well, lending to your office that delightful artistic charm that a Satsuma vase or stuffed billiard would. As to salary, I would feel I was robbing the widow and orphan if I was to take advantage of your munificence by accepting the too fabulous sum of $3 per week and would be entirely willing to give you my services for less; and in accepting $1.37 per week would give you an opportunity of not only increasing your donation to the church, pay your butcher and keep your six year old dog, but also to take advantage of your munificence by accepting the too fabulous sum of $3 per week and would be entirely willing to give you my services for less; and in accepting $1.37 per week would give you an opportunity of not only increasing your donation to the church, pay your butcher and keep your six year old dog, but also to take advantage of your munificence by accepting the too fabulous sum of $3 per week and would be entirely willing to give you my services for less; and in accepting $1.37 per week would give you an opportunity of not only increasing your donation to the church, pay your butcher and keep your six year old dog, but also to take advantage of your munificence by accepting the too fabulous sum of $3 per week and would be entirely willing to give you my services for less;
