

The Red Rose Flavor and Strength

NO Ceylon tea nor Indian tea alone can have the "rich fruity flavor" of Red Rose Tea, because neither variety in itself possesses all the qualities of strength, richness, delicacy, and fragrance. Each has its own peculiar qualities, but each has its weaknesses.

By combining the two in the Red Rose proportions, I produce a tea with the "rich fruity flavor" and strength of Red Rose Tea, a flavor and strength found in no brand of Ceylon alone.

CHAPTER X.

Seven o'clock next morning found us entering Table Bay, our eventful journey accomplished. Overhead towered the famous mountain from which the Bay derives its name, its top shrouded in its cloth. At its foot reposed the town with which my destiny seemed so vitally connected, and which I was approaching with so much trepidation. As I stood on the promenade deck and watched the land open out before me, my sensations would have formed a good problem for a student of character. With a perception rendered abnormally acute by my fear, I could discern the host of the port authorities putting off to us long before I should, at any other time, have been able to see it. It had yet to be discovered whether or not it contained a police official in search of me. As I watched her dipping her nose into the sea, and then tossing the spray off from either bow, in her haste to get to us, she seemed to me to be like a bloodhound on my track. The closer she came the more violently my heart began to beat, until it was as much as I could do to breathe. If only I could be certain that she was conveying an officer to arrest me, I felt I might find pluck enough to drop overboard and so end the pursuit for good and all. But I did not know, and the doubt upon the point decided me to remain where I was and brave the upshot.

As I watched her I heard a footstep upon the deck behind me. I turned my head to find that it was Miss Maybourne. She came up beside me, and having glanced ashore at the city nestled at the foot of the great mountain, and then at the launch coming out to meet us, turned to address me. "Mr. Wrexford," she began, "I am going to ask you to do me a great favor, and I want you to promise me to grant it before I tell you what it is."

"I'm afraid I can hardly do that," I answered. "But if you will tell me what it is, I will promise to do it for you if it is in any way possible."

"It is this," she said, "I want you, in the event of my father's meeting me, to take me home. Oh don't say no, Mr. Wrexford, I want you so much to do it. Surely you will not deny me the last request I make to you?"

She looked so pleadingly into my face that, as usual, it required all my courage not to give way to her. But the risk was too great for me even to contemplate such a thing for a moment. My rescue of the daughter of Cornelius Maybourne, and my presence in Cape Town, would soon leak out, and then it would be only a matter of hours before I should be arrested. Whatever my own inclinations may have been, I felt there was nothing for it but for me to refuse.

"I am not my own master in this matter," I replied, with a bitterness which must have shown her how much I earnestly I was. "It is impossible that I remain so long in the place. There are the most vital reasons in the world against it. I can only ask you to believe that."

I saw large tears rise in her eyes, though she turned hurriedly away in the hope that I should not see them. To see her weep, however, was more than I could bear, and under the influence of her trouble my resolutions began to give way. After all, if I was destined to be arrested, I might just as well be taken at Mr. Maybourne's house as elsewhere—perhaps better. Besides, it was more than likely, in the event of no warrant having been issued, Mr. Maybourne, whose influence I had been told, was enormous in the colony, might prove just the very friend of all others I wanted. At any rate, if I were not taken before the time came for going ashore, I would do as she wished. I told her this, and she immediately thanked me and went down below again.

Just as I announced my decision the launch came alongside, and a moment later her passengers were ascending the accommodation ladder, which had been lowered to receive them. They were three in number, and included—so I was told—by a gentleman who stood beside me—the harbor master, the officer of health, and another individual, about whose identity my informant was not quite assured. I looked at the last-named with no little apprehension; my nervousness endowed him with all the attributes of a police official, and my mind's eye could almost discover the manacles reposing in his coat pocket. I trust I may never pass through such another agonizing few minutes as I experienced then. I saw the party step on to the spar deck, where they shook hands with the purser and chief officer, and watched them as they ascended to the promenade deck and made their way towards the skipper. Here they were received by the skipper, I leaned against the rails, sick with fear and trembling in every limb, expecting every moment to feel a heavy hand upon my shoulder, and to hear a stern voice saying in my ear—"Gilbert Pennefather, arrest you on a charge of murder."

But minute after minute went by, and still not one came to speak the words. The ship, which had been brought to a standstill to pick up the boat, had now got under weigh again, and we were approaching closer and closer to the docks. In less than half an hour I should know my fate.

As soon as we were safely installed in dock, and everyone was looking after his or her luggage, saying "good-bye" and preparing to go ashore, I began to look about me for Miss Maybourne. Having found her we went

4,500 CONVERSIONS.

The Apparently Known Results of the Torrey Mission—Dr. Torrey's Last Sermon in Toronto.

Toronto, Jan. 29.—"There has been a wonderful work in Toronto, and I am well satisfied with the results. The whole city is moved and the country round as well. The newspapers have done a great work by their reports of my meetings, which have gone all over the country."

This was Dr. Torrey's pronouncement upon the results of the 29 days' campaign he has waged in Toronto. Beginning with the huge rally at his opening meeting on Sunday, the last day of the old year, there have been compassed within the space of those 29 days, 53 addresses by Dr. Torrey before Massey Hall audiences. Also there have been held a score or more of church and mission house meetings, so that the revival movement has been responsible for the holdings of possibly 75 gatherings.

Dr. Torrey estimates that there were about 4,500 conversions in all, and says that he considers the proportion of converts to the attendance at meetings was quite up to, if not above, the average of other cities. He remarked that a great many conversion other than those made manifest by profession, would show in increased church attendance.

Prayers For Dying Son.

Before beginning his address last night, Dr. Torrey said he had a pathetic request for prayer to read. It was from a mother whose son had only a short time to live. His life had been spent in worldly pleasure, and it was desired that he might "see the light." There were many fervent exclamations of "Amen" from the crowded platform.

"Now, as I shall preach for the last time in Toronto, may the Holy Ghost come upon me," prayed Dr. Torrey. "To-day and To-morrow" was the theme of his address. As might be guessed, it was a plea against vacillation in entering on the Christian life. "To-day is the wise man's day, to-morrow is the fool's day," said the preacher, oracularly. There was no speedier road to triumph than by making a start to-day, and shorter road to failure than when one realized that thing ought to be done, and said it should be done to-morrow.

The world didn't satisfy. If men who had tried the world and had tried Christ were asked, they would say they had found satisfaction only in the Christian life. "I wouldn't be surprised any night to be down to sleep and wake up in heaven," said Dr. Torrey. Addressing his hearers, he said: "Who knows whether you will wake up in Toronto or wake up in hell?"

The speaker concluded amid a hushed silence.

MORE THAN ALLY.

Nicholas Toasts German Kaiser in Very Friendly Words.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 29.—A new grouping of the powers of Europe, with Germany and Russia arrayed side by side in the closest friendship, and the mismatched alliance of the empire, with Republican France lagging in the rear, was forecasted by the words of Emperor Nicholas as a gala luncheon at Tsarskoe-Selo Saturday in honor of Emperor William's birthday.

Rising to his feet before a brilliant company of Russian and German representatives to propose a toast to the German Emperor, Emperor Nicholas lifted his glass and said slowly and distinctly, as if weighing every word—the health of the health of the Emperor of Germany and King of Prussia, my brother and very dear friend."

The phrases chosen were significant enough in themselves, the Emperor in previous years having proposed the health of the Emperor King without the qualifying expression of brotherhood and friendship, but, turning to Herr Von Schoan, the German Ambassador, who was standing at his right, the Emperor grasped him by the hand, and is reported to have said: "Frere est plus que allie" (Brother that's more than ally).

ROBIN'S POLICY.

Government Control of Public Utilities in Province of Manitoba.

Carberry, Man., Jan. 29.—The provincial Conservative convention, which came to a close Saturday, passed a series of resolutions embodying the principles for which Conservatives in Manitoba stand.

Here are the main planks of the platform of Manitoba Conservatives: Government control of public utilities.

Free rural delivery where conditions warrant.

Control of all lands for school purposes.

Rail route to Hudson Bay. Non-political commission for trans-continental railway.

No entangling alliance between federal and provincial governments.

Establishment of technical schools.

Vladivostok Is Orderly.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 29.—Count Witte yesterday received a telegram from Gen. Linevitch, reporting that order prevails at Vladivostok, where the mutinous sailors have been disarmed.

Bank Teller Has Smallpox.

Theftford, Jan. 28.—Mr. McArthur of the Sovereign Bank here has been taken down with smallpox, and moved to an isolated building.

He who commits injustice is even more wretched than he who suffers it.

Dear Mother

Your little ones are a constant care in Fall and Winter weather. They will catch cold. Do you know about Shiloh's Consumption Cure, the Lung Tonic, and what it has done for so many? It is said to be the only reliable remedy for all diseases of the air passages in children. It is absolutely harmless and pleasant to use. It is guaranteed to cure your money. It is returned. The price is 25c. per bottle, and all dealers in medicine sell.

SHILOH

This remedy should be in every household.

SOME PEOPLE DRINK IT.

De Tanque—You would be surprised to know how much water is wasted in the big cities.

"O'Saquo—I suppose so. Lots of people drink it, you know."

Danger next door

Perhaps its diphtheria or scarlet fever. Keep your own home free from the germs of these diseases. Prevent your children from having them. You can do it with our Vapo-Cresolene. Put some Cresolene in our vaporizer, light the lamp beneath, and let the vapor fill the sleeping room. Have the children sleep in the room every night, for it's perfectly safe, yet not a single disease germ can live in this vapor. Ask your doctor about it.

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists, or sent express prepaid 25c. per bottle. A Vapo-Cresolene outfit, including bottle and complete outfit, $1.00. Send for free illustrated booklet. Address: Miles Co., Ltd., Agents, 28 St. James St., Montreal.

QUITE STEADY.

Father—But I am afraid the young man is of fickle nature.

Daughter—Oh, no, he isn't papa. Why, he has smoked the same brand of cigarettes for nearly six months.

A MILLION NEEDLES

COULD NOT INFLICT THE TORTURE WOMEN SUFFER FROM HEADACHES

Headache is not in itself a disease, but a symptom or accompaniment of other disease, principally those of the stomach, liver and bowels, such as Constipation, Dyspepsia, Liver Trouble, Bad Blood, Female Complaints, General Debility and Weakness. Headache is common to both sexes, but more frequently afflicts females.

The varieties of headache most common are sick or bilious headache, nervous headache, headache from constipation, debility or indigestion, periodical and spasmodic headache. Undoubtedly the cause must be removed before permanent relief can be had.

Burdock Blood Bitters

removes the cause of the headache, and not only does this, but it also restores the entire system to healthy action and buoyant vigor.

"I was troubled with headache for a number of years, but could get nothing to help me. I procured a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and finding it was doing me so much good, I got two more. I am now fully cured and think there is nothing in the world like Burdock Blood Bitters for headache."
