The Guilty Party.

BY RUTH CARRON.

One hears a great deal of protest from time to time against the owners of houses and apartments and the hostesses of boarding houses and lodging houses who bar children. Now it surely must be pretty trying to find one's self shut out of a home which one is perfectly willing to pay for, simply because he has dared to help keep the race alive. But I wonder if the landlords and hostesses deserve all our blame. It seems to me that the ill-bred children and the careless parents who bring down odium on all children deserve at least half the blame. Surely he who abuses a privilege is just as much at fault when the privilege is withdrawn, as he who withdraws it.

A beautiful apartment house was recently put up in our town. Families with children were not excluded and two moved in. One family had three children; they were well brought up and did not cause any trouble. The other family had but one child, a little girl about six years old who had been as thoroughly spoiled as a fond and foolish mother could spoil her. This child was an inveterate tease and one of her most pleasing tricks was to get out on the lawn in front of the house and then argue at the top of her lungs with her mother at the third floor window.

"What are you doing down there? I told you to stay in the house."
"I want to go down to Ruth's."
"I told you that you couldn't. Come right back up here."
"I don't want to. Can't I go down to Ruth's for just a little while?"
"No, Margery. Come right upstairs. I'll tell your father if you don't."
"Can I have some candy if I come up?"
"Perhaps so. You come in and I'll see."

I have cut this dialogue rather short on account of limited space, but some of the tenants assured me that Margery and her mother were troubled by no limits, and that such dialogues frequently lasted fifteen minutes at a time, interrupting naps, rendering concentration on work or play totally impossible, and generally making things miserable.

The result of this and other displeasing habits of the youngster, quite too numerous to mention, was that the two tenants gave notice and the landlord finally had to ask the offenders to leave. The rule has now been made that no families with children will be accepted in that apartment house.

"It isn't that I don't like children. I love them," said the hostess of a boarding house in reference to her refusal to take a family with two children who will drive away the rest of my guests.

Housework Drudgery!

Housework is drudgery for the weak woman. She brushes, dusts and scrubs, or is on her feet all day attending to the many details of the household, her back aching, her temples throbbing, nerves quivering under the stress of pain, possibly dizzy feelings. Sometimes rest in bed is not refreshing, because the poor tired nerves do not permit of refreshing sleep. The real need of weak, nervous women is satisfied by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and as Mrs. Briggs and others testify:

It Makes Weak Women Strong and Sick Women Well.

This "Prescription" removes the cause of women's weaknesses, heals inflammation and absorption. It invigorates the nerves, encourages the appetite and induces restful sleep.

Mrs. BRIGGS, Grand of 209 N. Washington St., Delphos, Ohio, writes: "Having taken your 'Favorite Prescription' for a 'bad case' of intestinal disease and constipation with woman's ills, for which I was almost unable to do anything, I think I am safe in saying that there are no remedies in the world like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Purifying Lotion Tablets.' I am now enjoying the best of health, and thank Dr. Pierce for his wonderful medicines which have done me a world of good."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets for Biliousness

classic rather than otherwise and are greatly varied. There is very often a machine-pleated foundation skirt, above which the draperies are wrapped about the figure.

A few tailored suits show a triple volants en forme. The three pieces of cloth cut on the bias assume a flounced effect without really being flouncings. A blue color skirt is arranged this way, having small buttons and strap-pleats of braid on one side of the cut-up flounces.

For the young girl, coat dresses are attracting much attention. These models usually have the white satin-faced Robespierre collar, turn-back cuffs and belts of the dress material edged with white. Sometimes the patent leather belts with white kid facings are used.

A fascinating fashion in tea gowns is the Watteau style. It gives scope for color harmonies. The newest Watteau gown is made with a box pleat from the shoulders, hanging loosely from the center of the back, and below the hips it is draped in graceful folds.

A very chic costume is made with a soft white satin skirt, with a tunic of emerald-green pleated messaline de soie and a black antique lace coat in some portions.

A skirt of broadcloth, accompanied by a coat of plain or brocaded velvet, is very smart. Moire is seen combined with cloth and with velvet as are brocaded silks with plain silks.

Rarely is either a costume, or a suit of the same material.

There is very little left of the panier. The new draperies affect the

That Corn Will Go for Good

It will be ended forever in 48 hours, if you use a Blue-jay plaster. The pain ends instantly when you apply it. Then the B & B wax gently loosens the corn. In two days it comes out, root and all. No soreness, no discomfort. Nothing else known does what Blue-jay does. That's why millions use it. You will never let corns disturb you when you find this out. Nor will you ever pare them. Paring takes off just the top of the corn. And a slip of the blade means infection - sometimes a dangerous one. The right way - the easy way - is to end them completely with this famous Blue-jay plaster. Prove it today.

A in the picture is the soft B & B wax. It loosens the corn. B protects the corn, stopping the pain at once. C is the adhesive on the top. It is narrow and comfortable. D is rubber adhesive to fasten the plaster on.

with hemstitched net collar, revers and frills. With this is worn a white hat lined with black and trimmed with white feathers.

Umbrella handles of unique design are popular just now; for instance, a monkey's head, which rolls its eyes when a spring is touched, while others of a more costly kind, being of amber, jade and rock crystal, and sometimes they are studded with real gems.

Among young girls many styles of coiffure are in fashion at present. There is a tendency to dress the hair in a high knot on the top of the head. The low pompadour and a coil held in place by a bow is very becoming. Generally speaking, everything is soft in hairdressing just now.

The new suit can be selected from a wide variety of materials. In addition to the staples, such as serges and chevots, the lines include wool velour, both plain and cut stripes, zibeline, panne cloth, peau de souris, broadcloth, ratine, bedford cord, worsteds and mannish effects.

There is no sign of black satin going out of fashion. The gowns in black satin possesses a fascination which is not equalled in fancy silks. Nor are they somber, for they can be relieved by white lace or malines or two-inch bands of white mousseline which give a simplicity which is very appealing.

How to Grow Hair.

It has been proved that Henna leaves contain the ingredients that will positively grow hair. That they contain this long-looked-for article is proved every day.

This preparation is called SALVIA and is being sold with a guarantee to cure Dandruff and to grow hair in abundance. Being daintily perfumed SALVIA makes a most pleasant hairdressing. McMurdo & Co., your druggist, is the first to import this preparation into St. John's and a large generous bottle, can be procured for 50c.

Why is He Not Paid?

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—We understand that Mr. Thos. Croucher, Keeper of Point Verde Light House, a most competent official, has been obliged since the Fog Alarm was established at Point Verde to take his watch in looking after it, as well as attending to his other duties as lightkeeper, and we learn that he gets no compensation from the Government for performing this extra work although he is the responsible party. If this is so, a great injustice is being done particularly as the newly appointed sub-collector at Placentia is receiving $300.00 more than was ever given before to a collector at Placentia. Why is this? It is certainly an outrage but only one of many for which the Government will be held accountable for in 1913.

Perhaps the Daily News correspondent "Fisherman" who seems so much interested in the welfare of the people of Placentia Bay and the Cape Shore, that he wants a bridge across the Gut for their special benefit. (He has no personal interest in this, "perish the thought") may investigate this matter and use as he calls, his powerful influence with the Government to have justice done. He ought advise having the extra $300.00 taken from the one who is overpaid for his services and have it given to the other who works hard and gets nothing. Thanking you Mr. Editor in anticipation for space, I remain, Yours truly,
JUSTICE
Placentia, Sept. 17th, 1912.

Tea.

BY H. L. MANN.

Tea is a placid, untroubled beverage which is served to people who wish to become thoroughly heated through before retiring. For cups of vigorous green tea, swallowed in a molten state, will bring a man's temperature up to 104 degrees in the shade and allow him to crawl in between cold sheets without throwing a relay of chills.

Tea is made in Japan by barefooted hired men, who beat it into a state of insensibility with their feet, after which it is shipped to this country and served to the accompaniment of a high handshake.

Tea growers are used as horrible examples of foreign pauper labor and become very effective in bolstering a high protective tariff, as they seldom pay over 15 cents a day gross.

Owing to the scarcity of men and women in this country who go about barefooted, the tea industry has never secured much of a hold here.

Tea is a favorite drink of the bird of prey known as the social butterfly and has taken the place of frappe as an incentive to small talk. Some of the smallest talk we ever heard in our life came from a garrulous guest who was flooded with native eloquence and Oolong tea.

The best way to prepare tea for the table is to catch it when it is ripe, mix a few strands with boiling water and pour without straining. This will cause the tea to rise to the surface so that people can tell it from plain hot water at the first glance.

While the guests are picking out the tea and depositing it upon their butter plates they will be too busy to empty the olive dish, thus effecting quite a saving.

The English people drink tea nine times a day and then perspire in broad, Anglo-Saxon accents.

Women drink more tea than men and prefer black tea to any other variety, as it will keep them awake longer and allow them to finish something they started to say the day before. Men seldom drink tea to excess, and never without crossing their fingers.

The Water Company suggested that two men be engaged at the inlet instead of one. It was proposed by Councillor Ryan that two men be employed at $39 a month and $32 per month, respectively.

The Engineer reported that seven extra arc lights will be placed on different streets in the city by the Reid Company.

The Health Officer reported one case of typhoid, two of scarlet fever and three of diphtheria for the past week in the city.
