A Famous Scottish Sculptor.

Sir Joseph Noel Paton, the famous sculptor, historical artist, archaeologist, and poet, was born at Dunfermline, Scotland, on December 13, 1821, and although his art education was of the most desultory kind, the circumstances of his childhood and early youth tended in no ordinary way to the development of his artistic perceptions. His father, a Fellow of the Scottish Society of Antiquaries, and well known in connection with the damask manufactures of Dunfermline, and as a collector of Scottish antiquities—surrounded his children, from their earliest years, with old books, old prints, old pictures, casts from the antique, and whatever objects could stimulate the imagination and expand the mind. The locality in which the family resided, "Wothers Abbey," a small but secluded, and singularly picturesque spot, one of the bends of the glen where stand the venerable ruins of the Abbey and Royal Palace of Dunfermline, with its burn, rocks, and thickets—was calculated to encourage romantic habits of thought, and to foster a passion for the minute beauties of inanimate nature, which it is evident, to a considerable extent, tinged all his productions. Through his mother, also, a lady of great nobility and unselfishness of character, Sir Noel could claim close kinship with the chiefs of one of the most ancient and chivalrous clans of the North, whose deeds of daring in the Jacobite ranks supplied the earliest subjects for his childish pencil. In 1845 he gained the premium in the Westminster Hall competition for his fresco, "The Spirit of Religion," and later became a member for Scotland to Queen Victoria, who, in the following year conferred on him a knighthood. He won great success by his well-known pictures, "The Pursuit of Pleasure" and "Mors Janua Vitae"; but it was not only as an artist that he won his reputation, for his two published books, "Poems by a Painter" and "Spindrift," were both most favourably noticed by the press in England and Scotland. He died in 1901.

Monsieur:
For 15 days in the month of January I was suffering with pain of rheumatism in the foot. I tried all kinds of remedies but nothing did me any good. One person told me about MINARD'S LINIMENT; as soon as I tried it the Saturday night, the next morning I was feeling very good; I tell you this remedy is very good. I could give you a good certificate any time that you would like to have one. If any time I come to hear about any person sick of rheumatism, I could tell them about this remedy.
Yours truly,
ERNEST LEVEILLE.

Revives Lace Making.

The lace making industry of Northern France is gradually reviving. Before the war the French lace workers were centered in Valenciennes and Bailloul areas, both of which remained under almost constant shell fire during the entire war. First the German shells wrecked the humble cottages and the busy mills, then destruction was completed when the Allied cannon harassed the retreating German troops. Now after four years of economy the world is anxious to see the pretty things which characterized feminine dress before the tragic days of 1914. The lace workers of Ireland cannot satisfy the demand, and even if they could the Irish does not appeal to all tastes.

Unvisited by Whites.

A rival to Sheshuan the city unvisited by white men, in Niri Padam, the mountain stronghold of the warlike Mishmis, whose country lies northward of India, beyond the frontier of Assam. This, too, has never been visited by white men, though recently aviators have flown over it, and its somewhat tawdry secrets have in this way been at least laid bare. Rima, another mystery city in this same region, has been entered only once by a European, when the intrepid Needham penetrated there at the risk of his life disguised as a native fakir. He failed, however, in an attempt to reach Tawang, another holy city, situated about five days' march from Rima, and it remains unvisited by white men to this day.
