FRIDAY EV'NG, APRIL 17, 1874.

The Expulsion of Riel. Parliament has done a righteous et in passing a motion for the ex-culsion of Riel. After a debate exact in passing a motion for the expulsion of Riel. After a debate extending over two days, Mr. Bowell's motion was carried by a majority of political renegade or scapegrace in fifty-six, 124 voting for the motion and 68 against it. Only 27 voted for Mr. Mousseau's motion recommend-ing that an amnesty be granted, nearly all of whom were from Que-bec, with the exception of one or two from the Maratime Provinces. For Mr. Holton's motion, in favour of de-ferring action till the Committee on North West affairs had reported, 76 voted yea, and 117 nay. Among the members who voted against the original resolution moved by Mr.

Bowell, there were only two members from Ontario—as far as we can bers from Ontario—as far as we can bers from Ontario—as far as we can be on the original of the second of the original of the second of the original of the original of the second of the original origi bers from Ontario—as far as we can judge—Mr. M. Cameron, of South been instituted in almost every contario, and Mr. J. O'Donohue, of of importance on the Continent, a the name of Henry Bergh has been immediately followed by another a household and the same of the same o immediately followed by another, which was carried without a division, instructing the Speaker to issue his writ for a new election for Provencher in the room of Riel. The question now is whether the electors in this constituency will take up Riel again, and re-elect him in the face of vote of expulsion just passed by the House.

The great mass of the people of this Dominion will cordially endorse the action of Parliament, which by its vote has declared that Riel is rant the formation of a society that under indictment for murder, that he is a fugitive from justice, and until he is tried by a jury of his countrymen, he is unworthy to sit among the representatives of the people. Having vindicated its honor, Parlia ment has nothing more to do with him, and it is now left to the autho rities to effect his arrest if they can.

The Tariff.

It was not to be expected that the ew tariff which came in force on Wednesday would please everybody —for it is not possible to frame any tariff which will be universally accep-table. The Government had a most difficult task before them, and with town teemsters on their way home one or two exceptions—which we the other night with their teams after one or two exceptions—which we shall refer to by and bye—they have done the best they could under the circumstances. In considering the changes it must be borne in mind that the first and foremost thing the Finance Minister had to do was to make up the deficit in the revenue. make up the deficit in the prevenue, and raise sufficient funds to meet the obligations of the Dominion. Additional taxes were, therefore, absolutely necessary, and the question was how to raise the required amount, and at the same time bear as light on the people as possible. Mr. Cartwright calculates that from the increased duties on liquors and tobacco, he will realize $1,250,000. No she can reasonably grumble at the enhanced duty on these articles, for not to say anything of their injurious qualities, they are to say the least luxuries, and can very well bear to be taxed to even a higher figure than they are at present. Then on silks, satins, velvets, jewellery and the same time bear and that the authorities will east luxuries, and can very well bear to be taxed to even a higher figure than they are at present. Then on silks, satins, velvets, jewellery and the same time bear and that the authorities will exercise due dhigence in regard to this subject, feeling that it is not necessary to enumerate.

We would not do any orfe the individual value of sufficient thought: but to ensure the measure of attention to this subject which its importance demands, cases of fool hardiness and desire of display should be dealt with as harshly as the law allows. Cases like that of the individual who bears how hard he can example of, in order that those warned how they deal with the animals given mands are sary to enumerate.

We would not do any orfe the individual way that these cruelties are the result of wilfulness. They usually arise from want of sufficient thought: but to ensure the measure thought: but to ensure the measure are the result of wilfulness. They usually arise from want of sufficient thought: but to ensure the measure thought: but to ensure the measure are the result of wilfulness. They usually arise from want of a sufficient thought: but to ensure the measure thought: but to ensure the measure are the result of wilfulness.

We would not do any offe the individual who she is how the individual who she is ho silks, satins, velvets, jewellery and other articles of that kind-which be classed as luxuries-Mr. Cartwright expects to raise $400,000. Thus over one half of the deficit will be collected on articles deemed luxpries. The average cost of sugars will not be increased, so that the only burden that will be generally felt will be a portion of that arising out of the unenum rated list and the $400,000 on tea and coffee. taxes will thus be made to bear lightly on the people at large, and on the price of teas, coffees and sugar, hich are articles of every day us there will be scarcely any perceptible

What we find fault with is the policy of the Government in regard to Canadian manufactures. In dealing with this special interest, the Government has adopted a sort of middle course, the object seemingly being not to adopt either the promiddle course, the object seemingly being not to adopt either the protective or free-trade policy, but simply to collect revenue. Most of our manufacturers, we think would have been satisfied with a protective duty of twenty-five, or at least twenty per cent, but the Government instead of following this course, have simply increased the duty from 15 to 162 per cent—an advance so small as practically to be of very little service. This, we suppose, was granted on the principle that half a loaf is better than no bread, but the slight advantage conferred on the manufacturers of certain articles, such as musical instruments, sewing machines, &c., is more than counterbalanced by the additional duty imposed on articles which they have to import, and which enter largely into the manufacture of their goods. The Government in this matter have shown a want of consideration, and we shall be greatly surprised if the manufacturers interested do not bring their grevances before the Finance Minister ere this matter is finally settled.

Mr. Devlin, of the Court of Queen's

Mr. Devlin, of the Court of Queen's Bench, has moved for a new trial in the Witness libel suit, and desired that the motion be argued before a full Bench during the present term. We cordially endorse the following from the Dundas Banner in reference to the statement made the other day by Mr. Mackenzie that Mr. Wm. Mc Dougall hadbeen temporarly engaged by Mr. Jenkins, our Jeneral Agent in England:—" We beg to suggest that the Reform Government at Ottapolitical renegade or scapegrace in preference to appointing a decent Reformer to the office. 'Love your enemies' is a Bible injunction, and verily, Grit Governments are proficient at heaping coals of fire on the heads of those who have systematically traduced and defamed them. But we suppose it is all right."

Cruelty to Animals.

Ever since the organization of the "Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to animals," the good work a household word suggestive of all that is merciful and considerate. These societies educate popular opi nion on the treatment of dumb ani-mals, urge legislation in their behalf, and in cases of owners who ill-use their beasts, proceed summarily with their punishment by law. Why this institution does not extend its influence to small cities and towns does not appear. It may be that the feeling of the people has not been sufficiently aroused to war requires a large amount of zeal and considerable money, and which entails work that is as thankless as that of an inspector of illicit rum selling Yet it cannot be denied that there is any amount of room in a town the size of Guelph—and a sufficient field in many smaller places—to occupy the attention of such a society. The cases of cruelty that do occur among us come to our knowledge only casually, but to show that scenes of disgusting brutality are sometimes enacted, we have only to cite the case of a teamster who was seen the other day ascending a steep hill seated on a load of 1,500 feet of lumber, drawn by a single horse; two

We trust that the authorities will exercise due diligence in regard to this subject, feeling that if an occasional case is brought before the Police Magistrate, the effect will be to render less frequent the occurrence of such cruelties as we have cited.
