This Eastern gown shows the graceful drapery so much the vogue of the moment, and the one-sided effect which is as good as it was last spring. The strange oriental sash tied just above the knees gives a bizarre touch.

A typographical error occurred in a report of an interview with several members of the Women's Canadian Club in The Albertan Saturday morning. It was stated—"Among the members who expressed disapproval of this clause (the clause in the Canadian club's constitution which limits the membership) are Mrs. Loughheed, Mrs. Woodhall, Mrs. Sycamore and others." The statement was originally written—"Among the members of the club who expressed disapproval of this clause of the constitution are Mrs. Langford, Mrs. Woodhall, Mrs. Sycamore, Mrs. Kirby, Mrs. Clark and others." Miss Evelyn Sinclair, 1011 Ninth-avenue west, was a hostess of a shillibee party on Saturday afternoon in honor of Miss Elizabeth Bailey. About thirty guests were present at the tea hour, and "chaperoned" the guest of honor with a variety of useful and dainty gifts. Mrs. Sinclair received her daughter's presents in the drawing room, and wore a becoming gown of black silk richly trimmed with white lace. Miss Sinclair wore a tailored gown of cream serge with Copenhagen blue trimmings; and Miss Bailey a gown of old rose satin with a headed tunic of black net. The guests were admitted by Miss Helen Smith. Mrs. H. H. and Mrs. Donald Carter presided at the tea table, and Quaintes were served by the Misses Sinclair.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS' TRAINING INSTITUTE

Classes-Every Tuesday Night for Ten Weeks Under Efficient Teachers The organization meeting of the Teachers' Training Institute for the Sunday School teachers of Calgary, will be held in the public library tomorrow night at 8 p.m. The aim of the institute is to increase the efficiency of the teachers in the Sunday Schools, and the Calgary Institute will according to the present outlook be one of the largest held in Western Canada. The institute will meet on Tuesday nights for the next ten weeks. The courses of study include those suited to every teacher, whether they be teachers of elementary or adult classes. The most efficient plans of organization and methods of management will be presented to the superintendent and officers, while the teachers of the elementary classes, the "teen girls" and the "teen boys," will study the latest and most practical methods of teaching so far as they apply to Sunday Schools. Each meeting will start at 8 p.m., when some prominent Bible student will conduct Bible study until 8:45. At this time the institute will be divided into classes for the course in which the student is interested. The sessions close at 9:30. The institute is under the auspices of the Alberta Sunday School association, and they have secured leaders who are especially qualified to conduct studies in each particular course. Miss E. Martin, of the Normal School, will direct the elementary course. Miss E. J. McPhail, of the High School, will direct the studies for teachers of "Teen boys," and Mr. G. S. Dingle will lead the course for superintendents and officers. The number of students already enrolled has exceeded the expectations of the promoters of the institute, and the interest shown bids well for the efficiency of local Sunday School teachers.

NO PLACE FOR CULTURED WOMEN IN CANADA

Statement Caused in England by Government Credited to Wife of Premier London, Sept. 28.—The London and one organization in Great Britain which aim to transfer the English women to Canada, have been surprised at the statement attributed to Mrs. Borden on the eve of her departure to Canada. "The cultured Englishwoman should never think of going to Canada," the wife of the Canadian prime minister is reported to have said. "The Dominion is not the country for her, unless she is going out to family friends, or has some very definite purpose in going there. We can, however, always do with women who are prepared to rough it." This statement has created much concern among the associations which specially cater to the educated women and who are never tired of assuring them of the opportunities and advantages which they believe that among the most urgent needs of the Dominion is a percentage of cultured people. "The majority of people who go to Canada from Great Britain belong to the lower classes," Mrs. Borden is reported to have said, "and they leave their homes to go on a missionary, a builder of empire, and for imperial architecture purposes." The impression in these circles is that Mrs. Borden has been incorrectly reported, and they are actively awaiting some modification of her alleged assertion. Indeed, it is understood that the English nobility, whose principal work is to encourage the cultured woman to go to Canada has communicated with Mrs. Borden.

WOMEN SMOKE CIGARS

Washington Post.—Cigar dealers in this city yesterday confirmed the report from Kansas City, Chicago and New York, that society women are acquiring the habit of smoking cigars, and that the sale of cigars is falling off. The women who are now purchasing cigars are the same customers who formerly called for cigarettes, they said. The women have become so addicted to the use of the "weed" that cigarettes no longer satisfy their cravings for tobacco. William J. Dempsey, chief clerk of one of the most prominent retail firms in Washington, said yesterday that the women who purchase cigars at his store are among the most prominent in Washington. During my five years' stay in the capital city," said Mr. Dempsey, "I have seen the female taste for molting grow from the weakest cigarette to the strongest and bluestem cigar. I have in mind one woman who has been buying tobacco ever since she was a child. At that time she used to purchase one pack of ladies' cigarettes a week, later she would drop in a couple of weeks, and the habit grew with time. Before the end of the year she purchased 25 boxes within a single week. These cigarettes now do not apparently satisfy her tastes. This is only one instance, and I am

ENGLISH WOMEN DRESS BETTER THAN EVER

London, Sept. 28.—"English women of all classes have dressed better and more attractively this year than ever before," said a leading West-end draper, when questioned on the subject yesterday. This is due to the fact that the prices of silk blouses, ribbons, and the lighter grades of taffetas, foulards, crepe de chine, and mull, so much favored for summer and evening wear, have fallen to a figure that tempt even the staunchest purist. Yet, I wonder how many women realize that these materials are made from wood pulp, and haven't even the remotest connection with the silkworm or the mulberry leaf? It is a fact, though, just the same. Manufacturers both in England and on the Continent have been experimenting with wood pulp fibre as a substitute for the product of the silkworm for the past three years, but it was only last week that they finally succeeded in overcoming all the drawbacks to its use. There are now half a dozen firms engaged in the manufacture of all kinds of 'silk' goods from wood pulp fibre, including laces, trimmings and stockings. One of these firms employs 1,000 hands, and turns out 23,000 pounds of yarn weekly. The output of this plant, however, is only a small part of the artificial product consumed by the manufacturers of all the different commodities in which it is used.

WOODPULP FIBRE IS TAKING THE PLACE OF PRODUCT OF SILKWORM

The necessity for the substitution grew naturally out of the enormous and constantly growing demand for silk materials. There was a time when a woman got a 'black dress' and wore it for years, and only people of means possessed this one silk dress. But now especially in the summer time, almost every woman wears a 'silk' frock of some sort, or at least a 'silk' blouse. The saddest over-worn silk dress is not so much a liability to keep pace with this increasing demand. Moreover, the cry was not only for more silk, but for cheaper silk as well. Even the men entered the field with a growing demand for silk hose and underwear. "The natural solution, of course, was adulteration. As a consequence, I dare say there is now no such thing as absolutely pure silk on the market, while every manufacturer knows it is a physical impossibility to dye black silks without adding some weight to the materials. It is also impossible to detect the real quality of silk in a garment, the only way to acquire this knowledge being to submit it to a chemical analysis. Women buy from style and color without knowledge of the quality. There isn't one who can tell the difference between two pieces of silk on a counter, though one piece may be worth 50 cents a yard more than the other. This fact made it more easy for the manufacturer to find a substitute for silk—something that would look like silk, glisten like silk, feel like silk, and perhaps not be silk at all. The chief trouble with the wood pulp fibre in the beginning was that when it was wet it turned into pulp, and partly rotted under tension. But lengthy experiments were undertaken, and this difficulty was so far overcome that now the artificial silk is introduced into wash clothes as all stripes or figures, and washes very well. When you meet a beautiful woman nowadays who is beautifully gowned with shimmering silks, it will require no serious stretch of the imagination to think of her as being encased in wood."

COLORADO INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM STANDS

Upheld by Supreme Bench-Bills Affected Will Now Be Voted On Denver, Colo., Sept. 29.—The state supreme court today handed down a unanimous decision declaring the Colorado initiative and referendum law constitutional. The point at issue was the conceded failure of Secretary State James E. Pearce to publish the proposed amendment in the session laws four weeks previous to the general election of 1910, when it was adopted. The supreme court holds that the requirement of publication four weeks before the election applies only to the legal publication in newspapers and not to the session laws. Twenty-seven initiated and referred measures are ready for submission at the general election in November under the upheld amendment.
