

The ADVERTISER'S PICTORIAL PAGE

At the final game of the R. A. F. Inter-Unit Rugby Competition held recently in England. The airmen "crashing" on the touch-line during the game

A new and unconventional picture of Rodolph Valentino and his wife, Winnifred Hudnut, on the rear of their private car. They will visit Toronto in the course of a few days

Mr. Adamson, Mr. Roden Burton and General C. B. Thompson, the official British Labor delegation to the Ruhr area, snapped while visiting Essen

Henry Ford, left, taking a short holiday at La Belle, Florida, where he stopped to look over some property

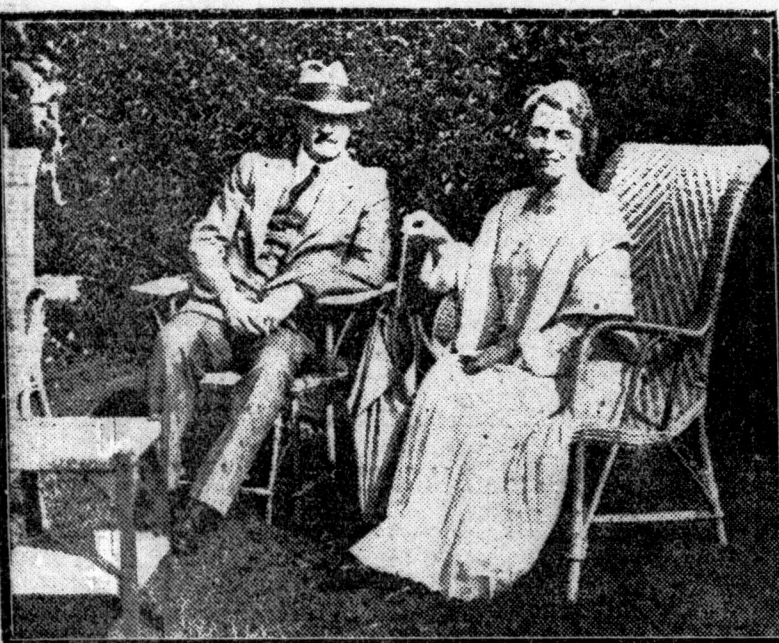

Mlle. Hebe of Paris, considered the most beautiful of all models, has eloped with Harold Kingsland, son of Walter Kingsland, attorney for J. P. Morgan & Company

Dr. Frederick W. Marlow, of Toronto, snapped on the golf course at Hot Springs

Enter the ruff. It is the latest thing for neck and hat adornment and usually has a long streamer hanging from it

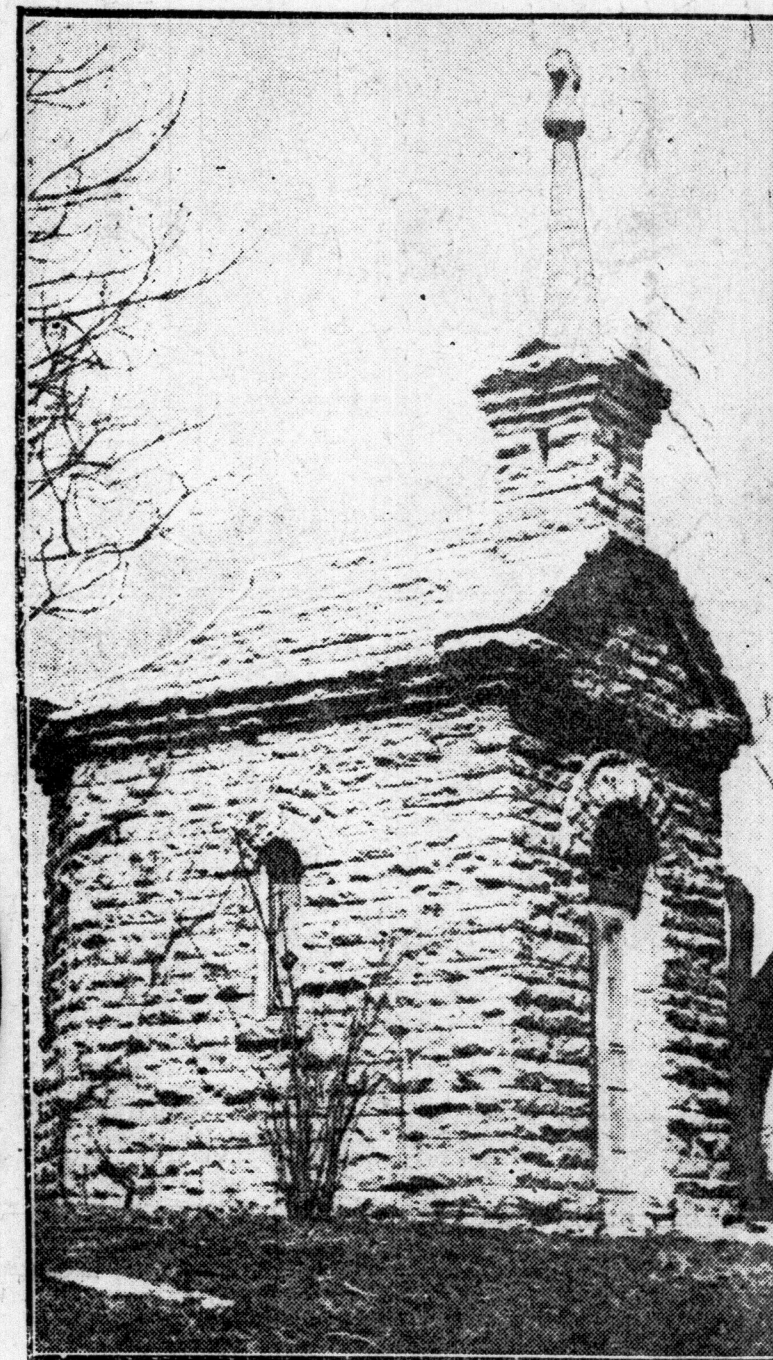

Field Marshall Viscount Allenby and Lady Allenby photographed at their Residency in Cairo, Egypt

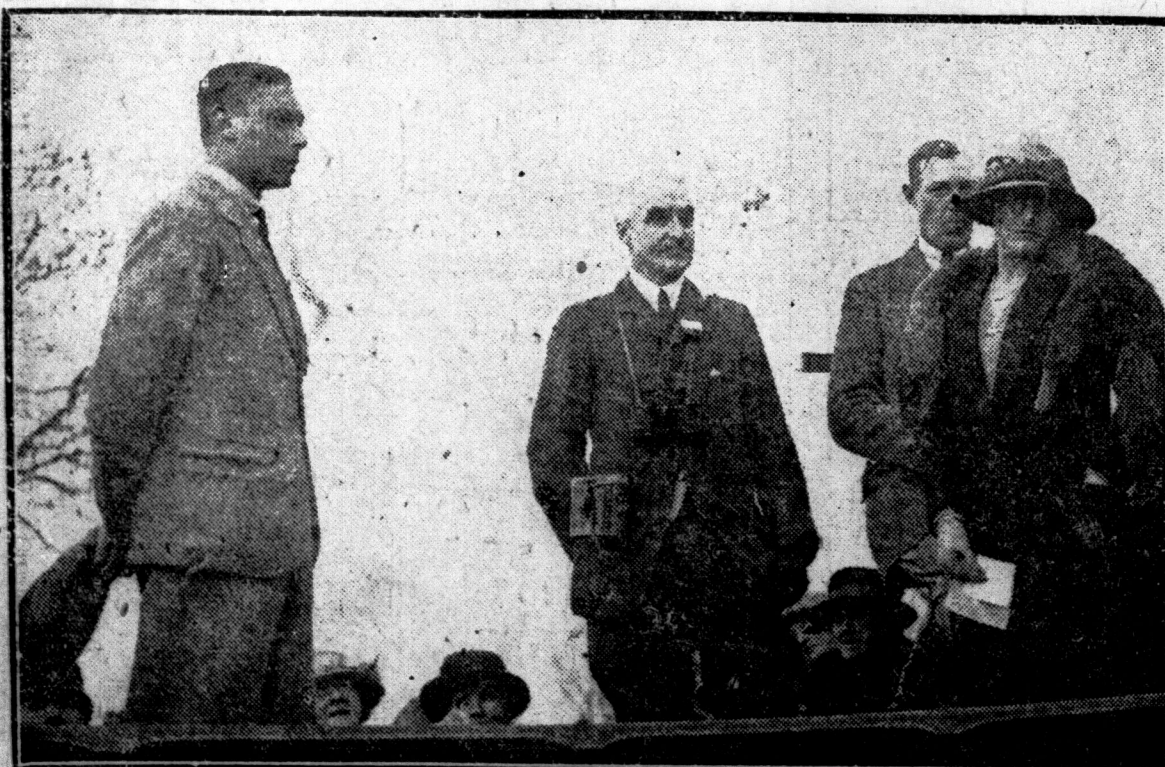

Dr. Dennis Crile of Chicago who reports that he is one of the discoverers of a method by means of which persons already dead may be resuscitated. "He uses a gland extract known as adrenalin."

Mrs. Robert Goellet, wife of an American multi-millionaire and widow of Prince Riasouchinsky, is now shouting for the rights of women throughout England, France and Italy

A midget church at Mount Casino, Kentucky. It was built many years ago by monks and permits the entrance of only three worshippers at one time

The Fytchley Hunt wedding present to the Duke of York was made by Lady Lowther following the recent point-to-point races at Crick. The photo shows His Highness making a speech of thanks. Lorde Horne is in the centre and Lady Lowther at the extreme right

A hitherto unpublished photo of Bertha Krupp, owner of the vast Krupp works at Essen, which have been seized by the French. Her two children are shown with her

Mae Murray, well-known actress, is getting a tremendous flair for super-gorgeousness in costumes. It must be admitted, however, that she takes full advantage of them

Mr. Charles Tully, the grand old man of Sussex, England, is 102 years old and works six hours each day six days a week. Nothing annoys him more than to be forced to lie in bed