ANOTHER ADVANCE IN PRICE OF CORN

Fear of Unseasonably Low Temperatures Helps to Stiffen Quotations.

Chicago, June 2.—With shippers, elevators and industries competing here for corn, the market today showed uncommon strength. The close was nervous, 1%c to 3c net higher, including July at $1.69% to $1.69%, and Sept. $1.60 to $1.69%. Oats gained %c to Ic. In the provisions the outcome varied from unchanged figures to 80c advance.

Notwithstanding that corn receipts in Chicago made a big total, the readiness with which they were absorbed much more than counter balanced any bearish effect. On the other hand, bullish sentiment was stimulated by advances in the provision market, due more or less to big exports. Besides, rural offerings of corn were not over plentiful and unseasonable low temperatures were approaching from the west. Under such circumstances, shorts covered freely and on the dips an active demand from call houses became evident. Considerable apprehension was expressed as to ill re-

Hughes, Harcourt and Company. 307
Royal Bank building, received the following wire at the close of the Chicago market yesterday: Strength was the dominant feature in the corn market from the start. Several attempts to depress prices met with buying opposition from both commission houses and local shorts. There was a lack of weakness in the cash market, where many looked for a considerable decline on account of the expiration of the May future. This decline, however, failed to materialize.

There is a noticeable falling off in the control of the contro country purchases, so when corn now in transit arrives at market centres. the movement will probably be light for some time.
