BRAINED BY AN AXE.
John Corrigan the Victim of a Companion's Fury.

STROCK DOWN IN COLD BLOOD.
James Healey a Laborer, Accused of the Awful Crime.

A Sought-for Man in Old Cabbage Town
The scene of one of the most dastardly crimes in the history of Toronto—Healey, his wife, a companion and a Newbury charged with the murder and taken into custody—The murderer and some of his companions—Some known to the police as worthless, dissolute characters.

James Healey, a laborer, deliberately murdered John Corrigan last night, smashing his skull in with an axe. The murder took place at a little rough-cast house at the northeast corner of Parliament and Front-streets, shortly after 9 o'clock. The house, which the murderer was committed to, was occupied by John Corrigan and his wife and James Healey, his wife and two children were roomers therein.

Yesterday Mrs. Corrigan decided to move out and then the trouble which culminated so disastrously began. Healey, for some reason, objected to the removal and to give force to his objections, endeavored to hold some of the property belonging to the Corrigan.

Cornelius Curtis, a young man well known to the police, who says he is a painter and has already been in trouble which nearly ended in murder, assisted the Corrigans in their removal of the property, as did also little Johnny Clayton, a newsboy and a son of Mrs. Corrigan by her first husband.

After the first load of furniture had been removed Healey, according to the story, took possession of a stove belonging to the Corrigans and carried it off to his bedroom. The Healey's and Corrigans, it might be mentioned, had used the stove jointly for cooking purposes, and Corrigan, demanding the stove, a free fight took place in which Healey, Curtis and Clayton were used an ax to take the stove from Corrigan. The appearance of Policeman Allison on the scene quelled the disturbance for the time being.

The Fatal Quarrel.
The cessation of hostilities, however, was not complete, and shortly after 10 o'clock Corrigan again demanded possession of the stove, whereupon another fight took place, in which Healey used an ax to take the stove from Corrigan. The appearance of Policeman Allison on the scene quelled the disturbance for the time being.

PICKED UP AT MONTREAL.
Mr. Spicer Has Retired From the Grand

Montreal, Feb. 5.—Mr. W. J. Spicer, general manager of the Chicago and Grand Trunk Railway, arrived in the city to-day and confirmed the report that he had retired from the road, adding that the information had been conveyed to him, to the effect that the Chicago and Grand Trunk would be managed from Montreal.

Mr. S. F. Gourlay, Q.C., of Toronto, N.S., who has been worthily for two months past, states that when he went out, the Conservative party appeared only to be waiting for burial, but that the name of Tupper has set the heather on fire and that Sir Charles will carry every seat west of the Great Lakes. Mr. Gourlay adds that Hugh John Macdonald is the most popular man in Manitoba.

The royal yacht Alberta, which brought the body of the late Prince Henry of Battenberg to Quebec, yesterday, and upon which the coffin remained overnight, was covered with an awning. A military guard watched the remains throughout the night. The coffin was not opened, the body had not been embalmed, owing to the time which elapsed between Prince Henry's death and the arrival of the yacht at Quebec, where embalming facilities were available.

The Widowed Mothers.
Princess Beatrice and her children arrived at the wharf at 10 o'clock and immediately went aboard the Alberta. They were followed soon afterward by the Duke of Connaught and the Marchioness of Lorne (Princess Louise), and at noon the Queen arrived from her home in Scotland.

A special train arrived from Waterloo Station, London, having on board Viscount Cross, Lord Fitzroy, Arthur J. Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury; Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies; George J. Goschen, First Lord of the Admiralty; and the foreign diplomats, or in their stead the naval and military attaches of the respective embassies and legations.

The Funeral.
At noon, the coffin, covered with wreaths, was taken from the Alberta and placed upon a gun carriage draped with the Union Jack. The Prince of Wales and the royal family in carriages took place ahead of the coffin, and the procession started. The various military detachments followed in the order of precedence, and the solemn cortege moved slowly and solemnly to the wharf at 10 o'clock.

The Opposition Leader at the Parliament Buildings.
Mr. G. E. Martlet, M.L.A., and leader of the Opposition in the Ontario House, was seen at the Parliament buildings yesterday. Mr. Martlet, who was expected to be in the city for three weeks by an attack of the grippe, reappeared in public for the first time yesterday.

He is still in a rather weak condition, his chest and throat having been particularly affected by his recent illness. He is, however, still retaining his robust appearance, and is evidently not unduly daunted by the approaching session of the Legislature. Yesterday he spent an hour or two in visiting some of the Government departments.

Runaway Accident Last Night.
A Plate Glass Window Smashed and a Woman Injured.
Mrs. Thomas C. Proctor of the Lanchashire House, 476 King east, and a young lady were driving down Yonge street at 11 o'clock last evening. Crossing the tracks at the corner of King and Yonge the cutter was upset and the occupants thrown out. They were hurt, the worse save a severe shaking. The horse took fright and rushed eastward. Near the corner of York and King streets the animal took to the sidewalk and dashed into the plate glass window of W. H. Elliott, decorator, 540 King-west, who was passing at the time, was struck and sustained injuries to the head and neck. The horse was removed to her home in the ambulance and was attended by Dr. McMahon. Her injuries are not serious. The horse died profusely and the cutter was smashed.

For Breach of Promise.
Florence Hartley, daughter of Benjamin Hartley, Bleeker-street, Toronto, is suing Robert J. Jones of 30 Wilton-avenue for $500 for alleged breach of promise of marriage. She states that after promising to marry her in October last, and thus causing her to give up a remunerative situation at Walker & Sons' store, he went back on his word and married another woman. The plaintiff is 21 years old and the defendant 14 years older. John Conroy, solicitor for Hartley's story and says he never gave her any encouragement whatever.

PRINCE HENRY'S FUNERAL.
HE WAS BURIED WITH HONOR LIKE A BRITISH SOLDIER.

The Royal Family and Many Members of the Cabinet followed the remains to Whippingham Church—Concurrent services held in Westminster Abbey—The Body Was Not Embalmed and the Casket Was Not Opened.

Cowes, Feb. 5.—The funeral of Prince Henry of Battenberg took place in Whippingham Church, Osborne, to-day. There was a thick fog prevailing at sunrise, but by 9 o'clock it had cleared away, showing every ship in the harbor and nearly every house in the town flying flags at half mast and displaying other marks of respect for the dead.

The royal yacht Alberta, which brought the body of the late Prince Henry of Battenberg to Quebec, yesterday, and upon which the coffin remained overnight, was covered with an awning. The jury in the Costello inquest, after being out less than 10 minutes, last night, returned a verdict of manslaughter in the hands of one or more parties unknown. The inquest was held by Coroner Johnson at police headquarters.

A lad named Frank Waldron, 18 Carlton-street, testified that on the 20th of December last he saw a man named Edward Littlejohn, who has just died in Quebec, aged 77, was in his youth page to Michael Collins, a street-vender, who with his sharpening machine and a notched three men talking at the corner of York and King streets, and he believed that two of them had upset the Costello while at work with his machine, but from the time of the accident until the death no notification of the occurrence had been sent to the detective department, neither had any ante-mortem statement been made. It was difficult, therefore, for the detectives to thoroughly sift the matter.

NEXT YEAR'S STYLES.
Bid Fair to Duplicate Those of the Present Season.

Everybody likes to feel that he is getting something for nothing. Messrs. W. & D. Dineen are aware of that fact. Therefore they are selling next year's furs now cheaper than you can buy them next year. They have the largest stock of furs and the finest establishment in Canada, all turned over to the public to clear off. As it is certain that most of this season's styles will prevail next year, it would be foolish to hesitate. Ladies' fur jackets will still be worn for two months. You can save 375 on some of them by buying now.

Alaska seal jackets, ripped skirts, high storm collars, balloon sleeves, large revers and very stylish all round, are cut from $25 to $150.
Persian lamb jackets reduced from $100 to $100.
Electric seal jackets, cut from $100 to $75, and from $75 to $60.
Grey lamb jackets, were $60, now cut to $45.
Astrachan, from $55 to $40 and even as low as $25.
In ladies' capes, etc., the reductions are equally striking. Inspection will convince anyone of this.

BRITAIN FOREVER!

A Stirling Resolution by Mr. Alexander McNeill

UNANIMOUSLY PASSES THE HOUSE

After Eloquent Words From the Lips of Statesmen.

Kindly Expressions for the Better Section of the People of the United States—The Opposition Leaders Proclaim Their Loyalty to the Motherland—Sir Richard Cartwright Also in the Van—The Honorable Members of the House—Canada Wants No Hand in Annexation to the U. S.—French-Canadians to the Front!

Ottawa, Feb. 5.—The proceedings in the House to-day were of the most interesting description. Mr. McNeill moved his resolution of sympathy with the Motherland in a very eloquent speech and it was gratifying to observe the close attention with which members on both sides of the House listened to and applauded his utterances. Similarly, Mr. Davies, the leader of the Maritime Liberals, seconded the resolution, evoked frequent cheers from the Conservative benches. His speech was of a sympathetic character and one which gave forth no uncertain sound as to where his allegiance lies. Indeed, the same remark may be said of all the speakers who followed.

Sir Richard Cartwright, for one, set aside party politics and made a plain, but matter-of-fact declaration of his views on the present state of Imperial politics and Canada's relation thereto. It was a statesmanlike speech. Even the most ardent Britishers could not deny the resolution, evoked frequent cheers from the Conservative benches. His speech was of a sympathetic character and one which gave forth no uncertain sound as to where his allegiance lies. Indeed, the same remark may be said of all the speakers who followed.

MR. McNEILL'S RESOLUTION
Expresses Canada's Unalterable Loyalty and Devotion to Britain.

Purporting to notice, Mr. McNeill rose to move:

"That in view of the threatening aspect of foreign affairs this House desires to assure Her Majesty's Government and the people of the United Kingdom of their unalterable loyalty and devotion to the British Throne and Constitution and of their absolute and unshaken confidence in the determination of Her Majesty's subjects to maintain unimpaired the integrity and inviolate the honor of Her Majesty's Empire. The Empire of Great Britain and Ireland, as well as the expressed desire of the people of Canada to maintain the most friendly relations with the people of the United States."

He said—it may be said that the resolution is superfluous, that it is unnecessary to assure the Government and the people of the United Kingdom of what they are already very well aware. I do not doubt for my own part that the British people are already very well aware of the loyalty and devotion of the people of Canada. But the resolution is not superfluous, it is necessary to assure the Government and the people of the United Kingdom of what they are already very well aware.

It is surprising to the representative of the people of Canada, and to the sentiments of Canada should be so entirely misapprehended by a section of the people who live in such close proximity to us. Why, sir, as you know well, from Halifax to Vancouver, there is not one single constituency in which the feelings of annexation are advocated upon the hustings, the result would be other than a hopeless, and a humiliating one. I have seen men who ventured to make that policy a plank of their platform. If there be one question more than another upon which the rank and file of the people are sold, it is this question of annexation to the United States. Sir, it is the earnest wish of every Canadian to maintain the most friendly relations with the great people who divide this continent with us, whom we regard as our kindred, and in whose magnificent achievements on behalf of civilization it is not too much to say that every Canadian has almost personal pride. But, while we admire the great qualities of our kinsmen of the neighboring Republic, we have no desire, whatsoever, to enter into political partnership with them. We prefer our own connection to that of the United States; we claim the right of a free people to choose between our own mother country and the American Republic.

LEAVY Canada Alone.
We only ask our good friends to the south to leave us alone and to allow us to work out our own destiny in the way which seems to us best. (Cheers.) We have made our choice and our choice is with our own Mother Country, and if the necessity should unfortunately arise, the people of Canada will do what men may do to preserve for themselves their freedom. For those who come after them who hold to be their most precious political inheritance, namely their bright and English subjects (Cheers.) I think, sir, that it is
