Liberal politicians, The new Government have done nothing, and they have therefore nothing to defend. The political issues so far are mere trifles, because the Ministers have not yet laid the hand on a single question of prime mportance. The rumored school deal has, until now, been juggling in the dark, and only when it sees the light will the country be able to judge whether the negotiations show statesmanlike power, or simply the wire pulling of political allies. The tariff is yet untouched. There are promises of great things to come, but the mounequal to the occasion or not It is nooth sailing to engineer a party delighted with its new responsibilities, of ignorance by the men of light an its new dignities, its fresh taste of the sweets of office. But these conditions cannot last long. Canada is hard some other inferior branch of learning and the pitfalls. During the thirteen and the pitfalls. During the thitteen years Sir John Macdonald directed the affairs of state after 1878 the crises were neither few nor unimportant, and it required all his skill and foresight to steer the Ministry through its difficulties. All his experience in the handling of men, his immense authority with his party, and his unrivalled popularity in the country were necessary to stave off defeat. The most serious upheavals in Canadian politics are nearly always unexpected, and have to be dealt with by means of ready courage, a thorough insight into political conditions, and an appeal to the common-sense of the majority of the people. The new Government has yet, by its acts, to create a strong majority in the country, and, as time goes on, we shall see how this is being done. A parliamentary victory has a good momentary effect, but this never lasts if the Ministry through its different properties. The state of the manager of the Le Roi.

The Manager of the Le Roi.

Mr. Harris, the manager of the Le Roi mine of Rossland, B.C., will femain in the city for a few days visiting friends and attending to business. Mr. Harris will be found at the office of Messrs, Campbell, Currie & Co., at 52 Yonge-street. This firm, which opened for business yesterday, is placing the first issue of the stock of ine Lily May gold mine, the first location made in Rossland, on the market, and it is said that over seven thousand shares were sold. This mine has been recently acquired by Mr. Harris from the original locater, who worked it himself, at a profit, since 1889. It is a working mine, not a mining claim, and the assays certificates, which can be seen at the broker's office, show over $80 to the ton. Eastern investors have now the first opportunity of seven the broker's office, which is open in the evenings.

A Protecting Investment An Investing years Sir John Macdonald directed the tory has a good momentary effect, but this never lasts if the Ministry A Protecting Investment An Investing exhibits no sustained force, and canexhibits no sustained force, and cannot retain the allegiance of the rank and file. The Conservative party has been dominant in Canada for many years, and, in a sense, is so still, and the task of keeping together the elements forming the present majority is no slight one. The session now being not another's path alone, they scatter roses to adorn their own. This is a poetic definition of endowment insurance."

When big questions arise and the claim of Quebec to be considered likewise makes its appearance, it will be seen whether or not the members from that quarter are easily satisfied. On that will turn a good many things, among them the permanence of the

What It Means! Would that we could emphasize with full force what Friday and Saturday shopping at this store will mean to every shopper! These are always special days with us, and we have planned wisely and well for something extraordinary for Friday of Exhibition week.

Study as far as you can the cold type below telling of unusual values in the very class of footwear you are finding most needed at these times. But, at the best, the lists are only suggestive—there are bargains all over the house, specially laid out on tables and ticketed for end of the week trade. Besides, the lists do not give an idea of the sterling character of the boots and shoes we are offering. This house is known for doing everything in a straightforward way. The old saying is, "There are tricks in all trades." There is no need that this should be so-at least in the shoe trade.
