MARCH.-BY BRYANT. The stormy MARCH is come at last, With wind and cloud and changing skies: I hear the rushing of the blast That through the snowy valley flies.

Ah, passing few are they who speak, Wild, stormy month, in praise of thee: Yet, though thy winds are lond and bleak, Thou art a welcome month to me.

For thou to northern lands again The glad and glorious sun dost bring; And thou hast join'd the gentle train, And weat'st the gentle name of Spring.

And, in thy reign of blast and storm, Smiles many a long, bright, sunny day, When the chang'd winds are soft and warm, And heaven puts on the blue of May.

Then sing aloud the gushing rills, And the full springs, from frost set free, That, brightly lesping down the hills, Are just set out to meet the sea.

The year's departing beauty hides Of win'try storms the sullen threat; But in thy stornest frown, abides A lock of kindly promise yet.
