

No Fight In Wilson's Speech

Philadelphia, May 10.—President Wilson gave to a gathering of 4,000 naturalized Americans tonight the first intimation of the course which the United States government probably will pursue in the situation resulting from the loss of more than a hundred American lives on the British liner Lusitania. He spoke by implication, but his hearers interpreted his remarks as meaning that, while the United States would remain at peace, it would seek to convince Germany of the injustice to mankind of the tragedy of last Friday.

"America," said the president, "must have the consciousness that on all sides it touches elbows, and touches heart, with all the nations of mankind. This example of America must be a special example. It must be an example not merely of peace, because it will not fight, but because peace is a healing and elevating influence of the world, and strife is not."

"There is such a thing as a man being too proud to fight. There is such a thing as being so right that it does not need to convince others by force that it is right."

The president made no direct reference to the Lusitania tragedy, but the audience did not hesitate to read the application of his statement. The president pointed out the true goal of right American citizenship to be loyalty, not to the country of one's birth, but to the land of one's adoption.

"While you bring," he said, "all countries with you, you come with a purpose of leaving all other countries behind you—bringing what is best of their spirit, but not looking over your shoulder, or seeking to perpetuate what you leave in them. I would not, certainly, be one who would suggest that a man cease to love the place of his origin. It is one thing to love the place where you were born, and another thing to dedicate yourself to the place where you go. You cannot be an American if you think of yourself in groups. America does not consist of groups. A man who considers himself as belonging to a national group is not yet an American."

"My advice to you is to think first, not only of America, but to think first of humanity, and you do not love humanity if you seek to divide humanity in jealous camps."

There was a tremendous ovation as the president finished his speech. Afterward he returned to the station and to his private car. He is due to leave for Washington at midnight, and will arrive in Washington early tomorrow.

Captain Tells of Sinking of Lusitania

London, May 10.—The Cunard Line steamship Lusitania, which was sunk last week off Old Head of Kinsale by a submarine, was struck by but one torpedo, according to the testimony of Captain Turner, of the steamer, given today at the coroner's inquest at Kinsale. This deadly missile found a vital spot, and sent the liner to the bottom in less than twenty minutes, carrying with her over a thousand souls.

"You were aware threats had been made that the ship would be torpedoed," said the coroner.

"We were," the captain replied.

"Was she armed?"

"No, sir."

"What precautions did you take?"

"We had all the boats swung when we came within the danger zone, between the passing of Fastnet and the time of the accident."

"I also had all the bulletproof doors closed," Captain Turner continued, "between the time of passing Fastnet, at about 11 o'clock, and of the torpedoing, I saw no sign whatever of any submarine. There were some haze along the Irish coast, and when we were near Fastnet I slowed down to 15 knots. I was in communication with shore all the way across."

Captain Turner was asked whether he had received any messages in regard to the presence of submarines off the Irish coast. He replied in the affirmative. Questioned regarding the nature of the messages, he replied:

"I respectfully refer to the admiralty for an answer."

"I also gave orders to stop the ship," Captain Turner continued. "We found that the engines were out of commission. It was not safe to lower boats until the speed was off the vessel. As a matter of fact, there was a perceptible headway on her up to the time she went down."

"No warship was conveying us. I saw no warship, and none was reported to me as having been seen. At the time I was picked up I noticed bodies floating on the surface, but saw no living persons."

"Eighteen knots was not the normal speed of the Lusitania, was it?"

"At ordinary times," answered Captain Turner, "she could make 25 knots, but in war times her speed was reduced to 22 knots. My reason for going 18 knots was that I wanted to arrive at Liverpool safely."

LAST WORDS ON KAISER

An Article Written Short Time Before He Sailed on Lusitania

Among those who went down with the Lusitania was Elbert Hubbard, the founder of the famous Roycrofters of East Aurora, New York, editor and publisher of the Philistine, noted author and lecturer, and one of the most widely known men in the United States. Mr. Hubbard has been a very hostile critic of the German Kaiser and of Prussian militarism. In the last issue of the Philistine, which was received by subscribers last week, Mr. Hubbard wrote as follows:

"Readers may remember that I have once or twice criticised frankly but kindly, that great and good man, William"

WAS GALA NIGHT AT THE Y. M. C. A.

Annual Banquet of Bible Study Group

FOURTEEN TABLES

Tables Neatly Decorated — A Good Round of Speeches and an Enjoyable Programme—Some of the Features

On Saturday, May 8th, the Bible Study group activities of the Y. M. C. A. for the season of 1914-15 were brought to a close by the annual banquet. This year it was decided to hold the banquet in the gymnasium, and a more admirable place could not have been chosen. There were in all fourteen groups, represented, each decorating their own table and inviting a guest. To two of these Geo. R. Ewing and H. A. Porter were given the task of deciding to which table the prize should be awarded.

Ten of the tables were arranged around the gymnasium, while the remaining four were placed in the middle, surrounded to one another of the first group, those of the Pirates and Seneca's, and of the second group, that of the Crusaders, Messrs. Ewing and Porter, on account of their originality.

The Pirates' table was trimmed in black and white, with a centerpiece of a skull resting on a black stand. In the center of the Seneca's table, presided over by Mr. Willet, were a miniature body of water, a warship and a fort, vividly representing the struggle in the Danubies.

The eye of a person entering the door was at once attracted by the large and beautiful table of the evening, P. J. Lege's. He spoke of the advantages derived from the group and of the chance afforded by the development of the boy life of the community, emphasizing the fact that no other branch of the Y. M. C. A. does so much support. He then briefly reviewed the work of the group, and then, in a most interesting and original manner, presented a series of four groups, representing the four seasons of the year.

When justice had been done to the beautiful presentation at each table, the chairman of the evening, P. J. Lege, arose. He spoke of the advantages derived from the group and of the chance afforded by the development of the boy life of the community, emphasizing the fact that no other branch of the Y. M. C. SUES TRENTINI FOR ALIENATION

Mrs. Friml Also Names Singer as Co-respondent in Divorce Suit Against Husband

New York, May 10.—Mrs. Rudolph Friml, wife of a light opera composer, has brought suit for absolute divorce against her husband, naming Trentini, light opera prima donna, as co-respondent. Mrs. Friml has also brought suit against Mrs. Trentini for $100,000 for alleged alienation of Friml's affections.

Herman Roth, counsel for Mrs. Friml, said his representative had served the papers in both suits on Friml and Trentini at the Hotel Marcellus. George Blumenthal, Miss Trentini's personal representative, said he knew of the suits but did not care to discuss them.

Friml is a Bohemian. He came here six years ago, as the accompanist of Kubelick, violinist, and turned his hand to writing light opera scores, which included the music of "The First Boy," "High Jinks" and "The Peasant Girl." Miss Trentini starred in all these operas. Friml traveled with the companies and led the orchestra.

The Canucks with their maroon and white handbags and with little flags at their waists were neat and tidy and the Archons in the center had a card bearing the legend:

"He that ruleth himself is greater than he that teacheth a city."

WANTS NEW SCHOOL BUILT THIS YEAR

Trustee Day Will Present Matter at Next Meeting—Board Will Not Press For That $10,000—School Yards For Playgrounds

At the monthly meeting of the board of school trustees last evening applications for appointments as teachers were received from Mollie B. Lingley, R. B. Fraser, B. A. of Fredericton, Muriel Seely, Emma H. Colwell, Miss M. C. Graham of Kent county, two from Kentville, N. S., and one from Wolfville. Leave of absence for another term was allowed Miss V. Machum, who is in the west, and until May 25 for J. Stewart Henry who is taking a military training course.

A communication was received from the Salvation Army announcing that they would provide clothing for any children who are kept from school by their lack. The trustee office will report on the matter at the next meeting.

The use of the yards of Centennial, Alexandria, Aberdeen and Douglas schools for the playground during the summer was granted.

Dr. Bridges recommended that 100 copies of the song "Soldiers of Canada," composed by Mrs. Whitman of St. Andrews, should be purchased for the schools. The matter was left over until the next meeting.

A letter of confidence sent to the family of the late Dr. Edward Manning was read and instructed to be placed in full in the minute book.

Physicians' certificates were received urging that Miss Clara Fullerton, of the West Side, and Miss Anderson of Aberdeen school be granted leave of absence on account of ill health. The former got two weeks and the latter until the end of the term, and it was left to the discretion of the salary committee to arrange their remuneration.

Mr. Emerson submitted a brief report on the conference with the city council in the matter of the $10,000 which the council cut from the board's estimates. He said that the council gave the committee to understand that the ratifying their action had already passed the legislature and there was nothing more to be done.

Mr. Day said that he intended to have discussed at the meeting the advisability of building the projected school in the old building of the city hall. The report of the secretary showed that the percentage of enrollment in average daily attendance was 84.55.

The Optum Case.

Further evidence was taken yesterday in the police court in the case against Hop Lee charged with keeping opium in his store in St. John street. Dr. F. J. Hogan told of being called to attend Roy for "asthma," and Dr. W. B. McVey gave expert opinion on regard to poisons, after which the hearing was adjourned for a week.

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff. It will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't. It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.
