The November Christmas

If you are a customer of Birks and have been in the habit of buying from us through our Mail Order Service, you already know how simple and satisfactory it is to do all your Christmas Shopping right from your own home.

All you need is a Birks Year Book.

But this year there is another feature that we want you to note—

Due to abnormal manufacturing conditions and the likelihood that the demand will be greater than the supply, we are asking everybody to try and make November the Christmas Shopping Month.

Not that we are any less equipped to give you the same satisfaction as in former years, but we anticipate a much greater demand on certain lines which through shortage of raw materials cannot be replaced in time.

Ensure early delivery of your Christmas Gifts and—

Write to Birks today!

RECENT WEDDINGS

The Nashville Banner of Nashville, Tenn., tells of the marriage of Miss Frances E. A. Hutchinson and Alexander H. Hutchinson of Brookline, Mass. The bride is a granddaughter of the late Geo. E. Sands of St. Stephen and of the late C. M. Hutchinson, formerly principal of the St. Stephen schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Barton of Fredericton announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Helen Mayes, to B. Nash Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Smith of Woodville. The wedding will take place at an early date.

At the United Baptist parsonage, South Devon, on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. S. S. Ferguson united in marriage Miss Margaret Flowers, of Barker's Point, and Arthur Cogswell, of Oromocto. The young couple will reside at Oromocto, where the groom owns a farm.

An interesting marriage took place on Tuesday evening last, at the residence of Rev. John A. MacKeigan, 32 Leinster street, when he united in the holy bonds of matrimony John Albert Murray, of Prince Rupert (B. C.), and Catherine Jane Douglas, of New Glasgow (N. S.). After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Murray left on the late train for Nova Scotia, which province they will tour for a few weeks. After the honeymoon they will take up their residence in Prince Rupert.

On Wednesday, November 5, at the Baptist parsonage, St. John, Miss Laura Provan, of Bloomfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Medley Provan, was united in marriage to William Lane Bickford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bickford, of Norton. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. L. Tedford, of 16 Haymarket square. The bride was daintily gowned in a navy blue tailored suit with hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Bickford have the best wishes of a host of friends amongst whom they were deservedly popular. Mr. and Mrs. Bickford left St. John on the noon train for a wedding trip to Moncton and Edward Island. On their return they will reside at Norton.

Rev. J. S. Sutherland united in marriage Miss Alma McFarlane and Nathaniel C. Doherty, both of Fredericton, yesterday afternoon.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. James A. McAdam, Fredericton, yesterday, their youngest daughter, Kathleen, was united in marriage to Earl Pearson Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hedley G. Smith of Sydney, C. B., by Rev. J. S. Sutherland.

OLD MASTERS FOUND IN CURIOUS SURROUNDINGS

(London "Tit Bits.")

The recent discovery of a long-lost Raphael in an old curiosity shop in Paris has recalled many a story, no less dramatic, of treasure-trove in art.

It is not long since a stolen canvas by Raphael, the "Boy with a Snake," was found in the cottage of an Italian peasant, where it was serving the sordid purpose of stopping a broken window; a Correggio which had been hidden from the walls of the Dresden Gallery, and been lost to sight for generations, was recovered from the recesses of a Saxon hayloft; and priceless tapestries, destroyed by fire, were rescued from the hands of a Paris Jew after he had burnt two of the pieces in order to extract the gold and silver contained in their texture.

Raphael's pictures, indeed, seem to be peculiarly ill-fated. Only a few years ago his "La Belle Jardiniere" was picked up at a second-hand shop in Paris for forty-four francs. His Vatican "Adam and Eve" was found—flung aside in the corner of a picture-dealer's shop in the Rue St. Lazare, by an artist who paid a hundred francs for it, and sold it a few days later for eighty thousand; and for a modest fifty centimes a Parisian art-dealer purchased a Raphael's original design for his great picture "La Disputa del Sacramento," for which he would willingly have paid twenty thousand francs.

More romantic still is the story of the great master's famous picture, "The Massacre of the Innocents," which was recently discovered in the cottage of a poor widow of Como. Originally owned by Cardinal Luigi d'Este, it had somehow come into the possession of a priest, who had paid the equivalent of a sovereign for it and who gave it to the Duke Alfonso d'Este more than three centuries ago. After the Duke's death the canvas vanished utterly until it came so dramatically to light again in the Como cottage.

Ruben's famous masterpiece, "The Visitation," was a few years ago exchanged by a Paris curiosity-dealer for two Louis XV. arm-chairs and a sixteenth-century coffee; and a fortunate collector discovered among a number of canvases exhibited for sale by a second-hand dealer at Montmartre, one of Teniers' finest canvases, which he was able to purchase for thirty francs.

A portrait of Neil Gwynn by Sir Peter Lely was discovered in singular circumstances at Birmingham by a medical man. While attending a patient in a small tenement, he noticed on the wall of the living-room a tattered picture of the head and bust of a woman. The frame was worn-eaten with age; but, despite its torn condition, the picture seemed a good one, and it was purchased by the doctor for a trifle. He took it away, and ultimately sent it to be cleaned.

There was nothing on the canvas to indicate the artist's name, but the eyes of the subject bore that peculiar expression of tender languishment, blended sweetness, and drowsiness, attempted by no other painter than Lely.
