RECENT DEATHS

Mrs. E. S. Fiske
Mrs. Emma S. Fiske, one of the most prominent women of the city, being widely known as a platform speaker and also in her active work in the Woman's Suffrage Association and the Natural History Society, died very suddenly at an early hour this morning at her home, 323 King street east.
Mrs. Fiske has figured for many years on the lecture platform here and throughout the province. She was a woman who was admired and esteemed by all who knew her and was most capable in executing the various duties which were entrusted to her. She was most prominent in the Woman's Suffrage Association and was president of that organization for some time. She also displayed a deep interest in the Natural History Society and was an ardent member. She was known throughout the province and her friends scattered everywhere will hear with the deepest regret the sad news of her death.
She had been in ill health for some time but the end came most unexpectedly. She leaves to mourn two brothers—A. O. Skinner and Fred Skinner; and three sisters—Mrs. Alexander Robertson, Miss Manning Skinner and Miss Belle Skinner, all of this city. The funeral is to take place on Friday afternoon from her late residence.
At Lincoln yesterday Mrs. Elizabeth Adams, died aged 80 years. She was the wife of John Adams. Besides her husband, one son and four daughters survive.
Solomon W. Parent, formerly of Upper Queensbury, York county, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harvey Currie, at Mars Hill, Me., on Monday afternoon. He was 81 years of age and is survived by one son, William, of St. John, and three daughters, Mrs. Currie.

ST. PHILIP'S CHURCH
St. John, N. B., Oct. 28, 1914.
To the Editor of The Times and Star:
The members of St. Philip's church and also those who solicited donations for the Harvest Festival take this method of expressing their heartfelt thanks to the many friends who so kindly and generously answered their appeal with donations.

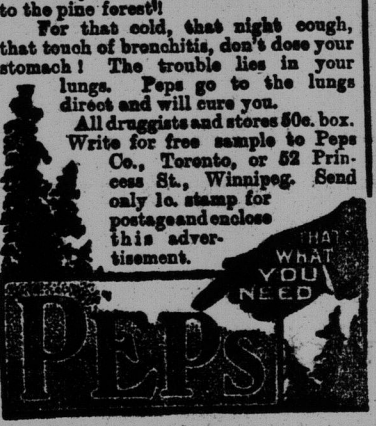

The festival netted a neat sum but not sufficient to meet the outstanding indebtedness, but we hope to be able to accomplish this by giving concerts, socials, etc. We also hope to merit your patronage at these socials.
Thanking you again, I am,
J. H. H. FRANKLIN,
Minister of St. Philip's church,
No. 221 Queen St., city.

Resigns Pastorate.
Rev. R. J. Colpitts, pastor of the Kingsford and Macquarrie Baptist churches since 1911, has resigned and will take a rest for a few months before accepting another pastorate. Rev. Mr. Colpitts, who is the editor of the Baptist Year Book, is now busily engaged in preparing the book for publication.

Engagement Announced.
The engagement of Miss Nova Gordon, third daughter of Col. and Mrs. W. D. Gordon, formerly of Kingston, and now in England, to W. D. Small, of Rhodes University College, Grahamstown, South Africa, is announced, the wedding to take place in December. Col. Gordon was at one time the officer commanding at Infantry Station No. 6, in Fredericton.

Listen!

Have you heard about Pepp? Pepp is a new scientific preparation put up into tablet or pastille form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds and lung and throat troubles.
There is no connection between the lungs and the stomach. Suppose something were wrong with your stomach—say indigestion, or ulceration—would you think of taking some medicine which went not to your stomach but to your lungs? Certainly not! Why then, when your lungs and chest are affected, should you dose your stomach—an absolutely separate organ with medicine? Is it not far better to treat the ailing organ direct?
Pepp provides a direct treatment for coughs, colds, bronchitis, and all lung, chest and throat troubles. Pepp contains highly medicinal condensed pine extracts condensed into tablet form. You put a Pepp on your tongue, and as it slowly dissolves, volatile essences are inhaled into your lungs.
You breathe the remedy to your sore ailing lungs direct—not swallow it to your stomach, which is not ailing. (See diagram.) The healing fumes, thus breathed down, soothe the delicate, inflamed membrane of your breathing tubes and pass right on to the very passages of the lungs—a course no liquid or solid medicine could possibly take.
Pepp fumes are healing and anti-septic. They heal sore tissues and kill disease germs. Pepp brings pine-forest fumes to your home, instead of you going to the pine forest!
We think that, that night cough, that touch of bronchitis, don't dose your stomach! The trouble lies in your lungs. Pepp goes to the lungs direct and will cure you.

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat Less Meat and Take Salts For Backache or Bladder Trouble

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush out the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.
Eat less meat, drink lots of water; one ounce of Jad Salts take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, and to neutralize the acids in urine, so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.
Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

TIME FOR CANADIAN YOUTH TO AWAKEN

None But Those Who Enlist Should Vote, Archdeacon Tells Veterans
"Able bodied young men of Canada who fail to join the militia and undergo the light burden of military training which enlistment involves should be deprived of the right to vote," said Ven. Archdeacon Forrester of Hamilton, speaking in St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, on the occasion of the church parade of Canadian Militia Veterans. There was some basis for the criticism and complaints heard on all hands that only a small percentage of the first Canadian contingent were Canadian-born. The young men of this country, he said, should wake up and do a bit better in the future than they had in the past. The archdeacon mentioned the battle of Balclava and the charge of the Light Brigade, which, for sixty years, had been an inspiration to British arms. He also pointed out that the Canadian militia had done good work in the past in suppressing several rebellions in Canada and the Fenian raid, but a love of pleasure and sports had been altogether too prevalent among the public and it was time for an awakening.

'RAH FOR THE BEN DAVIS

(By Peter McArthur)
Today I boldly announce myself as the only friend of the Ben Davis apple. For years this handsome fruit has been mocked, maligned, misunderstood. All the "rash bavin wits" of the press have been launching at it their "quillies quick" and paper bullets of all sorts. They have made it the laughing stock of all apple-lovers but I propose to rehabilitate the Ben Davis and give it a good conduct card. I told you when writing about the Peewauke that there are many good apples that are not properly appreciated. Of these the Ben Davis is easily the chief. There is no handsomer apple in our orchards and none more thoroughly despised. As I remember things I have said about it and realize that there may now be triumphal processions in its honor in which I shall be ambitious to have a place, I am moved to ask penitently:
"Say, scoundrel, better is there room for you?"
Have I not, with that exaggerated courtesy which means that bitterest contempt, re-named it the Benjamin H. Davis? Have I not even spoken of it as "A villain with a smiling cheek"? Have I not given further currency to Bill Nye's gibe about the evils that befall the world when "Eve bit the Ben Davis apple." And I remember remarks about it being cheaper to raise pumpkins on vines than on trees. But why all the measure of my humiliation to over-transport the Ben Davis and I called my choicest adjectives in an attempt to do it justice. And now that I know it was not the Ben Davis I was praising I am not going to take back a word. Instead I am going to add to them.
My change of heart is due to Charles H. MacPhee of Appleton, secretary of the Glencoe Apple Growers' Association. When I was calling on him he invited me to sample a new preserve his wife had been putting up. He went to the pantry and brought out a sealer filled with something faintly amber-tinted and delicately translucent. It looked like citron or like especially succulent pear preserves. While he was getting me a dish of jam, my mouth watered in anticipation, for it certainly appealed to my eye. I tasted it. Superb! I thought. A slice of jam, though it was better. Instead of the flat taste often noticed, in pears it had a faint sub-acid taste that made it perfect. I pronounced it a dish fit "for June when she banquets." Porphyrio might well have given it a place in his midnight feast.
"Of candied apple, quince, and plum, With jellies softer than the creamy curd, And luscious syrups tinted with cinnamon Manna and dates, in argosy transferred From East, and spiced dainties, every one, From silken Samarcand to cedar'd Lebanon!"
When I had finished my eulogy I told me as gently as possible, so as to avoid shock, that what I was eating was preserved Ben Davis apple. It seems that this apple has been masquerading all these years. Instead of arousing contempt as an eating apple it should be ranking with the ages as a preserving fruit. He gave me a sample from another sealer which contained the same kind of preserves except that the apples were not peeled. The choicest flavors are just beneath the skin and was even better than the first, though not so attractive in appearance, and the skin But it was fit for a king of the canners. I naturally asked Mrs. MacPhee for the recipe and he told me it was:
"Peel and core the apples and cut each into about twelve slices. Place in a preserving kettle and add two cups of sugar for each quart of preserves. Cover with boiling water and then let the preserves stand in the covered kettle until the apples become transparent. Then seal away while hot."

SCHOOL PUPLS WHO ARE PARTLY SELF-SUPPORTING

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 28.—One-third of the students in the Lewis and Clark high school of Spokane are partially self-supporting. Their earnings during the school year amount to slightly more than $1,000 a week, according to a report filed by the vocational board of the faculty. According to this board this work is done without affecting class work.
Students numbering 426 are found to be partially self-supporting. Of this number ninety-four are girls. The boys earn $825 a week and the girls $75, plus board and room for a large number, so that the weekly earnings total runs above $1,000. Eighty-four more boys and girls, who are not employed, have asked the faculty to aid them in securing positions. Fifty of the girls are working away from home while also doing some home tasks.
Mrs. Lillian Slegler, in charge of a room of eight part-time students, nearly all of whom find it necessary to work during school hours, reports only seven of the eighty are below normal in one subject.
The boys are engaged in thirty-one different occupations, including housework. The full list reported by the boys is as follows: Delivering and wrapping newspapers, driving automobiles, general housework, office work, gardening, parcel delivery, raising rabbits for market, salubring at theatres, selling fruit and vegetables, caring for lawns, telephone operator, wood shop, printing shop, part-time salesman, box factory, shirt factory, picking and packing apples, elevator operator, millinery store, bank, music for dances, bakery, V. M. C. A., collecting, soda fountain, carpentering and janitor work.
The girls are engaged in twenty different occupations, including housework. The full list reported by the girls is as follows: Making apple boxes, copying and checking, music lessons, office work, telephone operator, cashier, clerking, playing piano, tutoring and dressmaking.

He Was Excused.

"I want to be excused," said the wordy-looking jurymen addressing the judge. "I owe a man $5 that I borrowed, and as he is leaving England today for some years I want to catch him before he gets to the boat and pay him the $5."

"You are excused," returned his lordship in dry tones, "I don't want anybody on the jury who can't like that."

KAISER AND STAFF QUARREL IS REPORT.

The Danish press is quoted as authority for a report that there was a disagreement between the Kaiser and the German headquarters staff after the battle of the Marne. The Kaiser's continual injunctions that the offensive be taken in the battles in France raised discontent, uneasiness and objections among the staff, and the Kaiser's strategy nearly changed the Marne retreat into a catastrophe.
The Kaiser insisted that the left wing, although strongly threatened on the flank, should continue to advance. A calamity was avoided by the non-execution of the imperial command. It was said in Berlin that the Kaiser on learning of the retreat of the Prussian guard "What, and Gen. von Hausen still living? A Samurai would have acted otherwise. This phrase sank in the hearts of the German generals.
Stories of the imperial strategy as shown in the grand manoeuvres are revived. In 1897 Count von Helldorf said to a member of the Reichstag after the manoeuvres:
"The grand battles arranged by the emperor are magnificent only in their defects. They terminate like the legendary combat of the two lions, only their tails remaining on the battlefield. If the Triple Alliance entered a campaign under command of the Kaiser with the Germans and Austrians fighting side by side and the Italians forming the rear guard, I fear that the Italians would most likely play the role of grave diggers if they escaped decimation by the plague. In my humble opinion the dead never enter into His Majesty's calculations."
The bravest of the Brave
One of the very few occasions (since the Thirty Years' War) on which the Kaiser has met German in fight before now was in December, 1897, when a French army of 4,000 and a German army of 16,000 faced each other across the Rhine near Schettstadt, in Alsace. The French were led by General Lyautey and the German by General von Helldorf.
