Hurried to Hospital. Passers by went to his aid and when they realized that he was seriously injured they hurried to Traffic Policeman McNamee, who was 'stationed at the interestion of Mill and Pond streets. He hurried to the spot and had the unfortunate man placed face down on a sloven. His clothing was loosened and the policeman, who is well versed in first aid, started to bring about artificial respiration and to promote circulation. In the meanwhile he had ordered the ambulance and as soon as it arrived the enjured man was rushed to the hospital. One of his hands and feet were badly burned, the current passing through the right hand and out his left foot.

Doctors Hopeful.

When he arrived at the hospital he had regained consciousness. An ex-amination showed that in addition to the burns, he was suffering from shock, had bruises on the right side of his face and there were indications that some of the ribs on his right side

A late report from the hospital this afternoon said that Mr. McAnulty was suffering considerable pain. Up to that time an X-ray had not been taken to determine if his ribs were fractured. The doctors held out hopes

The daily test to determine if Collins still lives, by means of an amplifying device hooked across the electric light circuit leading down to his prison, has strengthened the belief of the physi-cians here that Collins still is alive. The faint motion of the electric light bulk around his neck, as it moves in its socket, with the rise and fall of his chest, in breathing, is so regular that they are convinced Collins is still alive. The last test yesterday evening showed a series of jerky, rasping noises, pre-sumed to indicate coughing or other movement, followed by a fall in the respiration noises from 20 to about 12 per minute. This, the doctors believed, indicated he was falling asleep. mer accountant of the Government Telegraph Bureau for a period of six months took from the cash drawer more than $100 weekly to purchase liquor that was consumed in his office, was given yesterday in the opening of the trial of Rooney on the charge of larceny of nearly $13,000 of public money.

Large Liner, Reported Ashore on English Coast, Turns Out to be Small Vessel.

LONDON, Feb. 11.-Considerable LONDON, Feb. 11.—Considerable alarm was felt this morning, over dis-patches to a London newspaper, that a big liner had gone ashore, on the Es-sex coast, and was sending up distress flares, near Walton-on-the-Naze. The vessel turned out, however, to be the 100-ton ketch Rossina, which was swamped and sank. A lifeboat from Clacton-On-Sea rescued her crew of four

"I am prepared at almost any time to find a definite connection between the shaft and the cavern," H. T. Carmichael said, "More crevices are being found, rocks are getting larger, sand has given way to gravel, and more cave crickets are reported,"

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 11.—Hopes for the rescue, soon, of Floyd Collins, the imprisoned cave explorer, ran high, early today, with the diggers in the rescue shaft working through a dry, sandy stratum, presumed by geologists to overlay the roof of Collins' tavern. The odor of the banana oil, sprayed down Collins' tannel, Sunday night, and again Monday, rose through the floor of the shaft, last night, to hearten the tired diggers.
