

McGill College

SESSIONAL EXAMINATION, 1883.

FIRST YEAR

Roman History

- I. What place do the Italian "ancestræ" occupy in the Indo-European family?
- II. What materials exist for the construction of early Roman history? Independence of the narratives of Livy and Dionysius?
- III. Examine the extent traditions of the foundation of Rome, and show what inferences may be drawn (1) from their general similarity, (2) from their specific differences.
- IV. Give a short sketch of the constitution of Rome under the Kings, and show what analogies may be found in the early constitutions of corporate towns.
- V. What were the laws of the XII Tables, and what was their relation (1) to earlier, (2) to later Roman laws?
- VI. What were the leading causes of the internal disturbances of Rome during the first two centuries of the Republic?
- VII. What were the Agrarian laws?
- VIII. What was the constitution of the Roman army during the first two centuries of the Republic?

SESSION

I. What place do the Indo-European

II. What materials exist for the construction of early Roman history? Independence of the narratives of Livy and Dionysius?

III. Examine the extent traditions of the foundation of Rome, and show what inferences may be drawn (1) from their general similarity, (2) from their specific differences.

IV. Give a short sketch of the constitution of Rome under the Kings, and show what analogies may be found in the early constitutions of corporate towns.

V. What were the laws of the XII Tables, and what was their relation (1) to earlier, (2) to later Roman laws?

VI. What were the leading causes of the internal disturbances of Rome during the first two centuries of the Republic?

VII. What

VIII. What was the constitution of the Roman army during the first two centuries of the Republic?