

THE FINAL STANDING IN TRAVEL CLUB

All Workers, Other Than The Five Leaders, Will Now Receive Ten per cent. Commission on All the Business Turned in by Them.

Following is the final standing of members of The Standard Travel Club to which reference is made on the first page of this paper. All active workers defined in the original announcement, other than the five leaders, will receive ten per cent. cash commission on all the business turned in by them. This is of course in addition to any special prizes which they may have won. These payments will be mailed immediately.

Name.	Votes.
Miss Lockhart, City (Won $65.00 in special prizes)	180,090
Miss Stout, Fairville (Won $50.00 in special prizes)	138,980
Miss Murray, Albert (Won $50.00 in special prizes)	78,194
Miss Winton, Fredericton (Won $50.00 in special prizes)	77,633
Miss Newton, Green Harbor (Won $40.00 in special prizes)	60,073
Miss Lee, Woodstock (Won $15.00 in special prizes)	36,374
Miss Calkin, City (Won $10.00 in special prizes)	27,087
Miss Porter, Westfield	21,821
Miss Stewart, Newcastle (Won $20.00 in special prizes)	18,400
Mr. Higgs, Sussex	15,976
Miss Roberts, Cobys (Won $5.00 in special prizes)	14,688
Miss Henry, Welsford (Won $5.00 in special prizes)	12,210
Miss Dixon, City	11,193
Miss Murchie, River Louisbourg (Won $5.00 in special prizes)	8,916
Miss Vernet, Campbellton (Won $5.00 in special prizes)	8,350
Miss McNeill, St. George	8,260
Miss McKnight, Millstream	8,134
Miss Matthews, Moncton (Won $5.00 in special prizes)	8,123
Miss McKel, Brown's Plains (Won $5.00 in special prizes)	6,885
Miss Tapley, City	6,800
Miss Blissett, City	4,966
Mr. McMillan, Grand Falls	4,478
Miss Walte, Andover	4,450
Miss Davis, Harvey	4,443
Miss Short, Hatfield	4,172
Miss Goggin, Elgin	4,121
Miss Pierce, Norton	3,546
Miss Tilly, Jacksonville	3,304
Miss Osborne, Hillsboro	3,232
Miss Dean, Lorneville	3,000
Miss McDonald, Blackville	2,856
Miss Raymond, Kouchibouguie	2,794
Mr. Hornbrook, Loggieville	2,674
Miss Crandall, Hampton	1,900
Mr. Mason, Millstream	1,736
Miss Brewster, Hampton	1,350
Miss Morrison, Chipman	1,334
Miss Dymart, Cocagne	1,304
Miss Barton, The Range	1,286
Miss Brown, Brown's Plains	1,251
Miss Davis, Sussex	1,108

SIDELIGHTS FROM GERMANY

Kaiser Up a Tree Near Verdun—War as Regenerator of Men's Souls.

The "Tagliche Rundschau" publishes some incidents from a Sunday spent lately by the Kaiser in the neighborhood of Verdun. His Majesty had been to church, and he then visited this particular locality in order to see "the wounded warriors." He entered the courtyard, filled with men slightly wounded.

"Morning, boys!"

"Morning, your Majesty!"

"And then rapid questions and answers. At first the men were a bit timid, but the Kaiser's adroit camaraderie and jolliness soon put everyone at his ease, and they soon felt as though they were talking to a popular captain. You should have seen the men whom he spoke to—the unconscious convulsion in their battle-scarred visages, the deep breathing. Sometimes it was only a word or two about their homes. To one man the Kaiser said, 'Ah, yes, I know your place. Was there no manoeuvre. Beautiful place, you might willingly let your bones be smashed with shot for a home like that. Fancy, if we had let the Russians into it!'

But it was not exactly what the Kaiser said which we are asked to admire; it was his genial and cordial laugh, his condescending and inspiring humor. It is this which stiffens the boys' necks, which brings radiance to their eyes. It is this which makes them say, 'I have been in his neighborhood, I have seen him face to face, the man for whom I have bled and bled, and for whom hundreds of thousands have already died without hearing the Kaiser's thanks from his own Imperial lips.'

The Kaiser then entered the hospital where the seriously wounded lay. There was a board at the head of each bed, with particulars of the case. Those who had won the Iron Cross had their ribbon on the board. Here the same jolly atmosphere, only slightly dampened as the men were very weak. It is astonishing the jollity caused everywhere by the Kaiser's coming. From bed to bed he went and on each bed the War Lord laid a twig of laurel and a picture-postcard of himself, which he took from him to the Kaiser. The Schmock of the "Tagliche Rundschau" tells us that sometimes the "August Visitor" took from a parcel the most treasured of all war decorations, the Iron Cross and its ribbon, and presented it to the suffering man. "Ah," says Schmock, "how our souls eyes see the joy of the homes, when the letters come, written with trembling hands, which tell the Kaiser has spoken to the writer, and has laid on his Iron Cross and a sprig of laurel on his bed!" That laurel sprig and Cross will occupy the place of honor on the wall, and go down to the children's children. What proud blessedness for their owners!

Laurel Twigs and Iron Crosses.

The Kaiser then entered the hospital where the seriously wounded lay. There was a board at the head of each bed, with particulars of the case. Those who had won the Iron Cross had their ribbon on the board. Here the same jolly atmosphere, only slightly dampened as the men were very weak. It is astonishing the jollity caused everywhere by the Kaiser's coming. From bed to bed he went and on each bed the War Lord laid a twig of laurel and a picture-postcard of himself, which he took from him to the Kaiser. The Schmock of the "Tagliche Rundschau" tells us that sometimes the "August Visitor" took from a parcel the most treasured of all war decorations, the Iron Cross and its ribbon, and presented it to the suffering man. "Ah," says Schmock, "how our souls eyes see the joy of the homes, when the letters come, written with trembling hands, which tell the Kaiser has spoken to the writer, and has laid on his Iron Cross and a sprig of laurel on his bed!" That laurel sprig and Cross will occupy the place of honor on the wall, and go down to the children's children. What proud blessedness for their owners!

Laurel Twigs and Iron Crosses.

The Kaiser then entered the hospital where the seriously wounded lay. There was a board at the head of each bed, with particulars of the case. Those who had won the Iron Cross had their ribbon on the board. Here the same jolly atmosphere, only slightly dampened as the men were very weak. It is astonishing the jollity caused everywhere by the Kaiser's coming. From bed to bed he went and on each bed the War Lord laid a twig of laurel and a picture-postcard of himself, which he took from him to the Kaiser. The Schmock of the "Tagliche Rundschau" tells us that sometimes the "August Visitor" took from a parcel the most treasured of all war decorations, the Iron Cross and its ribbon, and presented it to the suffering man. "Ah," says Schmock, "how our souls eyes see the joy of the homes, when the letters come, written with trembling hands, which tell the Kaiser has spoken to the writer, and has laid on his Iron Cross and a sprig of laurel on his bed!" That laurel sprig and Cross will occupy the place of honor on the wall, and go down to the children's children. What proud blessedness for their owners!

Laurel Twigs and Iron Crosses.

The Kaiser then entered the hospital where the seriously wounded lay. There was a board at the head of each bed, with particulars of the case. Those who had won the Iron Cross had their ribbon on the board. Here the same jolly atmosphere, only slightly dampened as the men were very weak. It is astonishing the jollity caused everywhere by the Kaiser's coming. From bed to bed he went and on each bed the War Lord laid a twig of laurel and a picture-postcard of himself, which he took from him to the Kaiser. The Schmock of the "Tagliche Rundschau" tells us that sometimes the "August Visitor" took from a parcel the most treasured of all war decorations, the Iron Cross and its ribbon, and presented it to the suffering man. "Ah," says Schmock, "how our souls eyes see the joy of the homes, when the letters come, written with trembling hands, which tell the Kaiser has spoken to the writer, and has laid on his Iron Cross and a sprig of laurel on his bed!" That laurel sprig and Cross will occupy the place of honor on the wall, and go down to the children's children. What proud blessedness for their owners!

Laurel Twigs and Iron Crosses.

The Kaiser then entered the hospital where the seriously wounded lay. There was a board at the head of each bed, with particulars of the case. Those who had won the Iron Cross had their ribbon on the board. Here the same jolly atmosphere, only slightly dampened as the men were very weak. It is astonishing the jollity caused everywhere by the Kaiser's coming. From bed to bed he went and on each bed the War Lord laid a twig of laurel and a picture-postcard of himself, which he took from him to the Kaiser. The Schmock of the "Tagliche Rundschau" tells us that sometimes the "August Visitor" took from a parcel the most treasured of all war decorations, the Iron Cross and its ribbon, and presented it to the suffering man. "Ah," says Schmock, "how our souls eyes see the joy of the homes, when the letters come, written with trembling hands, which tell the Kaiser has spoken to the writer, and has laid on his Iron Cross and a sprig of laurel on his bed!" That laurel sprig and Cross will occupy the place of honor on the wall, and go down to the children's children. What proud blessedness for their owners!

Laurel Twigs and Iron Crosses.

The Kaiser then entered the hospital where the seriously wounded lay. There was a board at the head of each bed, with particulars of the case. Those who had won the Iron Cross had their ribbon on the board. Here the same jolly atmosphere, only slightly dampened as the men were very weak. It is astonishing the jollity caused everywhere by the Kaiser's coming. From bed to bed he went and on each bed the War Lord laid a twig of laurel and a picture-postcard of himself, which he took from him to the Kaiser. The Schmock of the "Tagliche Rundschau" tells us that sometimes the "August Visitor" took from a parcel the most treasured of all war decorations, the Iron Cross and its ribbon, and presented it to the suffering man. "Ah," says Schmock, "how our souls eyes see the joy of the homes, when the letters come, written with trembling hands, which tell the Kaiser has spoken to the writer, and has laid on his Iron Cross and a sprig of laurel on his bed!" That laurel sprig and Cross will occupy the place of honor on the wall, and go down to the children's children. What proud blessedness for their owners!

Laurel Twigs and Iron Crosses.

The Kaiser then entered the hospital where the seriously wounded lay. There was a board at the head of each bed, with particulars of the case. Those who had won the Iron Cross had their ribbon on the board. Here the same jolly atmosphere, only slightly dampened as the men were very weak. It is astonishing the jollity caused everywhere by the Kaiser's coming. From bed to bed he went and on each bed the War Lord laid a twig of laurel and a picture-postcard of himself, which he took from him to the Kaiser. The Schmock of the "Tagliche Rundschau" tells us that sometimes the "August Visitor" took from a parcel the most treasured of all war decorations, the Iron Cross and its ribbon, and presented it to the suffering man. "Ah," says Schmock, "how our souls eyes see the joy of the homes, when the letters come, written with trembling hands, which tell the Kaiser has spoken to the writer, and has laid on his Iron Cross and a sprig of laurel on his bed!" That laurel sprig and Cross will occupy the place of honor on the wall, and go down to the children's children. What proud blessedness for their owners!

Laurel Twigs and Iron Crosses.

The Kaiser then entered the hospital where the seriously wounded lay. There was a board at the head of each bed, with particulars of the case. Those who had won the Iron Cross had their ribbon on the board. Here the same jolly atmosphere, only slightly dampened as the men were very weak. It is astonishing the jollity caused everywhere by the Kaiser's coming. From bed to bed he went and on each bed the War Lord laid a twig of laurel and a picture-postcard of himself, which he took from him to the Kaiser. The Schmock of the "Tagliche Rundschau" tells us that sometimes the "August Visitor" took from a parcel the most treasured of all war decorations, the Iron Cross and its ribbon, and presented it to the suffering man. "Ah," says Schmock, "how our souls eyes see the joy of the homes, when the letters come, written with trembling hands, which tell the Kaiser has spoken to the writer, and has laid on his Iron Cross and a sprig of laurel on his bed!" That laurel sprig and Cross will occupy the place of honor on the wall, and go down to the children's children. What proud blessedness for their owners!

Laurel Twigs and Iron Crosses.

The Kaiser then entered the hospital where the seriously wounded lay. There was a board at the head of each bed, with particulars of the case. Those who had won the Iron Cross had their ribbon on the board. Here the same jolly atmosphere, only slightly dampened as the men were very weak. It is astonishing the jollity caused everywhere by the Kaiser's coming. From bed to bed he went and on each bed the War Lord laid a twig of laurel and a picture-postcard of himself, which he took from him to the Kaiser. The Schmock of the "Tagliche Rundschau" tells us that sometimes the "August Visitor" took from a parcel the most treasured of all war decorations, the Iron Cross and its ribbon, and presented it to the suffering man. "Ah," says Schmock, "how our souls eyes see the joy of the homes, when the letters come, written with trembling hands, which tell the Kaiser has spoken to the writer, and has laid on his Iron Cross and a sprig of laurel on his bed!" That laurel sprig and Cross will occupy the place of honor on the wall, and go down to the children's children. What proud blessedness for their owners!

Laurel Twigs and Iron Crosses.

The Kaiser then entered the hospital where the seriously wounded lay. There was a board at the head of each bed, with particulars of the case. Those who had won the Iron Cross had their ribbon on the board. Here the same jolly atmosphere, only slightly dampened as the men were very weak. It is astonishing the jollity caused everywhere by the Kaiser's coming. From bed to bed he went and on each bed the War Lord laid a twig of laurel and a picture-postcard of himself, which he took from him to the Kaiser. The Schmock of the "Tagliche Rundschau" tells us that sometimes the "August Visitor" took from a parcel the most treasured of all war decorations, the Iron Cross and its ribbon, and presented it to the suffering man. "Ah," says Schmock, "how our souls eyes see the joy of the homes, when the letters come, written with trembling hands, which tell the Kaiser has spoken to the writer, and has laid on his Iron Cross and a sprig of laurel on his bed!" That laurel sprig and Cross will occupy the place of honor on the wall, and go down to the children's children. What proud blessedness for their owners!

Laurel Twigs and Iron Crosses.

The Kaiser then entered the hospital where the seriously wounded lay. There was a board at the head of each bed, with particulars of the case. Those who had won the Iron Cross had their ribbon on the board. Here the same jolly atmosphere, only slightly dampened as the men were very weak. It is astonishing the jollity caused everywhere by the Kaiser's coming. From bed to bed he went and on each bed the War Lord laid a twig of laurel and a picture-postcard of himself, which he took from him to the Kaiser. The Schmock of the "Tagliche Rundschau" tells us that sometimes the "August Visitor" took from a parcel the most treasured of all war decorations, the Iron Cross and its ribbon, and presented it to the suffering man. "Ah," says Schmock, "how our souls eyes see the joy of the homes, when the letters come, written with trembling hands, which tell the Kaiser has spoken to the writer, and has laid on his Iron Cross and a sprig of laurel on his bed!" That laurel sprig and Cross will occupy the place of honor on the wall, and go down to the children's children. What proud blessedness for their owners!

Laurel Twigs and Iron Crosses.

The Kaiser then entered the hospital where the seriously wounded lay. There was a board at the head of each bed, with particulars of the case. Those who had won the Iron Cross had their ribbon on the board. Here the same jolly atmosphere, only slightly dampened as the men were very weak. It is astonishing the jollity caused everywhere by the Kaiser's coming. From bed to bed he went and on each bed the War Lord laid a twig of laurel and a picture-postcard of himself, which he took from him to the Kaiser. The Schmock of the "Tagliche Rundschau" tells us that sometimes the "August Visitor" took from a parcel the most treasured of all war decorations, the Iron Cross and its ribbon, and presented it to the suffering man. "Ah," says Schmock, "how our souls eyes see the joy of the homes, when the letters come, written with trembling hands, which tell the Kaiser has spoken to the writer, and has laid on his Iron Cross and a sprig of laurel on his bed!" That laurel sprig and Cross will occupy the place of honor on the wall, and go down to the children's children. What proud blessedness for their owners!

Laurel Twigs and Iron Crosses.

The Kaiser then entered the hospital where the seriously wounded lay. There was a board at the head of each bed, with particulars of the case. Those who had won the Iron Cross had their ribbon on the board. Here the same jolly atmosphere, only slightly dampened as the men were very weak. It is astonishing the jollity caused everywhere by the Kaiser's coming. From bed to bed he went and on each bed the War Lord laid a twig of laurel and a picture-postcard of himself, which he took from him to the Kaiser. The Schmock of the "Tagliche Rundschau" tells us that sometimes the "August Visitor" took from a parcel the most treasured of all war decorations, the Iron Cross and its ribbon, and presented it to the suffering man. "Ah," says Schmock, "how our souls eyes see the joy of the homes, when the letters come, written with trembling hands, which tell the Kaiser has spoken to the writer, and has laid on his Iron Cross and a sprig of laurel on his bed!" That laurel sprig and Cross will occupy the place of honor on the wall, and go down to the children's children. What proud blessedness for their owners!

Laurel Twigs and Iron Crosses.

The Kaiser then entered the hospital where the seriously wounded lay. There was a board at the head of each bed, with particulars of the case. Those who had won the Iron Cross had their ribbon on the board. Here the same jolly atmosphere, only slightly dampened as the men were very weak. It is astonishing the jollity caused everywhere by the Kaiser's coming. From bed to bed he went and on each bed the War Lord laid a twig of laurel and a picture-postcard of himself, which he took from him to the Kaiser. The Schmock of the "Tagliche Rundschau" tells us that sometimes the "August Visitor" took from a parcel the most treasured of all war decorations, the Iron Cross and its ribbon, and presented it to the suffering man. "Ah," says Schmock, "how our souls eyes see the joy of the homes, when the letters come, written with trembling hands, which tell the Kaiser has spoken to the writer, and has laid on his Iron Cross and a sprig of laurel on his bed!" That laurel sprig and Cross will occupy the place of honor on the wall, and go down to the children's children. What proud blessedness for their owners!

Laurel Twigs and Iron Crosses.

The Kaiser then entered the hospital where the seriously wounded lay. There was a board at the head of each bed, with particulars of the case. Those who had won the Iron Cross had their ribbon on the board. Here the same jolly atmosphere, only slightly dampened as the men were very weak. It is astonishing the jollity caused everywhere by the Kaiser's coming. From bed to bed he went and on each bed the War Lord laid a twig of laurel and a picture-postcard of himself, which he took from him to the Kaiser. The Schmock of the "Tagliche Rundschau" tells us that sometimes the "August Visitor" took from a parcel the most treasured of all war decorations, the Iron Cross and its ribbon, and presented it to the suffering man. "Ah," says Schmock, "how our souls eyes see the joy of the homes, when the letters come, written with trembling hands, which tell the Kaiser has spoken to the writer, and has laid on his Iron Cross and a sprig of laurel on his bed!" That laurel sprig and Cross will occupy the place of honor on the wall, and go down to the children's children. What proud blessedness for their owners!

Laurel Twigs and Iron Crosses.

The Kaiser then entered the hospital where the seriously wounded lay. There was a board at the head of each bed, with particulars of the case. Those who had won the Iron Cross had their ribbon on the board. Here the same jolly atmosphere, only slightly dampened as the men were very weak. It is astonishing the jollity caused everywhere by the Kaiser's coming. From bed to bed he went and on each bed the War Lord laid a twig of laurel and a picture-postcard of himself, which he took from him to the Kaiser. The Schmock of the "Tagliche Rundschau" tells us that sometimes the "August Visitor" took from a parcel the most treasured of all war decorations, the Iron Cross and its ribbon, and presented it to the suffering man. "Ah," says Schmock, "how our souls eyes see the joy of the homes, when the letters come, written with trembling hands, which tell the Kaiser has spoken to the writer, and has laid on his Iron Cross and a sprig of laurel on his bed!" That laurel sprig and Cross will occupy the place of honor on the wall, and go down to the children's children. What proud blessedness for their owners!

Laurel Twigs and Iron Crosses.

The Kaiser then entered the hospital where the seriously wounded lay. There was a board at the head of each bed, with particulars of the case. Those who had won the Iron Cross had their ribbon on the board. Here the same jolly atmosphere, only slightly dampened as the men were very weak. It is astonishing the jollity caused everywhere by the Kaiser's coming. From bed to bed he went and on each bed the War Lord laid a twig of laurel and a picture-postcard of himself, which he took from him to the Kaiser. The Schmock of the "Tagliche Rundschau" tells us that sometimes the "August Visitor" took from a parcel the most treasured of all war decorations, the Iron Cross and its ribbon, and presented it to the suffering man. "Ah," says Schmock, "how our souls eyes see the joy of the homes, when the letters come, written with trembling hands, which tell the Kaiser has spoken to the writer, and has laid on his Iron Cross and a sprig of laurel on his bed!" That laurel sprig and Cross will occupy the place of honor on the wall, and go down to the children's children. What proud blessedness for their owners!

Laurel Twigs and Iron Crosses.

The Kaiser then entered the hospital where the seriously wounded lay. There was a board at the head of each bed, with particulars of the case. Those who had won the Iron Cross had their ribbon on the board. Here the same jolly atmosphere, only slightly dampened as the men were very weak. It is astonishing the jollity caused everywhere by the Kaiser's coming. From bed to bed he went and on each bed the War Lord laid a twig of laurel and a picture-postcard of himself, which he took from him to the Kaiser. The Schmock of the "Tagliche Rundschau" tells us that sometimes the "August Visitor" took from a parcel the most treasured of all war decorations, the Iron Cross and its ribbon, and presented it to the suffering man. "Ah," says Schmock, "how our souls eyes see the joy of the homes, when the letters come, written with trembling hands, which tell the Kaiser has spoken to the writer, and has laid on his Iron Cross and a sprig of laurel on his bed!" That laurel sprig and Cross will occupy the place of honor on the wall, and go down to the children's children. What proud blessedness for their owners!

Laurel Twigs and Iron Crosses.

The Kaiser then entered the hospital where the seriously wounded lay. There was a board at the head of each bed, with particulars of the case. Those who had won the Iron Cross had their ribbon on the board. Here the same jolly atmosphere, only slightly dampened as the men were very weak. It is astonishing the jollity caused everywhere by the Kaiser's coming. From bed to bed he went and on each bed the War Lord laid a twig of laurel and a picture-postcard of himself, which he took from him to the Kaiser. The Schmock of the "Tagliche Rundschau" tells us that sometimes the "August Visitor" took from a parcel the most treasured of all war decorations, the Iron Cross and its ribbon, and presented it to the suffering man. "Ah," says Schmock, "how our souls eyes see the joy of the homes, when the letters come, written with trembling hands, which tell the Kaiser has spoken to the writer, and has laid on his Iron Cross and a sprig of laurel on his bed!" That laurel sprig and Cross will occupy the place of honor on the wall, and go down to the children's children. What proud blessedness for their owners!

Laurel Twigs and Iron Crosses.

The Kaiser then entered the hospital where the seriously wounded lay. There was a board at the head of each bed, with particulars of the case. Those who had won the Iron Cross had their ribbon on the board. Here the same jolly atmosphere, only slightly dampened as the men were very weak. It is astonishing the jollity caused everywhere by the Kaiser's coming. From bed to bed he went and on each bed the War Lord laid a twig of laurel and a picture-postcard of himself, which he took from him to the Kaiser. The Schmock of the "Tagliche Rundschau" tells us that sometimes the "August Visitor" took from a parcel the most treasured of all war decorations, the Iron Cross and its ribbon, and presented it to the suffering man. "Ah," says Schmock, "how our souls eyes see the joy of the homes, when the letters come, written with trembling hands, which tell the Kaiser has spoken to the writer, and has laid on his Iron Cross and a sprig of laurel on his bed!" That laurel sprig and Cross will occupy the place of honor on the wall, and go down to the children's children. What proud blessedness for their owners!

Every Drop Is British

Everything in the manufacture of READY'S LAGER BEER is so carefully selected; every process of the brewery is so skillfully carried out, and such close scrutiny is exercised as to cleanliness, that anything in the nature of an impurity is quite impossible.

As an additional recommendation READY'S LAGER BEER is BRITISH—every drop of it is British—and loyalists will drink it in preference to the foreign beers now selling in this market.

Produced by
READY'S BREWERIES, LTD.
St. John, N. B.
By Canadians for Canadians.

error was that he gave expression to his honest view in a manner dangerous to the security and internal peace of the country.

How We Stole Joan of Arc.

"Those English thieves" are still pursuing their inglorious career. In co-operation with the famous English vocalist Frau Clara Bohl, they have now, according to the "Cologne Gazette," stolen Joan of Arc!

We are living in times of portentous epoch-making events. One of the most portentous of them all is the adoption by England of France's very latest saint, Joan of Arc, as her very own celestial guardian and patron.

The stupendous fact was solemnly announced amid the strains of the organ and vibrant notes of the singer Frau Clara Bohl in the Queen's Hall, London. So now we may prepare for the worst, because Holy Joan, in her joy at her emancipation, will surely move all the heavenly hosts to return to earth once more, as they did at the English debacle at Mons.

Any way, it is but in accordance with divine justice that France's celestial representative should be now appropriated by England, because the shepherdess of Domremy owes her fame, not to the super-Hun, Schlieffer, but to England. Had not the English, on May 13, 1431, burnt her alive, she would never have been canonized.

They Can't Bear It.

A heartfelt protest against the infamy of paying tribute to the courage of Germany's enemies is published at considerable length in the "Rheinisch-Westfälische Zeitung."

There must be an end to the laudatory references which from time to time appear in German papers regarding the bravery and the endurance of our enemies in the western theatre of war, be they French or English.

By singing their praises in this manner we reinforce the enemy troops their shattered confidence, we strengthen their powers of resistance, and encourage them to attack.

At the same time, German praise of the warlike spirit of enemy troops results in a most dangerous manner on ourselves. An adversary who is convinced of his own worth—whether he be attacked or whether he himself is the attacking party—is always more difficult to beat than one who is unsupported by the inner consciousness of his strength, and thus it is that the sacrifice of life that is necessary in order to defeat him is constantly on the increase. After the conclusion of a glorious peace we may be allowed to entertain ourselves as much as we like with tales of the enemy's bravery. Today it were best for us to keep our mouths shut.

A "Bitter Harvest."

The Berlin "Tagblatt," which has not endeavored itself to the Government by its habit of calling public attention to more or less, deals with another aspect of the food question.

Great indignation is felt in Friedland at the fact that the Central Purchasing Association, established by the imperial authorities, has issued "preferential food tickets" for its employees.

Municipal officials, who maintain themselves on the communal contributions paid in the form of taxation, are charged with the duty of providing themselves with food whenever they choose to do so, leaving the people who keep them to struggle for it as best they may.

Nobody would object if a factory or other important industrial concern sought to facilitate the supply of food for their workers, but the arguments that apply to a factory cannot be employed in such a case as that of the Central Purchasing Association, because the latter, through its monopolizing powers, furnishes itself with its foodstuffs, not through free and open purchase, but mainly by confiscation.

It is intolerable that the association's employees should be placed in a position to procure the food they desire at reduced rates while their fellow-citizens, after waiting for hours in the street, cannot even obtain what they need at fancy prices.

The issue of preferential tickets must cease at once, or the Central Association will reap a bitter harvest.

Food at Any Cost.

Munch is feeling the pinch so bitterly that the local "Neueste Nachrichten" calls loudly for a food dictator.

To secure the rapid, equitable and effective distribution of food Germany would even welcome the establishment of a dictatorship.

The idea is ridiculed in certain quarters, but those who regard it with such disdain would be wiser and more patriotic if they recognized that the situation demands drastic treatment.

It may be added that Herr Hehn, whatever be his errors, did not act from any base motives. On the contrary, he thoroughly recognized what were the crying needs. His fatal well woman. Your Honorable Wife is just the thing to overcome female weakness. I have sold young mothers (as well as older ones) about your remedies, and what they have done for me. I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved my life, as my health was very bad when I wrote you, but now I can do my own work and have not had a sick day since I began taking your remedies. I keep the Compound and Liver Pills on hand all the time."—Mrs. Geo. Thompson, 24 Sherwood Court, Newark, Ohio.

Why don't you write for free advice? Address: Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.

Cornmeal, Oats, Bran and Middlings
Wholesale Only.
STEEN BROTHERS,
Catherine Street.

A. L. GOODWIN
Wholesale Fruits
36-38 Germain St.
St. John, N. B.

Automobile Tires
"GOODRICH" Standard and "SILVERCORD" Tires, in plain and "Non-skid;" also "Goodyear" and other standard tires and tubes. All new stock, right prices.
ESTEE & CO., 49 Dock Street.

Classified Advertising

One cent per word each insertion. Discount of 33 1/3 per cent on advertisements running one week or longer if paid in advance. Minimum charge 25 cents.

WRECKED CARGO BY AUCTION

200 Cases Mattress Wire, 36 Cases Nails, At No. 3 Shed, West St. John, Monday, June 26, at ten o'clock, comprising in part—

Motor and Bicycle Accessories, 250 Cases Chair Stock, 5 Cases Underclothing, 9 Cases Baby Carriages, 2 Planes, Enamelware, 50 Cases Files, 1 Case Globe Valves, Electric Motor, 12 Cases Machinery, Flows and Parts, 28 Cases Cultivators, Quantity Tin Plates, 25 Packages Wood Handles, Lot of Clothes-plin, Shavers, Lot of DOWELS, 4 Rolls Cotton Duck.

T. T. LANTALUM, Auctioneer. 'Phone 769. Office: 45 Canterbury Street, St. John, N. B.

SAINT JOHN AND QUEBEC RAILWAY COMPANY.

NOTICE. Notice is hereby given that a map or plan and book of reference showing the location of the Saint John and Quebec Railway in the Parish of Westfield, County of Kings, being from the Westfield and Greenwich at or near Mile 63.5 to the connection with the Canadian Pacific Railway near Westfield Beach Station, at or near Mile 70, south of Fredericton, have this day deposited with the Clerk of the Peace for the said County and in the office of the Minister of Public Works, at the City of Fredericton, where the same can be examined as provided by law.

SAINT JOHN & QUEBEC RAILWAY, Edward Girouard, Secretary. Dated at Fredericton, N. B., June 23rd, 1916.

DEPARTMENT OF THE NAVAL SERVICE.

NOTICE OF SALE. SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the Naval Store Officer at the Halifax Dockyard, Halifax, N. S., and marked "Tender for old stores," will be received up to 12 o'clock noon on Monday the 3rd day of July, 1916, for the purchase of any or all of the following:—Steel, old, mild, No. 2 30,525 lbs. Steel, old, sheet, No. 3 1,070 Steel, old, scrap, No. 1 1