Dear Sir

In reply to your letter of Dec 23 6079, I beg to say, that though portions of the Indian Reserve at Fisher's Grant are thickly wooded, the said wood cannot be used for firewood - for fuel as it is of the soft variety, chiefly spruce. To keep themselves warm during the winter the Indians have to ^{steal} the firewood, which they have been doing much to the chagrin of the proprietors. The wood in the reserve is valuable for fencing and will be useful for that purpose for many years. The use of firewood
