It is always such a joy when the really great men of our time gather together there is always affectionate appreciative reference to you.
None of your opposition (I can not just recollect one appropriate adjective for them) are ever included, (so you see you are living in the hearts of even this generation, with rivals forgotten).

I had a long letter from Willie Dickson after he went to Preston, and shall write him as soon as there is any thing that might interest him.
He must be very lonely.

How wonderful that a few of us have lived to see the changes at Ottawa and
