

Armstrong, W. Fisher, J. T. Scott, Dr. Black, Hugh Waters, W. Johnston, and a number of other gentlemen, who never relaxed during the whole of the day in creating and stimulating the amusements. The gentlemen composing the fine band of Hyacks, deserve great credit for their untiring exertions. From morning till the close of the day, they could be heard discoursing sweet music "grave and gay," furnishing the great source of much of the day's happiness.
