

HOT BATTLE RAGES NEAR BULLECOURT

Desperate Resistance of Teutons Overcome by Troops of Nivelle

Agitation Continues in Germany For Removal of Von Hollweg

Haig's Human Nippers Close on Drocourt-Queant Line

Hardy Australian Troops Surrounded Bullecourt, and its Fall is Imminent; Steady Retreat of Teuton Troops Goes Steadily on

The great human nippers, which General Haig has forged around the southern end of the Drocourt-Queant switch line, are steadily closing and the rolling up of the important section of the German defenses appears to be a matter of a few days.

The bitter resistance offered by the Germans to the British advance has centred in their defense of Bullecourt, two and a half miles west of Queant.

The Drocourt-Queant line is the hastily improvised barrier thrown up by Field Marshal von Hindenburg to protect Cambrai and Douai, after the more famous line, named in honor of himself, had been smashed by the British.

The latter resistance offered by the Germans to the British advance has centred in their defense of Bullecourt, two and a half miles west of Queant.

The Drocourt-Queant line forms a broad salient in the British front, eighteen miles at its top and paralleling the Douai-Cambrai line.

Washington, May 8.—The Administration's wooden shipbuilding program, it was announced today, is definitely under way, and the shipping board hopes within a few months to be turning out great numbers of vessels to run the German undersea blockade.

There are many signs that the Germans realize the menace to them in the alternate sledgehammer blows of the British and the French, beneath which their choicest troops are being steadily driven from position after position.
