ingly philanthropic offer is made by one business man to another as that told of by a partner in an old builten house to a Mali and Express reporter.

"Not long ago." he said, "a denier in seld and silver heard that one floor of a building which had not leen occupied for some time was to be remied, but that the propeosite tenant had insisted that a new floor be laid before he take possession, as the old one had become very much worn. The builtion dealer knew that the previous cocument had been a manufacturer of jewolry and had been in business in the place for many years. He prompely visited the owner of the property and told him that he would put in a new floor of the best wood for nothing. The owner made a few inquiries, but the dealer said very little in reply, except that he thought he would manage to scrape a good deal of gold and silver dust from off the floor. His offer was accepted. The wood for the new floor and the labor for laying it cost about $200.

"The cld flooring was burned and the ashes put through a course of reduction. The result was that the buillion dealer obtained nearly $500 for the gold and silver which was brought out, or a profit of about 100 per cent, on the operation. "Every manufacturer of jewelry or worker in the precious metals calculates that he will lose about $800 in 'asturasting' new quarters of the usual loft size. The gold and silver dust penetrates the pores of the wood and small particles are ground into the floor. After just so much is lost in this way the waste cases and all dust that falls to the floor or adheres to the wall may be swept up or off and saved. The sweepings in these factories and in buillion offices are always aved and reduced."—New York Mail and Express.

Why It Was Named Rubber. in one of the Central American states gives the following as the origin of the name rubber, as applied to caoutchouc: An English artist discovered in 1770 that the new gum was admirably adapted for rubbing out pencil marks. He wrote a paper on the subject and informed his contemporaries that a cubic inch of this substance, costing only 3 shillings, would last for years.
