Since 1903 :he dopartment has been considering incressed eccommodation for engines at Halifax. Once the whole engineering and superintending staff agreed upon a site which was subsequently abandoned. Thestanother was favorably considered and the department went so far as to prepare plans for the buildings and to have all the properties valued. Waile the lands were under discussion in the summer of 1905, mention was made of fre site at the Cotton Factory Siding. Close inquiry fails to reveal the originator of the idea, but it took form in the satumn and before the end of the year the deputy at Ottawa and the
