

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is a peculiar medicine. It is carefully prepared from Sarsaparilla, Dandelion, Mandrake, Dock, Pilewort, Juniper, Berries, and other well-known and valuable vegetable remedies, by a peculiar combination, proportion and process, giving to Hood's Sarsaparilla curative power not possessed by other medicines. It effects remarkable cures where other preparations fail.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best blood purifier before the public. It eradicates every impurity, and cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Boils, Pimples, all Humors, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Indigestion, General Debility, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Kidney and Liver Complaints, overcomes that staid feeling, creates an appetite, and builds up the system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Has met peculiar and unparalleled success at home. Such has become its popularity in Lowell, Mass., where it is made, that whole neighborhoods are taking it at the same time. Lowell druggists sell more of Hood's Sarsaparilla than all other sarsaparillas or blood purifiers. Sold by druggists, $1.50 per box. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One DollarTHE DATE FIXED

For the Gallagher-Richardson International Wrestling Match.

London Lawn Tennis Club joins the Canadian Association—A Seasonable Query. "Why Go Fishing?" Answered—Baseball, Trigger and Other Items of Sporting News.

ATHLETICS

After 40 rounds the sparring match at Fort Wayne, Ind., between George Siddon and Tommy White, Saturday night, was declared a draw. Neither participant was much hurt.

INTERNATIONAL WRESTLING MATCH

All arrangements are now complete for the Richardson-Gallagher wrestling match for the championship of the United States and Canada. The contest will take place in the Princess rink, this city, on the evening of May 21, and doubtless a large crowd will witness the two champions try conclusions. Both men have gone into active training at their respective homes—Dorchester and Buffalo, Gallagher is at present the champion of the United States, and Richardson holds the same honor in Canada, won recently in the Grand Opera House, this city. They are in the best of trim and the most exciting wrestling battle that has ever taken place in this country may be looked for. The stakes are $500, to be placed in the hands of the referee the day before the match, while 75 per cent. of the receipts is to go to the winner and 25 per cent. to the loser. The forfeit of $100 is still at this office.

BASEBALL

Nines from the Echo and Free Press offices enjoyed a game of baseball at the Trenchum Park Saturday afternoon. The Echo proved too much for the Free Press boys, although it is said they did little kicking. Score: Echo 23 (with an inning to spare), Free Press 20.

Fraser & Stirling's nine defeated the London West Stars Saturday by a score of 9 to 5. Heavy batting was done by the victors.

The baseball match between the Seventh and "D" Company, I. S. C., teams on Saturday resulted as follows:

SEVENTH PUNISHMENT COMPANY.	"D" COMPANY.
McIntosh, 3b.....1	Pinnell, c.....1
W. Elliott, 1b.....1	Palmer, 2b.....1
Pellow, 1b.....1	Hawthorn, 3b.....1
Shayne, c.....1	McIntosh, 1b.....1
McIntosh, 1b.....1	Hawthorn, 3b.....1
Kinnella, 2b.....1	McIntosh, 1b.....1
Brett, c.....1	Morgan, 1b.....1
Pinnell, 1b.....1	Wheeler, 2b.....1
A. Elliott, 1b.....1	Fulton, 1b.....1
Totals.....15	Totals.....15

Seventh.....22 0 10-9-12
"D" Company.....0 2 0 2-0-3
Batteries—Hill and Sharpe, West and Pinnell. Umpires—Kingsnorth and Coburn.

Saturday's National League games—Boston 4, Cincinnati 8; Athletics 4, Columbia 0; Louisville 6, Baltimore 16; Washington 10, St. Louis 8.

McGill, formerly of Toronto, now third baseman for the Denver, recently went from first base home on a single hit.

THE TURF

D. Ferguson, of this city, is a subscriber to the guaranteed stake to be trotted at Fort Huron, July 14.

The St. Thomas Turf Club will hold meetings on May 28 and 29 this year, and $1,400 in prizes will be given. First day—Three-minute trot, purse $200, divided; 2:30 trotters and pacers, purse $250, and 2:40 trotters and pacers, purse $250. Second day—Free for trotters and pacers, purse $400, divided; all 2:30 trotters and pacers, purse $250, and five-furlong run, purse $100.

The statement has been made that only one of Socrates' got had reached the 2:30 list. Such is not the case. Socrates is the sire of Socrates (gelding), Zella II, 2:28, at 8 years; Soc, 2:32; and the dam of Sinal, 2:33. Socrates is full brother to Kiber, 2:27; Dickering, 2:30, and Norwood. The last mentioned is sire of Toney Norwood, 2:28; Johnny T., 2:30; Ida Norwood, 2:23, and the dams of three which are in 2:30 or better.

THE ROD

The false coloring which a morbid condition of the physical man throws upon man and motives binds much the prompt and efficient discharge of professional duties. A Methodist bishop, who is well-known all over the United States, is an enthusiastic fisherman. He says he would have been a hunter, too, but for being near-sighted in his youth. When his over-conscientious friends ask him how he can afford to spend so much time on the river bank he replies: "As a means of grace, sir."

Nothing can be compared to field sports in the way of recreation. Of course the same amount of mere physical exertion can be easily had by artificial means, but this is only half, perhaps less. No mind that is trained to close and intense application can suddenly leave off and do nothing. While one swings the dumb-bell or takes a constitutional, the tough question, be it a sermon, a brief, or a battle with pneumonia, riots in the brain and will not down. The only show is to give the mind something else upon which to work. This is most successful.

HARRY LENOX

Corner Richmond and Carling Streets.

Is offering his large stock of suitings and trousers to buyers at the lowest prices. No old stock, but everything new, stylish, and what the public require. Now is the time to take advantage of a big assortment and lowest prices. Mr. James Lenox is with the establishment, and will be pleased to see his old friends. Two first-class cutters. No fancy prices, but value every time.

AMONG THE LITTLE ONES.

How the Fatherless and Motherless Are Taken Care Of.

Bel Thistlethwaite's Visit to the Protestant Orphan Home.

"You go up Richmond street as far as the street cars will take you, and about a block farther up you will find the Protestant Orphan Home. It is a large building on the right hand side of the street, with a flight of steps leading up to it."

Following these directions my cousin and I found ourselves the other day in front of what is generally called the Orphan Home. Neither of us is an orphan—we are blessed with the usual number of fathers and mothers—but we have long had a curiosity to learn something of the lives of those who are not. What must it be like to be a forlorn and destitute child, and to live not at home, but in a home? This was the question we wished to answer.

"How many inmates are there here at present?" we asked the matron, after a preliminary chat in the reception room. "Fifty-six children," was the reply, "all between the ages of 2 and 12. The aged and infirm, who used to be admitted here, have now been sent to the shelter in the aged women's home, on the corner of King and Waterloo streets, and the home for Old Men on John street."

"Why, how do you manage with such a number?" another would be half distracted if she had to look after a family of five or six if they were all under 12."

"Even with the capable assistants that we have here," replied Miss Call with a smile, "it is a task that taxes all our powers. The children are in the main no more troublesome than those who are in happier circumstances, but like everybody of their age, they are extremely inquisitive. Let a really vicious or unmanageable child be admitted, or let a boy who has been 'tramping it' be sent here, and in a very short time the spirit of rebelliousness and discontent begins to prevail. The same is true of some new falls to point out to the others how silly it is to stay cramped up here under control, when they might as well be eating the fruits of wilderness, and the result is a general feeling of discontent and insubordination, which is difficult to dispel. The fact is that the proper place for all children not amenable to discipline is the reformatory."

"Are there any recent arrivals among the children?" we asked.

"Yes; four little girls came last week, all from one family. Is it not sad?"

"We said yes, it was very sad, and all the time we were trying our best not to imagine the sad condition of being left at the most susceptible age homeless and friendless, and dependent on public charity for support. As my cousin Anna said after her visit to the orphanage, 'I don't know on other words they only sprang up all the fresher for being watered. What you want to do is either to reduce those woes or else to put them entirely away from the mind of the child.'"

A new direction to our thoughts, and we rose simultaneously to discover the cause. "It must be Thomas!" exclaimed the matron, and sure enough it was Thomas. We went at him in some surprise, as we had never before met with a young man of less than 2 years who was habitually called by the name of Thomas. He was a small, dark, and not so much susceptible age homeless and friendless, and dependent on public charity for support. As my cousin Anna said after her visit to the orphanage, 'I don't know on other words they only sprang up all the fresher for being watered. What you want to do is either to reduce those woes or else to put them entirely away from the mind of the child.'"

"They don't seem to be at all shy," I remarked, as he advanced to meet us. "I remember a few years ago I was in a reformatory, and I was very much surprised to find an eager inspection of my gloves, gown, and the red-edged book I carried."

"I think they're perfectly sweet," laughed the matron, and she was vainly searching in her pocket for something more satisfactory in the shape of a gift than a red-edged book. "I responded, 'Oh, isn't he?' was the indignant exclamation. 'Well, I just tell you one thing—'

But what the one thing was I have never learned, for at that moment the war-like Thomas, uttering a whoop, made a wild dash across the nursery, and we made good our escape, while the matron, striking an alarm, followed him in pursuit.

After that we went over the entire domain. Most of the rooms were clean and neat, and the children, with their rows of small white caps, were an attractive sight. At a second story window where we paused to admire the beauty of the view, the matron informed us that a small white cat was very much attached to the ground on its head. We pushed our heads out and gazed shudderingly at the long cruel distance down to the ground. "Did she ever fall?" we asked.

"Oh, she didn't die; she was only badly stunned. It was a darkey child."

The green fields, budding trees, and softly scented air suggested the inquiry as to whether the children did not often feel an irresistible desire to escape "out of bounds." "We very seldom have any runaway to deal with," replied Miss Call, "probably owing to the fact that we often take the children to the woods or the river, or over to Becher Island on a picnic. Their natural desire for liberty is gratified as often as possible in a legitimate manner."

The sewing-room in which two seamstresses were busily engaged is an interesting apartment. Six dozen shirts are in course of making. It seems like a large number, until one remembers that that means only two shirts apiece for each little boy on the place. Two carts, striking an extravagant allowance for an active boy, an economical device for keeping them respectably attired during school hours is the practice of keeping all garments, while the small boys are in the school room, in the old clothes or very completely worn out on the playground.

Crossing the yard we went over to what used to be called the "dormitory." As sickness is a most uncommon event at the home (only one death has occurred there during the last four years) the name has been turned into a school room. Here we found Miss McEwen presiding over a number of intelligent-looking, gentle-faced children. It is possible, of course, that some of them are neither gentle nor intelligent, but one could not avow being struck with the evidences of these qualities. Religious services are held every evening of one week and Wednesday morning of the next.

The kitchen and dining-room through which we passed on our return brought up the subject of the institution in connection with the principles of the reformatory. Not a particle of food is wasted. Even the crumbs that fall when the bread is sliced up for a meal are reserved for a dog, which is a friend of the home, being greatly shocked by the amount of potatoes, syrup, salt, etc., that was used there during the month, instead of dividing the number that appalled her by 30, and then by 3, and then by 36, in order to discover how small a share fell to the lot of each at a meal, rashly declared that they ought to be put on allowance. Accordingly this economical person was invited one night up to supper, during which several children made the venerable Oliver Twist remark, and were told that they had eaten their share, and could have no more. "Oh," exclaimed the parsimonious lady, "but that is all nonsense! Growing children must have all they want to eat!" All of which goes to show that it is much easier to be hardhearted in theory than in practice.

I was about to give some statistics concerning this institution, but my cousin Anna says that a little information rouses curiosity, a little more excites interest, but too much prevents people from ever trying to find out anything about the subject for themselves. Why didn't I stop before!

EUROPEAN CROPS.

Better Prospects Reported—A Most Beneficial Change in Russia, England and Germany.

LONDON, May 11.—During the past ten days there has been a most beneficial change in the harvest prospects of Europe. An unusually severe winter for a long time has been succeeded by a chilly drought, so that the crops have been enabled to get a good start, and the weather, which has altered everything for the better, is still likely to be of service.

Both in France and Germany recent high prices have had the effect of discovering considerably larger stores of old grain than had been supposed to exist, while it is reported here to-day that by some mysterious error in the Board of Trade returns last month England was represented to have a visible supply much less than what actually exists, while her imports for the period in wheat and flour were understated by 525,657 quarters.

Stock Statement.

LONDON, May 11.—Mr. Gladstone is the latest of the prominent men of Great Britain to be announced as on the sick list. Mr. Gladstone went to church as usual yesterday morning, and seemed to be enjoying his usual health. In the afternoon, however, the veteran statesman was seized with shivering fits. Mrs. Gladstone, alarmed at the symptoms, sent for Sir Andrew Clark, Mr. Gladstone's family physician. The latter, though not pronouncing Mr. Gladstone's illness to be of a serious nature, declares that Mr. Gladstone must not leave his room for several days.

New York, May 11.—Secretary Blaine has been indisposed for a few days, and his medical advisers have insisted upon his absolute quiet and rest. He is confined to his room and is allowed to get up but a few hours at a time.

A Husband's Temper.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 11.—On Saturday night at 10 o'clock a mining village down the Ohio River, Jas. E. Stewart, a miner, reminded his wife that they had been married five years that day. Stewart had his usual health. In the afternoon, however, the veteran statesman was seized with shivering fits. Mrs. Gladstone, alarmed at the symptoms, sent for Sir Andrew Clark, Mr. Gladstone's family physician. The latter, though not pronouncing Mr. Gladstone's illness to be of a serious nature, declares that Mr. Gladstone must not leave his room for several days.

New York, May 11.—Secretary Blaine has been indisposed for a few days, and his medical advisers have insisted upon his absolute quiet and rest. He is confined to his room and is allowed to get up but a few hours at a time.

A Husband's Temper.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 11.—On Saturday night at 10 o'clock a mining village down the Ohio River, Jas. E. Stewart, a miner, reminded his wife that they had been married five years that day. Stewart had his usual health. In the afternoon, however, the veteran statesman was seized with shivering fits. Mrs. Gladstone, alarmed at the symptoms, sent for Sir Andrew Clark, Mr. Gladstone's family physician. The latter, though not pronouncing Mr. Gladstone's illness to be of a serious nature, declares that Mr. Gladstone must not leave his room for several days.

New York, May 11.—Secretary Blaine has been indisposed for a few days, and his medical advisers have insisted upon his absolute quiet and rest. He is confined to his room and is allowed to get up but a few hours at a time.

A Husband's Temper.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 11.—On Saturday night at 10 o'clock a mining village down the Ohio River, Jas. E. Stewart, a miner, reminded his wife that they had been married five years that day. Stewart had his usual health. In the afternoon, however, the veteran statesman was seized with shivering fits. Mrs. Gladstone, alarmed at the symptoms, sent for Sir Andrew Clark, Mr. Gladstone's family physician. The latter, though not pronouncing Mr. Gladstone's illness to be of a serious nature, declares that Mr. Gladstone must not leave his room for several days.

New York, May 11.—Secretary Blaine has been indisposed for a few days, and his medical advisers have insisted upon his absolute quiet and rest. He is confined to his room and is allowed to get up but a few hours at a time.

A Husband's Temper.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 11.—On Saturday night at 10 o'clock a mining village down the Ohio River, Jas. E. Stewart, a miner, reminded his wife that they had been married five years that day. Stewart had his usual health. In the afternoon, however, the veteran statesman was seized with shivering fits. Mrs. Gladstone, alarmed at the symptoms, sent for Sir Andrew Clark, Mr. Gladstone's family physician. The latter, though not pronouncing Mr. Gladstone's illness to be of a serious nature, declares that Mr. Gladstone must not leave his room for several days.

New York, May 11.—Secretary Blaine has been indisposed for a few days, and his medical advisers have insisted upon his absolute quiet and rest. He is confined to his room and is allowed to get up but a few hours at a time.

A Husband's Temper.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 11.—On Saturday night at 10 o'clock a mining village down the Ohio River, Jas. E. Stewart, a miner, reminded his wife that they had been married five years that day. Stewart had his usual health. In the afternoon, however, the veteran statesman was seized with shivering fits. Mrs. Gladstone, alarmed at the symptoms, sent for Sir Andrew Clark, Mr. Gladstone's family physician. The latter, though not pronouncing Mr. Gladstone's illness to be of a serious nature, declares that Mr. Gladstone must not leave his room for several days.

New York, May 11.—Secretary Blaine has been indisposed for a few days, and his medical advisers have insisted upon his absolute quiet and rest. He is confined to his room and is allowed to get up but a few hours at a time.

A Husband's Temper.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 11.—On Saturday night at 10 o'clock a mining village down the Ohio River, Jas. E. Stewart, a miner, reminded his wife that they had been married five years that day. Stewart had his usual health. In the afternoon, however, the veteran statesman was seized with shivering fits. Mrs. Gladstone, alarmed at the symptoms, sent for Sir Andrew Clark, Mr. Gladstone's family physician. The latter, though not pronouncing Mr. Gladstone's illness to be of a serious nature, declares that Mr. Gladstone must not leave his room for several days.

New York, May 11.—Secretary Blaine has been indisposed for a few days, and his medical advisers have insisted upon his absolute quiet and rest. He is confined to his room and is allowed to get up but a few hours at a time.

A Husband's Temper.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 11.—On Saturday night at 10 o'clock a mining village down the Ohio River, Jas. E. Stewart, a miner, reminded his wife that they had been married five years that day. Stewart had his usual health. In the afternoon, however, the veteran statesman was seized with shivering fits. Mrs. Gladstone, alarmed at the symptoms, sent for Sir Andrew Clark, Mr. Gladstone's family physician. The latter, though not pronouncing Mr. Gladstone's illness to be of a serious nature, declares that Mr. Gladstone must not leave his room for several days.

New York, May 11.—Secretary Blaine has been indisposed for a few days, and his medical advisers have insisted upon his absolute quiet and rest. He is confined to his room and is allowed to get up but a few hours at a time.

A Husband's Temper.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 11.—On Saturday night at 10 o'clock a mining village down the Ohio River, Jas. E. Stewart, a miner, reminded his wife that they had been married five years that day. Stewart had his usual health. In the afternoon, however, the veteran statesman was seized with shivering fits. Mrs. Gladstone, alarmed at the symptoms, sent for Sir Andrew Clark, Mr. Gladstone's family physician. The latter, though not pronouncing Mr. Gladstone's illness to be of a serious nature, declares that Mr. Gladstone must not leave his room for several days.

New York, May 11.—Secretary Blaine has been indisposed for a few days, and his medical advisers have insisted upon his absolute quiet and rest. He is confined to his room and is allowed to get up but a few hours at a time.

A Husband's Temper.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 11.—On Saturday night at 10 o'clock a mining village down the Ohio River, Jas. E. Stewart, a miner, reminded his wife that they had been married five years that day. Stewart had his usual health. In the afternoon, however, the veteran statesman was seized with shivering fits. Mrs. Gladstone, alarmed at the symptoms, sent for Sir Andrew Clark, Mr. Gladstone's family physician. The latter, though not pronouncing Mr. Gladstone's illness to be of a serious nature, declares that Mr. Gladstone must not leave his room for several days.

New York, May 11.—Secretary Blaine has been indisposed for a few days, and his medical advisers have insisted upon his absolute quiet and rest. He is confined to his room and is allowed to get up but a few hours at a time.

A Husband's Temper.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 11.—On Saturday night at 10 o'clock a mining village down the Ohio River, Jas. E. Stewart, a miner, reminded his wife that they had been married five years that day. Stewart had his usual health. In the afternoon, however, the veteran statesman was seized with shivering fits. Mrs. Gladstone, alarmed at the symptoms, sent for Sir Andrew Clark, Mr. Gladstone's family physician. The latter, though not pronouncing Mr. Gladstone's illness to be of a serious nature, declares that Mr. Gladstone must not leave his room for several days.

New York, May 11.—Secretary Blaine has been indisposed for a few days, and his medical advisers have insisted upon his absolute quiet and rest. He is confined to his room and is allowed to get up but a few hours at a time.

A Husband's Temper.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 11.—On Saturday night at 10 o'clock a mining village down the Ohio River, Jas. E. Stewart, a miner, reminded his wife that they had been married five years that day. Stewart had his usual health. In the afternoon, however, the veteran statesman was seized with shivering fits. Mrs. Gladstone, alarmed at the symptoms, sent for Sir Andrew Clark, Mr. Gladstone's family physician. The latter, though not pronouncing Mr. Gladstone's illness to be of a serious nature, declares that Mr. Gladstone must not leave his room for several days.

New York, May 11.—Secretary Blaine has been indisposed for a few days, and his medical advisers have insisted upon his absolute quiet and rest. He is confined to his room and is allowed to get up but a few hours at a time.

A Husband's Temper.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 11.—On Saturday night at 10 o'clock a mining village down the Ohio River, Jas. E. Stewart, a miner, reminded his wife that they had been married five years that day. Stewart had his usual health. In the afternoon, however, the veteran statesman was seized with shivering fits. Mrs. Gladstone, alarmed at the symptoms, sent for Sir Andrew Clark, Mr. Gladstone's family physician. The latter, though not pronouncing Mr. Gladstone's illness to be of a serious nature, declares that Mr. Gladstone must not leave his room for several days.

New York, May 11.—Secretary Blaine has been indisposed for a few days, and his medical advisers have insisted upon his absolute quiet and rest. He is confined to his room and is allowed to get up but a few hours at a time.

A Husband's Temper.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 11.—On Saturday night at 10 o'clock a mining village down the Ohio River, Jas. E. Stewart, a miner, reminded his wife that they had been married five years that day. Stewart had his usual health. In the afternoon, however, the veteran statesman was seized with shivering fits. Mrs. Gladstone, alarmed at the symptoms, sent for Sir Andrew Clark, Mr. Gladstone's family physician. The latter, though not pronouncing Mr. Gladstone's illness to be of a serious nature, declares that Mr. Gladstone must not leave his room for several days.

CAPITAL GOSSIP.

It is rumored that Hon. Thos. McGreevy intends withdrawing from politics and that the Hon. John Hearn will represent Quebec West in the Commons in his stead.

The work of census compilation commenced yesterday (Monday). The Hiley team sails by the Dominion Line steamer Sarnia on June 20.

The Government has decided to build the lock on the Soo canal 100 feet wide, instead of 85 feet as originally intended, the increased width being deemed essential owing to the rapid development of traffic between Ontario and Lake Superior ports. The lock will be 600 feet long, having guard gates at both ends facing in opposite directions, the entrances being 60 feet wide.

Another Mad Stabbing Case.

New York, May 11.—A stabbing affray which bears a strong resemblance to the work of the Mafia occurred in the Italian quarter in West Hoboken. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening.

Another Mad Stabbing Case.

New York, May 11.—A stabbing affray which bears a strong resemblance to the work of the Mafia occurred in the Italian quarter in West Hoboken. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening.

Another Mad Stabbing Case.

New York, May 11.—A stabbing affray which bears a strong resemblance to the work of the Mafia occurred in the Italian quarter in West Hoboken. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening.

Another Mad Stabbing Case.

New York, May 11.—A stabbing affray which bears a strong resemblance to the work of the Mafia occurred in the Italian quarter in West Hoboken. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening.

Another Mad Stabbing Case.

New York, May 11.—A stabbing affray which bears a strong resemblance to the work of the Mafia occurred in the Italian quarter in West Hoboken. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening.

Another Mad Stabbing Case.

New York, May 11.—A stabbing affray which bears a strong resemblance to the work of the Mafia occurred in the Italian quarter in West Hoboken. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening.

Another Mad Stabbing Case.

New York, May 11.—A stabbing affray which bears a strong resemblance to the work of the Mafia occurred in the Italian quarter in West Hoboken. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening.

Another Mad Stabbing Case.

New York, May 11.—A stabbing affray which bears a strong resemblance to the work of the Mafia occurred in the Italian quarter in West Hoboken. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening.

Another Mad Stabbing Case.

New York, May 11.—A stabbing affray which bears a strong resemblance to the work of the Mafia occurred in the Italian quarter in West Hoboken. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening.

Another Mad Stabbing Case.

New York, May 11.—A stabbing affray which bears a strong resemblance to the work of the Mafia occurred in the Italian quarter in West Hoboken. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening.

Another Mad Stabbing Case.

New York, May 11.—A stabbing affray which bears a strong resemblance to the work of the Mafia occurred in the Italian quarter in West Hoboken. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening.

Another Mad Stabbing Case.

New York, May 11.—A stabbing affray which bears a strong resemblance to the work of the Mafia occurred in the Italian quarter in West Hoboken. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver, who boarded in Spring street. He had given up his employment and made arrangements to sail for Italy yesterday evening. The victim is Louis Peretti, a silk weaver,