THE BEST

Grounds Filled to Overflowing -Each Department Complete.

Aylmer, Ont., Sept. 8.-This was anothe the weather was very gloomy this morning, and there was every prospect of a wet day, still the crowd kept growing, until at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when the grounds were filled to overflowing. The horses, cattle and all live stock were on the grounds by 11 o'clock, and all departments were complete. In the poultry section there was a very large exhibit, and very strong competition in many of the classes. Mr. Cadman, of St. Thomas, acted as judge, and appeared to give general satisfaction.

In carriage horses some splendid animals were shown. There were also a number of hardsome saddle here and number of handsome saddle horses and single drivers.
In cattle the exhibit was rather small,

In cattle the exhibit was rather small, but some splendid animals were shown.

Another good programme was put on the elevated platform in front of the grand stand. The performing seals showed themselves to be among the most intelligent of the lower animals.

The races unfinished from yesterday were wound up today, and there was an exciting time from start to finish. A named race was left unfinished for tomorrow, there being too much on the morrow, there being too much on the programme for one day. Following were

INDIA'S CENSUS

Calcutta, British India, Sept. 8. -That the census of India for 1901 has been published only lately gives an idea of the enormity of the task. The superintendent of the census says: "The greater part of the enumeration was done without recompense by an army of private individuals numbering more than a million and a quarter who brought to their troublesome task a spirit of painstaking and occasionally grotesque accuracy which is unequaled anywhere in the world. In one province it was very difficult to number a certain assemblage of ascetics because they were under vows of silence.

In Rajputanu the Bhils have ancient claims to be exempt from census. But their head men were impressed by the practical argument that there "would be no food at the next famine for people who were not enumerated." At Port Campbell the census takers were attacked by the implacably hostile Jarawas of South Andaman Island, in the Bay of Bengal, and were is that there was one less known tribe, the Tabo, of South Andafew of these be-. among them and they had killed off carefully all whom

The census proves that in 1901 the 1,254,612 square miles of the Indian empire had a population of 117,458,193. Of these the Christians numbered 2,-932,241, of whom 2,664,313 are natives. Of these latter two-fifths are Roman Catholics. In 1872 the Christians numbered 1.506.098, of whom 1.248.288 were natives. So the growth of Christianity is far mare rapid than that of the general population,
