BUSINESS OUT-LOOK FOR 1921

St. John Willison Pres. of Canadian Reconstruction Association Writes.

Canada enters upon the new year, faced with numerous economic problems arising out of declining prices, but neither immediate conditions nor prospects justify undue apprehension. As the country was remarkably successful in its war activities and in meeting the many vexed questions of demobilization and reconstruction, so it should overcome present difficulties with a minimum of disturbance and distress. Business as a whole is well established after profitable war years and, while there must undoubtedly be appreciable unemployment, industrial stability should not be affected by declining commodity prices. The policy of the banks is not to reduce credits so as to endanger industry, but, on the contrary, to increase credits where orders and prospects justify such increases. Further, the new taxes have increased the public revenue beyond all expectations, the total income for the financial year from sources being estimated at over $300,000,000. With such abundant revenue it may be possible to repeal or reduce the levies on excess profits and leave the industries a greater reserve for continuous operation and expansion.

There have been sharp declines in the value of agricultural products, but farmers are prosperous after years of unprecedented prices. There has been an increase in wheat yield of over 49 per cent, as compared with 1919; in oats, of 48 per cent; barley, nearly 14 per cent; rye, 26 per cent, and flaxseed of nearly 104 per cent, according to figures issued by the General Agricultural Agent for the C. P. R. This increased production, together with profits of past years, should carry farmers over the present period without any marked agricultural distress.

The Canadian Reconstruction Association has just issued a general appeal to "Produce, Purchase, Protect Canadian Goods," in which it emphasizes the fact that "harmonious relations between employers and employees with mutual concentration upon quality and production are essential with declining prices," and it says: "Prosperous industries and prosperous workers make prosperous communities. Canadians should give effective preference to Canadian goods over imported products. If the Canadian public purchases Canadian goods as a national duty under present difficult conditions, the dangers of the price readjustment period will be reduced to a minimum and the increased demand for Canadian-made products at minimum unit cost and sell at the lowest possible prices."

So, on the subject of exchange and importations, the Reconstruction Association points out that exchange increases prices, that it raises the cost of manufacturing in Canada, and adds to the difficulties of industrial employment for Canadian workers. "Coal, cotton, iron and steel products, and oils," it says, "enter largely into the cost of production of most commodities and services. In buying such commodities from the United States, Canadians have to pay a substantial premium on account of the decline of Canadian money. Each purchase encourages higher prices and a higher exchange rate." The Association points out that exchange is three times as high today as it was a year ago, that early last February the premium on New York funds amounted to 17 1/2 per cent, and that it threatens to go still higher this winter and next spring unless effective remedies are applied. "Those remedies," it says, "if applied at all, must be applied consciously and as a matter of both national duty and self-interest by the people of Canada whenever they spend money. The merchandise trade balance is running against us to the amount of between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000 per month. If we include interest on obligations abroad and other items in the account, Canada has an adverse balance of trade which at the present time is running at the rate of more than $400,000,000 per year.

"The discount on Canadian money is a warning that our trade situation is unbalanced and overbalanced. The great volume of imports into Canada, if it continues, means unemployment for Canadian workers, idle Canadian factories and a higher cost of living for Canadians generally. World conditions make impossible any large, immediate expansion of our export trade. The only way in which any permanent correction can be effected in exchange is by reducing imports into this country by supplying demand with Canadian products instead of imported goods. A national Made in Canada campaign is needed to combat high prices, to reduce exchange, and to ensure employment."

There's Nothing Like It

Stitch, stitch, stitch went the village bootmaker's industrious needle, as he sat in his little shop hard at work. He was particularly anxious to finish the pair of shoes he was repairing, for they belonged to his best friend, the village mailman. Consequently it was with a feeling akin to vexation that he saw Mrs. Chinwag enter his shop and ask for a strong pair of shoes, but he got up at once and produced them. "I can recommend these," he said, "with conviction. You'll find them as strong as steel, for," he added, "they are made of porpoise skin."

"What!" she shrieked. "You inhuman creature! I've read in 'Oliver Twist' of the cruellest tortures which paupers have to suffer, but I didn't know that shoes were made out of their skins!"

And so long did it take to explain matters that the unfortunate mailman had to wait till the next morning for his shoes.

CANADIAN AIRMAN CAPTURED YANKEE

Latter Got Away From American Officials but N. M. P. On the Job.

When the Royal Canadian Mounted Police go after a man they get him, no matter where the trail leads. There are records of where one of these quiet, tireless men has circumnavigated the globe to get his quarry. The point is that they do not fail, and they do not operate with a brass band. Joseph H. Gadsbury, alleged American confidence man and former war aviator, will testify to the daring and resourcefulness of these highly-efficient officials. It is charged that he has promoted and profited by numerous questionable schemes in the States, chiefly having to do with airplane swindles. He is a skilful aviator and always kept a speedy airplane at hand ready for instant flight. His latest exploit is said to have been staged at Britt, Ia., where he induced farmers to part with $180,000 for an airplane factory.

When the police were about to close on him he stepped into his airplane, soared up out of range of pistols and he headed for the Canadian border. The Northwest Mounted Police were notified by wireless. Part of their equipment is a fast airplane kept in a hangar at Winnipeg. It carried a machine-gun, and it was rushed out and began patrolling the border. Word came that Gadsbury had been forced to alight at Emerson, but would resume his journey Thursday.

The Canadian plane waited for him, concealed high in the clouds, and when he crossed the border it swooped down. His machine also carried a small machine-gun, and there was a lively battle. The Canadians finally sent a fusillade through his propeller and managed to puncture his gasoline tank.

Gadsbury took desperate chances, in a nose dive to earth, flattening out just in time to avert disaster, and started to run for the woods, but his pursuers overtook him.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO FRENCH-CANADIANS

Commends Quebecers for Sobriety, Honesty, Purity and Loyalty.

Toronto, Jan. 4.—In an address before an open meeting of the Daughters of Canada last evening, Prof. L. E. Horning made an eloquent plea for better understanding of the French Canadians.

Under the subject of "French-Canada," Prof. Horning said, "Let us get acquainted with the French-Canadians. They have the highest province in the Dominion. They are nearly one-fourth of the population. Let us learn to know their authors and statesmen."

Prof. Horning commended the French-Canadians for their sobriety, honesty, purity and loyalty. They have been the backbone of the Canadian civilization and never meddled in the politics of countries outside their own. They were the earliest builders of the Dominion, the Canadian civilizers and ever carried their Christianity with them.

Prof. Horning paid a tribute to the culture of the French, the devotion to their writers, and pleaded for the fostering of the "Bonne Entente" in the heart of each English-speaking Canadian.

Western Cattle

(1) Aberdeen Angus Calves.

(2) A Perfect Hereford Head.

Among the many fine exhibits at this year's International Stock Show at Chicago, a string of beef cattle that has been entered by the University of Alberta is certain to create considerable interest. This exhibit consists of a dozen or more pure bred bull calves that have been bred by some of the leading breeders in the province, and comprise some fine specimens of the Hereford, Aberdeen Angus and Shorthorn breeds.

These animals have been brought together by A. A. Dowell, Professor of Agricultural Husbandry at the University of Alberta. Professor Dowell wanted some good steers to use for practical judging purposes with his students at the University. To purchase from the leading breeders of the province the class of stock required would have entailed a considerable expense, as top prices would have had to be paid. Moreover, he was not able to obtain just the animals required. After considerable thinking on the subject, Professor Dowell hit upon an idea which enabled him to get just the animals he wanted, and at practically no expense to the University. Knowing that many of the breeders in the province were not inclined for various reasons, to fit their cattle and show them at the leading shows in a manner to do them justice, he suggested that the various breeders in the province should give one of their calves to the University, and the University would take the necessary steps to fit the animals for show purposes. The plan was duly submitted to the Alberta Breeders' Association at their annual convention last year, and not only received the approval of the Association, but the individual members offered to allow Professor Dowell to select what he
