Cheap Houses for the Many—Easily Reached by Rail or Street Cars—Good Brainage and Water—An Opportunity to Invest.

One of the advices given by Horace Greeley was, "young man, go west," and many have left for the land of the setting sun; but whilst this rule is a very good one for young men to follow, the same cannot always be said in favor of those who have settled down into a standing business, or are married and have families. To persons of this class the quiet country residence but a short distance from the city, capable of being reached easily by rail, omnibus or street cars, is the most desirable. In the quietude of the country home, the blessings of pure air, the large rambling license allowed the younger children, the invigorating influences at departing to work, with cheery return at night, mark the happy home. When added to this, one finds himself the sole possessor of his house and lot, what the sole possessor of his house and lot, what the sole possessor of his house and lot, what the sole possessor of his house and lot, what the sole possessor of his house and lot, what the sole possessor of his house and lot, what the sole possessor of his house and lot, what the sole possessor of his house and lot, what the sole possessor of his house and lot, what the sole possessor of his house and lot, what the sole possessor of his house and lot, what the sole possessor of his house and lot, what the sole possessor of his house and lot, what the sole possessor of his house and lot, what the sole possessor of his house and lot, what the sole possessor of his house and lot, what the sole possessor of his house and lot, what the sole possessor of his house and lot, what the sole possessor of his house and lo The Toronto News Agents association held sun; but whilst this rule is a very good one A lad named Frederick Hubertus was of this class the quiet country residence but.

WATER AND DRAINAGE, As the situation is high and dry and commands a view of Lake Ontario the natural advantages of obtaining fine drainage is easily solved, for no city in this or any other country could be generally situated better for drainage than Toronto, a point of which she is justly proud. The water question is one of more import. The water question is one of more importance, but is as easily disposed of as the preceding one, for the very best of pure water is reached by sinking from 18 to 20 feet. To the industrious it can only be said that at no time, as in the purchase of a lot or two on this eater for on all sides and by all said time, as in the purchase of a lot or two on this estate, for on all sides and by all real estate men it will be quickly admitted that the tendency of the Toronto people is to live toward the western portion of the city and it is a well known fact that building opera-tions have been more extensively carried on in the western part than any other por-tion of Toronto.

The Suspended Mortality Controversy.

From the New York Insurance Times, As mentioned in our last issue, Insurance Society, a paper published in Montreal, Canada, in its February number took up took fright on Friday evening and dashed madly along the road it was finally stopped by a young man near Oak street. The wagon was damaged to the extent of $10:

I shall be severed that of this state (the American experience table and 4½ per cent. interest), while the fact is that the latter is the severer test and calls for the higher reserves.
This is the writer of the Society's editorial would have seen at once had he continued of extracting a small part of them and stopping at the point making against his position. This we now do for him:

In all of the companies named by Insurance Society, had the facts been examined it would have been found that the average it would have been found that the average duration of the membership was short, and that they had had very large accessions of new lives during a recent period. Obviously it would, therefore, have been very unsafe and improvident to infer that the mortality they are now experiencing may be relied on as a safe criterion for that of the future.

as a safe criterion for that of the inture. Hence the serious danger to future stability in the opinion expressed by Insurance Society, and apparently acted upon by at least one Canadian company, in saying: "It is extremely doubtful if the experience of any well-managed company assuring Canadian or American (Northert.) lives will ever be as heavy as that predicted by the table."

The remarks of Professor Bartlett, Actuary of the Mutual Life, made on page 8 of his last report, should be conclusive against the view of Insurance Society. They are as follows: "A large proportion of the company's risks have been of recent origin. When the duration of the risks shall equal that of the English companies the rate of mortality may be quite as

As the question under discussion is a most important one, touching the vitality of the life insurance companies of Canada, we have taken special pains to throw all the light upon the subject that we could gather from the most intelligent minds.
