flooded with reports of peace and harmony from the meeting of the Western Traffic Association the stocks most directly involved have gone down most and easiest. Foreign selling of stocks has been on a pretty scale and there have been certain indications beneath the market's surface suggestive of J. Gould's hand. The sacrifice of his sugar rate-cutting manager by the Traffic Association, though Gould smiles at it, is hardly likely to make him very ardent in his anxiety to help along an immediate campaign, for of course he thoroughly understands that most of the western railroad managers are loaded up with stocks. Perhaps this explains why this afternoon he said blandly: "I really hear that some of our big crops are not all made yet." The Bank of England rate has gone up. This is quoted as likely to stop gold shipments, but a man has to be piretly hopeful to find any good augury in it. Usually it is construed in Wall-street as a drawback, but usually Wall-street isn't long of so many stocks as at present, conditions are generally on the bull side, very pronouncedly so, but just now there are two obstacles—one is that Gould, however middly he talks. has a personal grievance, he has been snubbed—the other reason is that every fellow who can command a little margin has loaded up with stocks. Unless something extraordinarily good interposes we look for something of a shake-up.
