Toronto, May 13.—Information has been obtained from a reliable source that something more than intended that a score of dynamite cartridges being placed under the Parliament buildings. Ever since the threatened attempt to blow up Rideau Hall, Ottawa, the Dominion and provincial authorities have had fuller information of the actions of supposed dynamiters than the public was aware of, several discoveries of dynamite having been recently made in different parts of Canada which have been kept secret. The operations of the dynamiters in Canada have, it is alleged, been carried on under instructions from headquarters in New York. In January last a vote of $2,500 was made from an emergency fund to carry on the work in Canada. Three men, Nesbitt, O'Hare and Mullane, undertook to expend this sum in the destruction of public buildings in this country. The latter two are supposed now to be in Ontario, and Nesbitt is dying in Troy, N.Y. They made several visits to Ottawa during the last session of Parliament, and they have plans of both the Ottawa and Toronto Government Houses. The baggage of one of them was captured and explosive material found amongst it. A tin case containing was received at the express office, directed to Nesbitt, which fell into the hands of the police, in Ottawa.

drank several times with a detective. They were here when the dynamite was discovered in the parliament buildings, and they were seen next day at the Humber. They were housed at separate houses, and kept regular hours, leading people to think they were employed in a respectable business. They attended several parades of the volunteers, thereby becoming familiarized with the interior of the armory. There is no doubt they placed dynamite under the parliament buildings with the intention of blowing them up, but why they did so is not clear. On the 17th March last a black leather valise, the owner of which has not yet been discovered, was among the baggage which crossed at Suspension Bridge from the American to the Canadian side. The valise belonged to Nesbitt, and contained some clothing, including part of the uniform of a UNITED STATES SOLDIER.

There was also a coil of wire and a box about eight by six inches, around which was a sheet of paper bearing printed directions for using dynamite. The customs officer did not care to open the package, and it was forwarded to the Minister of Customs and probably handed by him to the secret service. Since then the government considered it wise to take precautions and for some time the tunnel under the new Welland Canal has been guarded. Nesbitt was at one time a sergeant in the United States Ordnance and was leader of the trio, and it was by the merest accident that he lost the valise. They had always come to Canada by the Central Railway, but that time they came by the Erie road. The baggage by the Central is always examined on the American side, but the Erie baggage comes across for examination to the Canadian side. It was their custom to transfer the dynamite to their pockets on the American side, but on the occasion referred to, being passengers by the Erie it came across to Canada and they knew too much to claim it. A couple of dynamitists took to Ottawa about the beginning of April last year to kill the Governor-General and a man named O'Brien, who was working on the Ottawa and Occidental Railway under the name of O'Neil, was to use a dynamite cart. O'Brien applied for a situation at Rideau Hall, but meantime the plot was discovered. O'Brien escaped, but his baggage was seized at his boarding house. This was the cause of the special guards being placed around Rideau Hall at that time, the press insinuating they were so placed to scare away nuns. The dynamitists also intended to throw vitriol in the Princess Louise's face when she was in Toronto last September, but got no opportunity. She was warned, and when she visited Montreal shortly afterwards she wore a thick veil. There is no devilish act members of this brotherhood would not do. It is opposed not only to the English government, but to all European governments. Its members are to be found in every European country, and branches exist in Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal. The magazine at the old fort here and one on the north shore of Burlington Bay, opposite Hamilton, are proposed as points of attack.

THE WAY THEY USE DYNAMITE
is generally by pocket battery. A piece of stout telegraph wire is stuck into a cap and a copper wire is fastened to this. A man could then walk away and unroll several hundred yards of fine wire, connect battery with it and the building would be demolished. This was the object of the piece of telegraph wire found with the cartridges under the parliament buildings here, but they had fused in case the battery did not work. There must have been fifty pounds of dynamite brought by the trio into Canada, including what the Government has captured. It is alleged that two constables and a detective have been sympathizers with the dynamiters.

LONDON, May 13.—A tin can containing 40 detonators for firing dynamite and gun cotton was found to-day under the wall of Woolwich Arsenal. Another box near by contained 7 lbs. of earthy substance, labelled "BROWN DUCK."

If the material proves to be dynamite there seems to be no doubt that a large portion of the arsenal has had a narrow escape. The Dublin authorities received anonymous threats that attempts would be made to destroy the Nelson Column, which will be constantly guarded. The look on the gate at the Castle yard has been destroyed, and a labourer named McGinn was discovered with a bag of gunpowder furnished with a long fuse. He has been sentenced to three months. It appears not improbable that some of the reported discoveries of dynamite are fictitious. A man has been charged here with pretending to be a discoverer of dynamite in the Strand in order to solicit robbery.

ST. VINCENT, May 9.—The dynamite scare has reached the English Islands. The luggage of persons arriving at the various ports is carefully examined. The departure of the war steamer Canada from here is attributed to information that the dynamiters were on the track of Prince George of Wales, who is on the steamer.

NOTES FROM QUEBEC.

Harassment from James McShane, M.P.P.—Playing the Government.

[From our Special Correspondent.]

QUEBEC, May 15, 1884.

Mr. James McShane arose this afternoon to make one of the greatest efforts of his life in annihilating the Hon. Mr. Flynn. The gifted orator proceeded to speak on many subjects consecutively, but when he spoke on several simultaneously Mr. Tallion, the leader of the Government, called him to order, and then a long discussion that degenerated into a wrangle took place, in which Mr. Gagnon, Mr. Mercier, and others, took part. The occasion of this discussion was the attempt of Mr. McShane to read an editorial in the Gazette regarding the passage of the gerrymandering bill making another township out of that of Bedford. The speaker cautioned him not to read any article that would cast reflection on bills passed in the house. This made Mr. McShane angry, and he said he had a right to read an article from the strongest Conservative journal in the Province, the Gazette. He retruded, however, and read an extract from the Waterloo Advertiser regarding the qualities of the mule, from the pen of some American humorist, in which he said that "A mule was known to kick a commercial traveller on the cheek and was badly injured—the commercial traveller must be the Hon. Mr. Lynde." Mr. McShane is the Hon. Mr. Lynde.

Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Some of the most painful sufferings that afflict mortals come from rheumatism. Either the acute or chronic form may be eradicated from the blood by an early use of the grand purifying system renovator, Burdock Blood Bitters.

COLONIZATION.

The Debate on the Autonomy Resolutions—Mr. Foupore's Speech in the House—"Quebec First."

The remarks of Mr. Foupore, M.P.P., on the autonomy resolutions, more particularly in reference to the colonization works of the province, are worthy of some attention. In the debate which ensued Mr. Foupore said the question of colonization was one upon which a good deal had been said, not only on this occasion, but upon two or three previous occasions, and up to the present moment he had not expressed his opinion on this very important subject, not because it did not affect the constituency which he had the honor to represent, but because the question had been so ably dealt with by all the hon. gentlemen who had already spoken on it. The County of Pontiac offered a broader field for colonization than any other county in the province, and he did not think he was saying what was not becoming when he said that he would be only too happy if the Inspector of Colonization paid a visit to his county and made a report of things just as they existed. He was confident that that report would show that more colonization money should be granted to his county than had hitherto been given to it.

WHAT WAS COLONIZATION MONEY GRANTED FOR?

Was it not for the colonizing and the opening up of the interior of the Province, and calculated to assist in making roads into its rural sections that were that day inaccessible to intending settlers. He hoped that a good efficient inspector might visit Pontiac, and he was satisfied his report would show the Government the necessity and advisability of increasing the colonization grant to that county. No question appertaining to or affecting the autonomy of any Province could be discussed in a partisan spirit with any hope of redressing or preventing alleged grievances. Men who could not rise above party were not worthy of recording an opinion upon so important a question. The extreme view emanated by those who differed from the political party in whose hands the Federal Government was now placed, proved conclusively that whilst they solemnly professed a desire to advance and promote provincial rights, they were introducing what would be yet in the end

GRATE PROVISIONAL WRONGS.

He would ask the hon. gentlemen, what injury had been inflicted upon the Province of Quebec by Federal legislation? Was it the terms of union? He answered that the British North America Act was the product of both political parties, and that it did not lie in the mouth of the leader of the Opposition there or the leader of the Opposition elsewhere to blame the Federal authorities without proving that other than political reasons impelled the adoption of such a policy. But more. Was it because certain acts passed by the Legislatures of various Provinces had been disallowed? Why, if this was the case, no man was readier than the hon. Edward Blake when Minister of Justice to pick flaws in Provincial Legislation, and out of 1105 bills passed from 1868 to 1882 in the Province of Quebec only two were disallowed, the one by the Government of Mr. Mackenzie and the other by the Government of Mr. John A. Macdonald, and yet the Leader of the Opposition would ask the country to believe that the autonomy of this Province was in jeopardy. He would like to think that other than political motives impelled the hon. leader of the Opposition to adopt the method he did in introducing the question of

but that he was following out a party policy must be beyond question, as in Ontario the Liberals were raising a similar cry, and each Province was being stirred up to rebel against the Act of Union. And this in face of the fact that out of 6,000 Provincial Acts since Confederation, only 32 had been disallowed twenty of which were under the Mackenzie regime, and only 12 under that of the Conservatives, as follows:—Ontario 4, Quebec 1, New Brunswick 1, Nova Scotia 2, British Columbia 4, making 12 in all. This showed the utter hypocrisy of the Liberal party in claiming to be the champions of provincial rights. It was like their policy throughout—profession but not practice. As a native of the Province, his motto would ever be "Quebec first"; not Quebec first in the spirit of demagoguery, not Quebec first in the spirit of false flattery and narrow-partisanship, but Quebec first in the spirit of progress, in the spirit of harmony, in the spirit of union, and this policy was the one for every true and patriotic believer in provincial rights to adopt. We knew no class, we knew no special creed, and he trusted that the day might be far distant when men would forget or sink their manhood in mere party equalities that might advance for the time being the interests of office-hunters, but could never conduce to the welfare and solidification of the masses in the Province. He was ready, should danger threaten, to stand shoulder to shoulder with all parties towards maintaining the honor and integrity of the Province, but he was not ready and not willing to waste any strength he might have in fighting all the windmills the leader of the opposition might think it advisable to attack. "We are strong when we are honest," and he said the very act of Confederation and the Privy Council of Great Britain at all times would prove safeguards to the autonomy of the Province. In the United States a conflict had frequently arisen between individual States and the Federal authority, but the laws of the country established the respective rights of each power and gave them just what they were entitled to and no more. They must expect misunderstandings to arise, but the history of other countries would always be a warning to the Federal Government against endeavoring to encroach upon any rights guaranteed them by the Canadian constitution.

THE BROTHERLY TIES THAT UNITE THEM,

THE FARNELLITES AND LIBERALS.

LONDON, May 16.—The split between the Farnellites and the Government is complete. The Liberals accuse the Farnellites of deceiving the Government whips by promising to support the Government in voting against the census motion. Confident of the Irish vote, the whips refrained from bringing up their whole voting power. Hon. George Otto Trevelyan, Chief Secretary for Ireland, in the House of Commons last night showed the changed disposition of the Government toward the Farnellites by intimating that he would henceforth decline to answer questions put to him by Irish members in relation to the police administration in Ireland.

HOUSE OF PROVIDENCE, TORONTO.

That excellent charitable institution the House of Providence, at Toronto, in charge of the good Sisters of St. Joseph, has sent out its annual statement from which we glean the following particulars:—
