

18. One Access request resulted in a complaint to the Information Commissioner (who supported the Department's position) and in a subsequent appeal to the Federal Court of Canada. The case is still before the Federal Court.