

As we approach the International Year of Peace in 1986, which is being proclaimed by the United Nations on October 24, the government has renewed its commitment to the pursuit of progress in the arms control and disarmament field. This will continue to be a matter of the highest priority for the Canadian government.

---

S/C