that the time of universal peace is at hand. One has only to look at the state of affairs in Europe on this very day to perceive how far we are removed from the millennium. In time of peace we must prepare for war; preparation for war is the best insurance policy against it. We wish to live at peace with all nations, but at all costs and at all haards we must defend our shores. Universal military service is the duty of the Canadian people in the near future. The people will be better morally and physically. It will surely come for the policy of the fu-ture is the maintenance of the integrity of the British empire. We love our country, we believe it has a great future, we must make it secure."

Col. Ryerson called attention to the remarkably heroic action that had been displayed by the Indians.

"Let us not forget that we owe not a little to our Indian allies in the war of 1812," said Col. Ryerson. "Tecum-seh and Brant played great parts. After the fall of Detroit, Brock said in his despatch to the governor-general: 'The conduct of the Indians, under Col. Elliott, Captain McKee, and other officers of the department, joined to that of their respective tribes, has since the commencement of the war been marked with acts of heroism, and in nothing can they testify more strongly their love for their king, their great father, than in following the dictates of honor and humanity, by which they have hitherto been actuat-
