To-day we close at 5 o'clock as usual during July and August.

All Preparation!

Underneath the surface of this business are plans and preters and newspaper comments from the ters and newspaper comment ideas, new facilities, new buildings and new possibilities are days ago, in which we ventured to appointed to interview Mr. Campbell verging towards the greater triumph that will come with the Fall season. An epidemic of enthusiasm controls the store from stem to stern. We're getting ready for vastly bigger days ago, in which we ventured to appointed to interview and appointed to interview and appointed to interview and request him to withraw it.

Housefurnishings are included in the list of stocks that need more room. Up on the second floor business has been jumping ahead at a great rate, and we're bound to prepare for all the trade there is. No fuss! No hurrah! Simply a betterment that'll surprise and delight all who are anyways interested of the Anglo-Saxon people. They are in the Housefurnishing side of this business.

More New Books!

Always more or less new books, but not always the chance to tell of them. There's the steadiest kind of a trade here in Books and Stationery, and new arrivals are picked up as soon as placed on sale. Thousands of daily shoppers represent an outlet for worthy goods regardless of newspaper advertising, award at all, and that in any importand when such values as these step to the front they're not ant case the verdict of the arbitrators likely to last long:
