THE PAPER BOYS OF LONDON IN A STRAIGHT TALK TO CITIZENS

An Appeal Written by One of the Lads Who Carries the News of the World to Your Front Door.

Dear Folks,—I am a paper boy, and when I made my rounds today some of my customers told me that they would have to quit the paper because it was going to cost two cents more per week. But still these same people would pay from a quarter to two dollars to see a theatre play in wartime and consider it a good investment. Furthermoreand this I can vouch for—they have often kept their paper boy waiting for two and three weeks for his ten cents and have scoided him if he were late or the paper solled in muddy or wet weather. You know that the paper boy has to pay for his papers weekly, and when careless customers keep him waiting two or three weeks for his dâme he is losing money.

After April I your paper boy will have to pay more for his papers, and as a measure of self-preservation he will be forced to charge you more than formerly. Now remember that your paper through all kinds of weather, in freezing winter when it would be too cold for him to collect, like that Saturday seven weeks ago, and in the hot summer, when you anxiously await your paper that you may enjoy the news in your swinging hammeck or in the big easy chair on the side veranda, Please bear in mind that your paper boy isn't really making as much now as it would then.

Now, if you are considering quitting your paper boy and taking the paper sory and taking the paper from the corner store in order to save two cents a week, just stop and how well he has served you in the paper boy in the paper boy unit two cents a week, just stop and how well he has served you in the paper boy in the paper boy unit have you're nake or break a man, even in wartime. Besides, you will wear out expensive shoe leather warking a block or two for your paper, and if you send the kiddles they are apt to get bit by a dog or run over or catch toget by the waiser, and in an hour after it has come from the press.

Now, folks, you're now your saveled in your paper to you would be the first one in the paper. The paper boy wait in the about the paper in the paper boy wait would be th

PRACTICE OF MEDICINE GUESSWORK

OTTAWA, March 27.—Fred Abraham, chairman of the garden section of the Canada Food Board, stated today that a totally wrong impression exists as to the available supply of vegetable seed for this spring's planting.

While it is desirable that gardeners should be careful of seed, there will be plenty for all purposes, except in the case of parsnips.

Possibly due to higher prices, many miscellaneous dealers are not carrying seeds this year.
