NOTE AND COMMENT

The allotment of 108 lbs. to Inferno in the Suburban and 107 to Tournelle in the Suburban and 106 in the Brighton seems to satisfy those who are interested in the running of the Canadian crack horse in two of the big turf events of the year. There are 48 entries for the Suburban for three-year-olds and upwards over a course of a mile and a quarter, and Baiter, a four-year-old, is given top weight of 126 pounds. Nealon, the winner of last year's Suburban, carries 125 pounds. The handicapper has given Collin, James, the heaviest weight in the three-year-old class, and five pounds more than the lightest. The next three-year-old on the list, Filmmaker, a five-year-old, is given the lightest weight of those entered, 88 pounds. Weights for the most prominent entries in the Brooklyn are: Charles Edward 122, Salvidore 124, Glorifier 120, Montgomery 120, Stephen 117, Dandelion 117, Running Water 115, McCarter 114, De Mund 110, Uncle 105, Jim Gaffney 101, Westcott 100, Cohort 95, Falcaide 95, Master Robert 95, Running Account 95.

The athletic life of a weight thrower greatly outlasts that of a runner. Men like John Flanagan, Martin and Dick Sheridan, Dennis Hargis, Dick Sheldon, Alfred Play and J. S. Mitchell, were good a decade ago, and all could be able to go along the same clip for five more years. But what of the runners who were topnotchers a decade ago? What has become of A. C. Bowen, George Orton, Alex. Grant, O. D. Jarvis, W. F. Smith, John C. Green and Dick Grant—the boys who were famous as runners six or eight years ago? Their "athletic life" is in danger of becoming "fine." The weight thrower's effort in competition seldom costs him more than a pound or two.

Compare this line of work with that of the average runner and it is easy to see that the weight man stays in the game longer. The runner is no good until he gets "fine" and begins to look drawn. In the case of the weight thrower he might just as well stay at home for all the good it will do him to go into a race. The weight thrower is in danger of becoming "fine." The weight thrower's effort in competition seldom costs him more than a pound or two.

A half-mile generally drops about two pounds in weight, while a man running five miles generally loses from four to six. Besides this, the runner loses weight in his training, and it is not until he has lost a considerable amount of weight that he is able to make the most of his physique. The weight thrower's effort in competition seldom costs him more than a pound or two.

Writing on nerve, pluck and courage in baseball, Elmer Bates pays the "Tigers a compliment in the Cleveland Press. He remarks: "What do we need of new rules? There are far too many rules now." said one of the players in the heat of the struggle last year. A ball player has no individuality any more. His daily program is mapped out for him and he simply reads the directions and obeys. He has so many underlings that he has forgotten what ambition means. He has lost his courage, his initiative, his zest for victory for victory's sake."

"That the major league ball player has lost his courage is a fact past all argument and beyond all dispute. He may have lost some initiative; some zest for victory for victory's sake, but the rare old, fair old bravery that was the chief asset of the ball player of the '90s is now regarded with derision and with scorn by the average big league star."

"The story of every pennant lost by a team that could have won it is a story of a lot of too royally treated players flying to the hospital at the first flick of skin from arm or leg, at the first black and blue mark on their carefully massaged bodies."

"The story of every pennant won is a story of heroic devotion to duty, of a noble, self-sacrificing effort to keep a team intact despite all personal discomforts."

"The Tigers would not have finished even in the first division in 1907 had Jennings' men cried for a surgeon and a stretcher eleven days before they had suffered a trifling mishap."

St. Kitts Trim Beamsville.
ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 31.—(Special.)—One of the best hockey games seen in this district for some time was played last night when Beamsville journeyed to defeat via the St. Catharines route to the tune of 5 to 4. The first half was very good, but a little slow and the score stood 4 to 3 in favor of St. Kitts. In the last half both teams got down to hard work and scored one goal each, making it 4 to 4 when the whistle blew at full time. The line up was:

Trenton Beat Stirling.
TRENTON, Ont., Jan. 31.—An exhibition game of hockey was played at Stirling last evening between Trenton and Stirling, and resulted in favor of Trenton by a score of 7 to 3. At half-time it was 1-1.

Close Game at Newmarket.
NEWMARKET, Jan. 31.—The intermediate hockey match played to-night between Penetanguishene and Newmarket was by far the best and most interesting game played on local ice for some seasons. Half time score stood 4 to 4 in favor of the visitors and at full time score 5 to 4 for Penetanguishene. Goal, Penetanguishene; forward, Fraser; left wing, Gill; right wing, Lovett.

Plattsville 8, Drumbo 4.
PLATTSVILLE, Jan. 31.—(Special.)—Plattsville defeated Drumbo in the Ontario-Waterloo Hockey League here to-night in a fast game by the score of 8 to 4.
