"THE SQUAW MAN."
Rarely has a dramatist succeeded in bringing the breezy western life of the early eighties to the stage as had Edwin Milton Royle, in "The Squaw Man," which Liebler & Co., are presenting this season. The theatre-goer of the present day, be he a resident of the east or west, has but faint conception of the insult attached to the appellation "squaw man." To call a white man that out west is as deadly an affront as to designate a cow, puncher "sheep herder" or "a rustler." It means fight.

western civilization would not have reached the high plane it now occupies. Running over the list of the great plainmen it will be found that Kit Carson and Joe Rebedaux, the founder of St. Joseph, Mo., "Trapper" Baker, Jack Hardy, Jim Stillwell, Col. Parker and other men whose names are indelibly engraved on the pages of the history of the west, all took squaws as wives.

Later on the disgrace came, for the simple reason that hundreds of white men, worthless beyond expression, married Indian women for the purpose of securing six hundred and forty acres of land, beef, flour, salt, coffee, shoes, hats, overcoats, and the regular issue of annuity goods given by a philanthropic government. Visit any of the great reservations to-day and you will discover that the whites surrounding the tract have nothing whatever to do with a "squaw man," and that the Indians treat him with absolute contempt. One of the exceptions to this rule is a man on the Ute reservation, Henderson by name, who claims to be closely related to one of the wealthiest families in America. He is about sixty-five years old and has lived with the Indians for over forty years. It was just about that time that a brilliant young society man dropped out of view in New York and has never since been seen.

Mrs. Hanson's Euchre.
Mrs. L. W. Hanson gave a euchre of six tables, at the Prince George, on Wednesday afternoon, when she was wearing a gown of green rajah with jet trimmings and corsage bouquet of sweet peas. The room was decorated with pink carnations, roses, palms and ferns, and tea was served later in the gallery from little tables arranged with green shaded candles and vases of flowers. The prizes which consisted of a brass vase, a table mirror, French bon-bon dish, a dainty tea apron and a little brass jardiniere, were won by Mrs. Perkes, Mrs. W. M. Hunter, Mrs. C. Ray, Mrs. Buchanan and Mrs. Doane. Some of the guests present were Mrs. W. M. Hunter, who was wearing apricot satin gown, Mrs. Frank Baxter in taupe satin, Mrs. Fredrick Briscoe, in cinnamon brown silk, Mrs. Harry Road in black, Mrs. Buchanan in blue, Mrs. Morrison in mauve, Mrs. Doan in black and white satin, Mrs. Ray in cream serge, Mrs. Taylor in shade silk, Mrs. Abbot in old rose rajah, Mrs. Sutherland in pale blue and Mrs. Dawson in black and white.
