AGRICULTURE Notes and Suggestions of Practical Utility FOR THE FARM, FIELD, GARDEN AND DAIRY. Cleanings of Interest for Our Country Readers. Head work saves leather. Keep your sheep dry and warm. A warm shelter saves fat and food. Cutting feed aids in its mastication. There is never a surplus of the best. Quick fattening makes the best meat. Reproduce all sick animals from the well. Truth is slow in getting into circulation. In your other well guarded against frost. An orchard works while its owner sleeps. Grow a variety of crops for your animals. Gently begin to milk the distended udder. A cow that is fed wheat bran seldom aborts. Health is the legitimate result of right living. Judicious expenditure is the secret of success. If you go into dairying, fit up for a life business. Feeding animals not skin may be kept for years. How to cure a pig eating sow—salt her down. Fall plowing is fatal to many kinds of weeds. There is no dredger where love invites to labor. Have a few strawberries as house plants in winter. Generally the slow growth of a tree is sure ground. Farmer Plowley is wiser than Farmer Gruball. The cow that don't pay her keep is a tax on the rest. Test and figure, but don't forget the charrs measure. Discard the inferior animals, and grow only the best. Hops in pasture are not likely to become a good fat pig will sell at a profit almost any time. A good colt does not get its growth under five years. Don't despise corn meal as a part of the milk ration. There is no advantage in change except for improvement. The first duty of a workman is to keep his tools in order. Pull wire is said to be sometimes caused by the chevron. Tank heaters are often an advantage in watering stock. Sows a better stock. Land is as cheap now as it ever will be. Many a useless spot on the farm can be made productive. Cloths your thoughts in the few words and clearest. Fertilizers make the crops grow in the garden and elsewhere. The fertility of the soil is slowly but surely drifting to the sea. Power is in the head, not in the muscles and the hand use. The place to remedy bad milk is at the farm by not producing it. Much valuable time is wasted in useless forms and ceremonies. Less and better about, representing more money, is a good aim. It is sometimes as hard to keep a fortune as to accumulate one. Less land, better cultivation and larger crops are the desiderata. Plenty of bedding is a comfort to animals and a saving of manure. The facilities loaded with questions and unloads them there. Lime neutralizes the soil conditions of the soil which grows well. Small stones on the land should be broken up to add to its fertility. An animal always well cared for and fed is sure to be healthy. It is predicted that the potato bug crop will be a failure this year. Clean air to breathe is one of the first essentials in the cow stable. The farmer should keep a variety of stock to prevent waste of fodder. The amount of fat in milk does not determine the amount of better. Corn cobs make a good absorbent under a pigpen with an open floor. He who never feels the need of asking questions never learns anything. Mathematical ratios are as good as hints, but cannot be safely copied. The best method of saving and applying manure is yet a desideratum. Fall-farrowed pigs need warm and clean quarters through the winter. How to get more out of the soil with less labor is a perpetual problem. Good roads reduce the cost of living and to the value of real estate. Cut away all dead wood; it contains the elements of decay and disease. Late deep plowing and hard freezing will help in eradicating the root worm.

THE DAIRY. Prof. W. A. Henry says the weight of ears he has found to be 4,400 lbs. per acre, and of fodder 8,600. Of this, the digestive part is 2,600 lbs. of ears, and 1,500 of fodder. For every 100 lbs. of corn in the field, 837 is of silage and 273 is ears. That is, the labor of cutting and saving the fodder adds 59 per cent. to its value, as compared with saving only the ears. If the manager quickly get full of corn, it shows the same conditions, creaming poorly. This difference may amount to as much as one pound of butter per 100 pounds of milk. 3.—Delay in milking may cause a considerable loss with the milk from some herds and scarcely any with that of others. To avoid the possibility of such loss it is recommended that milk be set as soon as possible after milking. 4.—Deep setting without loss under the most favorable conditions results in considerable loss, and when the water used is not lower than 50 degrees F. the loss is excessive, reaching in some cases as much as 25 per cent of the total fat in the milk. 5.—The centrifugal system of separating cream overcomes all of these difficulties, giving an efficient creaming with milk from all sources, either directly after milking or after standing several hours. 6.—The heavy separator No. 2 may be used with advantage with herds of from 10 to 20 cows. The following is a good hit by the Elgin Dairy Report: "Most creameries are idle or half idle for want of milk. The cows went dry, or half dry for want of grass, right here in the center of the great grass belt of the continent. Discouraged men sell off cows, discouraged dairymen abandon business, all because the cows did not have grass enough. It is amazing how much there is yet to learn about growing grass. Yet most everybody thinks he knows all about so simple a thing as growing grass. The boys of today, and our dairy people have lost sight of this, and devoted too much time to butter fats, total solids, etc." This is the tendency of so much today. Amid the boom of tasters, many have become so interested in ascertaining the fat percentage of the product that they have overlooked the first essentials of production, and so have neglected to properly feed their cows, and become stranded on dry land. The man with a clear head keeps in view the beginning as well as the end of things. The foolish man is so intent on mentally testing the quality of the harvest that he forgets to sow his seed, and so when the time for harvesting comes, he has no crop to harvest—and this is the way of the silo, fodder crop and other fodder crops, to be fed in the dairy.

PARAGRAPHS On All Subjects of Current Note at Home and Abroad. ANECDOTES, HAPPENINGS AND GENERAL COMMENTS. Clipped and Condensed for the Readers of The Globe. There are about 23,000 physicians and surgeons in the United Kingdom, or one to every 1,600 inhabitants. A carrier pigeon taken from the vicinity of Berlin to London, having escaped few direct to its own home. An action has been brought against John L. Sullivan for £300 on a promise-sory note given by him in Melbourne, Australia. The widow of Meisner, the great French artist recently deceased, is said to be the biggest woman in Paris. The artist married her when in his seventy-eighth year. One of the silver wedding presents received by the Empress of Russia is an ermine mantle which cost ten thousand pounds. This was the gift of the nobility of the province of Kherson. A lady, who never failed to have her little feet with the doctor all through a painful illness, exclaimed, one day when he was announced, "Tell him I'm sorry, but I don't feel able to see him to-day." A mad woman entered a signal box near Leicester, Eng., on Saturday evening and smashed the telegraph and other instruments. She was very violent, and nearly overpowered the signalman, but was eventually arrested. The Duke of Albany has made up his mind to begin the business of life early. The other day he presented the successful exhibitor at the Flower Show with their prize money. The Duke was only seven, and this was his first appearance in public. Dean Liddell left Oxford at Christmas to reside permanently in the neighborhood of Ascot. The Queen is anxious to show a percentage of his on his resigning the deanery of Christ Church, but there is no precedent for conferring such a distinction upon an ecclesiastic. Her Majesty has given Lord Salisbury a conditional promise that she will open parliament in person, and it is to suit Her Majesty's convenience that the date of that function has been deferred until so unusually late a day as Tuesday, Feb. 9. The Queen will go to Buckingham Palace for a couple of nights when on her way back to Windsor Castle from Osborne. It was left to the school children of the State of New York to decide whether the rose or the golden rod should be the flower of the Empire State. A vote was accordingly taken in the 113 school commissioner districts in the State, with the result that 294,816 children voted for the rose and 208,402 for the golden rod, giving a majority of 86,414 children in favor of the rose, which will henceforward be the flower of New York State. No Cave Nether Away. A young man who had been paying devoted attention to a rich bankers daughter, interviewed her father on the subject. A few preliminary remarks, he said: "I love your daughter, sir, and want to marry her." "Yes, sir, and it was her goodness which induced me to do so." "I'm not surprised at that. She is a good girl." "I've not been a saint, sir, but when I'm married and brought under the tender influence of a good and loving woman, I shall reform." "I'm glad to hear that. It would be pleasant for your wife if you did not. Are you aware, sir, that when I give you my daughter I give you with her a little marriage portion of 450,000." "I was not aware of that, sir, but it would make no difference to me. Pecuniary considerations do not enter into my calculations at all." "No, sir, love is of far more importance. It is a wife, not a bank account, I am looking for. Money is trash, sir." "Don't give yourself away, young man; I'll give yourself away. I said when I gave you my daughter, I'd give you the money, but you see I'm not going to give you my daughter, and that alters the aspect of affairs very materially. Good-day. Call round after you're reformed."

JINGLES OF HEROES. A Little Nonsense Gathered for Leisure Reading. Jack Rouser. Let's Miss Bull a beauty! Miss A. Yea. But you know beauty is only skin deep. J. Rouser. Well, I'm no cannibal. That's deep enough for me. Little man. Pap said he'd cut my ears off 't didn't. Teacher. Why do you come to Sunday school, my little man? Little man. Pap said he'd cut my ears off 't didn't. Look here you fellow, said a gentleman who had arisen to give a seat to a lady in a crowded car, get off that seat. I vacated it for that lady. That's all right, boss. She's my wife. Mr. Fellow. Mr. Whitehead, what makes you look so dependent this evening? Mr. Whitehead. Well, Fellow, the fact is, I'm in trouble. I've been contesting my wife's will. Mr. F. Your wife's will! Why, I didn't know your wife was dead. Mr. W. Dead! No. That's what makes the contest so hard. Mr. F. Dead! No. That's what makes the contest so hard. Young wife—Harry, how can you take so much notice of other women's? You need to tell me that I entirely filled your heart. Young Husband—Yes, dear, but that's such a thing as enlargement of the heart, you know. Either you must marry me or put me out of misery. You're the triumphant widow, but I swallowed a fair bone to-day. Squere. Lawyer Brife is very fond of out isn't he? Nickleby. That's natural—anything in the feline suits a lawyer, you know. On a man who is said to be wedded to drink, he turned a widow, when his town goes for prohibition? It will take nine tailors to make a man, but one is enough to undo him. Marrying rich widows, like drinking liquor is often done solely for the effect. Cusmo. Does it pay a man to be an inventor? Banks. Oh, yes; but the man it pays is not the inventor. Gentlemen. Well, you'll get down pretty low in the dirt for whisky, won't you? "Tramp—'Kef' Why, I've seen a man dig down in the dirt twenty feet for water. Yelling at a street-car for a hastening lady is a sort of charity bowl. It is pretty generally believed that the village blacksmith took advantage of his position at the bellows to put on airs.

A READY BLOW. An Old Hoop. Murdered by a Frenchman For Refusing Him Kisses. John C. Wheeler, keeper of a hotel at Rindge Center, was murdered about 5 o'clock on the night of December 17 in front of his hotel, by John Brunell, a Frenchman belonging in Fitzwilliam. Brunell, accompanied by Arthur M. Mole, drove up to the hotel and asked Wheeler for some liquor. This was refused, and high words followed and a scuffle ensued. Brunell became terribly enraged and striking a whiffetone death Wheeler a savage blow over the head, killing him instantly. Two other men who came to Wheeler's assistance received severe treatment and one was very badly injured. After dealing the murderer a severe beating and his companion ran from the scene across the fields, but the latter was soon overtaken by pursuing parties and is now in custody. Brunell was arrested the next day at Ashburnham, Mass. His victim was about 55 years of age nearly blind, and leaves a widow and three children. He has been in the hotel business in Rindge about three years, his son Frank having previously conducted the house. When the train from Ashburnham, bearing John Brunell, the captured murderer, arrived at Rindge Dec. 18, a large crowd had gathered at the station, determined to lynch the murderer, and it was with considerable difficulty that the officers got him to the jail alive. A rope noose was thrown over his head by somebody in the crowd and immediately half a dozen or more men grabbed hold of the end, but before his work had accomplished an officer threw the rope off and hurried the prisoner to the jail, where he is now confined. Through the whole Brunell remained decidedly cool, remarking that the killing of Wheeler was a bad job. Brunell and Moleky were before the police court Dec. 18. Only a few witnesses were questioned, the prisoners' counsel waiving further examination. They were then committed to jail for safe keeping till the April term of supreme court. The injuries of Fred Crocker, who was terribly assaulted by the Frenchman, at the time of Wheeler's murder, are more serious than at first supposed and it is feared he may not recover—Mirror and Farmer. Are you suffering from cold in the head? Do not neglect it—delay is dangerous. Death is easily contracted. Nees Balm is an unfailing cure in all cases of catarrh and cold in the head.
