Russia and Japan Glaring at Each Other Over Korea - Merchant From Mikadoland.

The movements of the Russian troops and fleets in the Orient are closely watched with great interest, as it is gen. changed little, he says. An appeal to erally believed that the policy of Russia is to secure control over as much of the Chinese territory as possible, and that Dr. Hamilton's for killing rats without meat being poisoned for the purpose is now nearly complete, and will be placed the opinion expressed by G. L. Keading, who arrived Tuesday from Korea, who is connected with gold mines where he is connected with gold mines at Gensan, on a visit to his home in

Russia's encroachments in Manchuria, St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Held he says, is causing a great deal of comment. The treaty with China entered into by the Powers has not resulted hy any means in the withdrawal of the Czar's troops from this territory. These forces have been stationed on the large concessions granted Russia by China when the branch line of the Transferent departments of the church's work | Siberian railway was built. This was, all went to show that the last year was therefore, Russian territory, and that country, in consequence has escaped the congregation. The financial statement necessity of withdrawing her troops from of the board of management showed Manchuria. Instead, the forces, it is reported, are being steadily reinforced, and there are now more Russian troops

Russia, Mr. Keading says, is the only country that has any effective influence over Manchuria. There is a marked difference between the conditions of the part where the advice of her officials is followed in public affairs, and the districts where her influence is not felt, it is in these latter sections that a continual state of guerilla warfare prevails. Through this part of the country travelling is unsafe. Bands of maraud-

of the Czar's government to acquire in than normal. The drawback is, fortunof the Czar's government to acquire influence over the Crown Prince of Korea. The first step in this direction, it is believed, is the cordial invitation which the Crown Prince has received from the Czar to attend the Russian court. A vigorous protest has been made by Japan against the acceptance of this invitation. This some of those in high circles in Korea believe to be but the commencement of much trouble between ommencement of much trouble between

Altogether Mr. Keading thinks that the reinforcement of the Russian troops in Manchuria and the increase of the Russian fleet shows conclusively that trouble is brewing. Mr. Suzuki, of Yokohama, was another of the arrivals by the Shinano Maru last evening. Mr. Suzuki is at the head of a large company which does an extensive business in Japanese buibs. The firm has important business connections with America, and have large dealings with the florists of New York and other cities of the United States. For the purposes of looking after this Mr. Suzuki for the past ten years has made visits to this continent once a year. On this trip he is accompanie by two young men of the firm, whom Mr. Suzuki says he is schooling prepar atory to their taking this branch of the work, thus relieving him of it. The political situation in Japan has the country, which may shortly be ex-pected, he believes will result in the return of the present government. While there is a strong opposition awakened against it owing to the proposal to in-crease the land tax, yet the opposition, he thinks, has shown nothing which can be considered as sufficient to take the place of this proposal. Upon this ground he anticipates that no change will be made in the government. Some of the objectionable features of the proposed increase in the land taxes may be fied.
