COLON, via Galveston, Texas, Feb. 9.—President-elect Taft went on board the North Carolina for the trip to New Orleans late this afternoon. He said he was not prepared to discuss the results of his trip, but had found the work progressing most satisfactorily. "The determination of all engaged in the work, even to the humblest laborer, to build the canal has impressed every one," said Mr. Taft. "As to the type of the canal and the continuance of the present plans the engineers who inspected the work have promised to hand me their report by the time we land at New Orleans."
Colonel Goethals, chief engineer of the canal, is with Mr. Taft on the North Carolina, and he will meet the appropriation committee of congress to show that 62,000,000 cubic yards of earth have been excavated to February

SIFTON GETS AFTER ROBLIN

Says Manitoba Voters' Lists Were Flagrantly Stuffed

WINNIPEG, Feb. 9.—Hon. Clifford Sifton was interviewed this morning in regard to Roblin's statement in the legislature yesterday regarding provincial voters' lists. Roblin claimed that the lists were clean and satisfactory. Sifton said the statement of Roblin was untrue and that Roblin knew it to be untrue. The lists were flagrantly stuffed as every one knew perfectly well who had anything to do with the late election. The assertion of the provincial premier, Sifton said, was a piece of impudent bluff and bluster.

Hon. Chief Justice Duffin will have served thirty years on Manitoba bench within a few months and will be retired on full salary. Afterwards the honor of chief justice will pass from the Court of King's Bench to the Court of Appeal where it will in future remain. Judge Howell will succeed.

THRILLING RESCUE ON GOWANUS BAY

Moving Picture People Astonished the Gulleless Gowanusers

When Ladies in Nighties Made Break for Lifeboats the Natives Thought of a Marine Plasterer

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—The waters of Gowanus Bay and all Gowanusers were untroubled yesterday until four big automobiles rolled up to the entrance of a pier at the end of which lay the steamship J. L. Luckenbach, formerly the Sault. The occupants of the automobile looked as if they were going to an address, as nobody had all his or her clothes on except the captain of the steamship. Repetition of the picture to repeat a part of her performance off Nantucket. The captain was made up as the real captain of the Republic, except that he had on a military coat and hat, which may not be detected if the pictures are moved quick enough.

The strange appearance of the automobile party brought most of the juvenile and much of adult Gowanusers down to the waterfront. The ship was going to represent the Republic was docked not far away to represent herself, and Gowanus Bay played the part of the Atlantic Ocean with astonishing modesty.
The man with the picture machine was posted at the bow of the Republic (Luckenbach). The ship's commander with a small megaphone then began to shout through it. Four lifeboats were swung out on the davits (that's a fact) and half a dozen women in nightgowns and men's coats and with hair disheveled began prancing up and down, dropping occasionally on their knees and putting up their hands in attitudes of prayer. Meanwhile the stokers were making a rush for the lifeboats and the stentorian voice of the skipper was heard in the regular way shouting "Women and children first!" There were no children, except among the Gowanusers on shore, but as the speech is not reproduced simultaneously with the pictures it does not matter.

The captain and some of the women came to pretty close quarters in the excitement of abandoning ship, something never done before in mid-Gowanus, and a lady in a nightgown ran against the skipper's flat with such violence that she was knocked down and her nightgown was stained by drops from her nose. The skipper picked her up and continued his work on the megaphone.

The excitement around the pier got pretty warm and Gowanus began to break into the scene in a rowboat. But did not know that it was all a play that will be put on in a hundred halls next week. The moving picture man was careful to keep piers and rowboats out of his focus. He stopped a while to let a thirty-ninth street ferryboat—such a thing is seldom seen off Nantucket—go by.

The sailors of the Luckenbach are the real thing and the rowers to lower the boats so not one of the party was spilled. It was the wildest rescue Gowanus had ever seen, and the queer part about it was that a large part of the kid boys and girls of Gowanus believed it was real. The way those women in the lifeboats carried on, tearing at their hair and screaming, was enough to make a gulleless Gowanuser think that something or other was the matter. Then the lifeboats rowed out of the picture, leaving the skipper alone with his ship.

The next view, ladies and gentlemen, will be the reception aboard the Italian ship Florida of the survivors of the Republic taken at great expense by our special artist from an ocean tug chartered for the occasion. The women again began to look fearful and fearful when they were rowed into the range of the man with the camera. When you see the show you cannot disbelieve that it was the real Florida that the survivors were put aboard. Her battered and crumpled bow was exposed to do his worst. The survivors were no so wild when taken aboard the Florida, where there were no cameras, as they were in the picture. And the waters of Gowanus chortled against her tottering and slimy piers.

NO MORE "BARGAIN DAY" DIVORCES IN ST. LOUIS

Judges Will Make Thorough Investigation of Every Case in Future.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 9.—The lid has been put on "divorce-while-you-wait" by St. Louis judges, and, compared with the past, it will be a hard master to lose a husband here unless there are real grounds for a divorce and the case has been thoroughly gone into.

The plan deals principally with default cases. Instead of a half dozen formal questions, followed by a decree there will be thorough questioning by an attorney who has investigated the case.

A lawyer has been appointed by Judge Williams to make inquiry into three default divorce cases at "meat friends" of the court.
The lawyer has been instructed to see the defendants, when possible, and to learn why they are willing to let the cases go by default. He is to find out the probable disposition of children, the property holdings of the parties in the suit and any other facts which will help the judge to determine whether the divorce ought to be granted. He is to represent the state, which Judge Williams holds is properly a third party to a divorce.

Judge Hitchcock, in issuing a similar order to Clerk Four of his court, indicated that he wishes to avoid the "bargain-day" crowds of divorce seekers, their friends and onlookers, which have been friends of default day in the past.

SLEW HIS WIFE IN MERCY

French Workman Could Not Bear to See Her Suffer.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—Alphonse Baudin, a workman living in Puteaux, last week shot his wife to put an end to her intolerable suffering caused by a hopeless disease. The question has often been raised whether a man has the right to put an end to another's life in a case like this, but few men have been brave enough to try the experiment and wait for justice to decide what should be done with them afterward.

Prof. Landouze, dean of the faculty of medicine, says of this case: "The drama is one of passion, inspired by pity which has been aggravated to a point where the man lost his reason. One cannot compare the act of this man, excited by love and pity to the highest degree, to the calm, deliberate act of the physician in the same case. The physician can claim the last sufferings of his patient, but he cannot kill the patient. Certainly the husband has killed his wife, but the lawyer who defends him has a good case. It was an act of passion, and the jurors who hear themselves are likely to understand such an act."

Wise Parents

Guard their Children's Health by Giving them Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

The health of the growing boy or girl should be carefully guarded. During the growing time there is a danger of the blood becoming poisoned, and the health seriously impaired. The blood should be kept pure and the child will grow strong, healthy and active. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an ideal tonic for the young. They never fail to bring color to the pale cheeks and strength to the growing body. To a reporter of L'AVENIR du Nord, Mr. Jos. Provost, of St. Canute, Que., tells how his little daughter, Marie, from a life of misery, he says: "A year ago my daughter, a girl of thirteen, was very weak. She was so ill that I feared she was going into consumption. Though I tried remedy after remedy she remained in the weak state for several months and I began to think she never would get better. I read of the good Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had been in a case of anemia, so got some for Mr. Soon she began to improve, her appetite returned, she grew strong, and came into her cheeks and today she is as healthy as any young girl could be. I firmly believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved her life."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are equally as successful in bringing back color and strength to the adult. They make pure, red blood—that is, the blood of the anemia, rheumatism, St. Vitus' dance, heart palpitation, indigestion and the secret list of girlhood and womanhood. But you must get the genuine bearing the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," on the wrapper around each box. All other so-called Pink Pills are imitations. If your medicine dealer does not keep the genuine pills they will be sent at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MANY AMERICANS WILL BUILD IN CANADA

U. S. Manufacturers Will be Forced to Start Canadian Plants by New French Treaty.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—American tariff experts do not view with complacency the probability that the French government, which the new treaty will put into operation a revised tariff which it is believed will have the maximum rate on all imports, including against the imports into France from the United States. The United States is at present compelled to pay the maximum rate on all imports, including against the imports into France from the United States. The United States is at present compelled to pay the maximum rate on all imports, including against the imports into France from the United States.

A very pertinent fact to be considered in this connection is the new French-Canadian treaty, which is now being concluded. Under this treaty it is said Canada is to receive all of the minimum rates of the French tariff. Even under present conditions this will be sufficient to cause many American manufacturers to build factories across the Canadian line, so that their products may be sent to France with the benefit of the low tariff.

It is the opinion of the government experts here that there is absolute necessity of a dual tariff on the part of the United States and that the new law now being framed by Congress must contain provisions for both minimum and maximum rates.

ITALY.
Italy consists of about 91,000 square miles and has a population of 35,000,000. This area is about equal to New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Pennsylvania combined.

ROLLER SKATES.
The first roller skate was patented by a Frenchman in the year 1819, but since that time scarcely a year has passed without some improvement in wheel skates.

CRIMINAL ALIENS FLOCK TO ENGLAND

Anarchists and Undesirable Classes Grow in Numbers

Inoperation of the Alien Act and Attitude of the Home Office Blamed for Present Conditions.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Public interest has once more been stirred during the last few days by the sensational object lesson from Tottenham to the evil pre-eminence occupied by England as an Alsatia for anarchists and terrorists. There is no longer the slightest reason to doubt that these "undesirable aliens"—the sum of the disaffected areas of Europe, reinforced by recidivists from the United States—are growing in numbers every year. More than thirty Scotland Yard finds ever growing difficulty in keeping them under supervision.
I can call to mind a time when it used to be one of the boasts of the criminal investigation department that it could almost at a moment's notice surround and remove from the country any undesirable alien. It was a boast which was not without foundation. The police themselves would suddenly be transformed into a "palace of truth." The anarchists—wise in their generation—have decentralized themselves and are to be found nowadays scattered over the poorer industrial suburbs of this marvellous and constantly growing metropolis.

ALIEN ACT DEAD.

These facts, incontrovertible though they are, cannot be urged as a reflection on the criminal investigation department, which is, in plain truth, expected to cope with a state of affairs which its hands did not bring about. No one who is familiar with the workings of the Alien Act can deny that it has become to all intents and purposes a dead letter in consequence of the "rip" from the Home Office under the present government that proof of "immigrants" means is to be treated in a dangerously lenient sense. The only bright spot in its administration, indeed, is the common sense alacrity of judges and magistrates in recommending convicted aliens for deportation. But it is England's vaunted "right of asylum," carried to the very extreme of maddest sentimentality in the interests of manufacturers masquerading as political refugees that is at the root of the mischief.

Sometimes it is well for England to see herself as others see her, and for years past there has been a strong disposition among her Continental neighbors to blame the British government for allowing England to become a pawning ground of assassins, conspirators and bomb manufacturers. From time to time concerted action has been taken by the governments of all the powers for an international congress to discuss means for the repression of anarchism. Though Great Britain accepted several weakening reservations were made.
The main points suggested for discussion were that the extradition treaties should be modified to permit of anarchist criminals being handed over to the country of their origin, and that means should be adopted to check the propaganda of anarchist newspapers. It may be contended, of course, that there is no evidence to connect the Tottenham terrorists with any organized political or quasi-political movement. Even granting this to be the case, it will hardly be disputed that these scoundrels were "undesirable aliens" in the fullest and worst sense of the term who ought never to have been allowed to enter the country.

TREATIES MUST BE MODIFIED.

I see from a return just issued that of the grand total of more than three hundred and ninety-nine thousand aliens landed in the United Kingdom last year, only 894 were sent back. The table, it is true, includes cabin and exempted second class passengers, as well as about sixty-one thousand transients, but even after making these large deductions, the number of emigrants refused leave to land is so ridiculously disproportionate to the whole that the Alien Act as now administered stands condemned as a sham and a make believe.

BRIEF DESPATCHES.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 9.—Mrs. Hattie E. Roy, aged 48 years, of St. Johnsbury, Vt., was arrested at the North Station tonight, as she stepped from a train from the north, as a fugitive from justice, the police stating she was noticed in St. Johnsbury on the charge of larceny of $1200 from J. L. Peck, a boarder in her home.
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 9.—Two murder trials in Connecticut ended today with the imposition of a life sentence in each instance. John Coriak, a Polish immigrant, was sentenced to life for the murder of a companion and a fellow inmate, who was killed by a blow from a brick, thrown by the body into the water at Milford and John Bogardus, an enlisted man of the coast artillery, stationed at Fort Trumbull, who with robbery as the motive, killed Dyer Copeland, a farmer at New London, where the men sentenced. Two murder trials also started today in the state courts.

NAPLES, Feb. 9.—The instruments in the observatory at Valle di Pompei today registered a very strong earthquake shock at an estimated distance of 1,000 miles.
CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 9.—Thomas Oliver, inventor of the Oliver typewriter, died suddenly today of heart disease, while waiting with his wife at a railway station to start for Pine Bluff, Ark., to test a cotton picking machine which he had recently invented which he declared would revolutionize the cotton industry.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The British Admiralty has decided to fit one of the cruisers now building on the Clyde with turbines of the Curtis type, such as are used in the American navy. Up to the present the Admiralty has pinned its faith to the Parsons type.

WHAT THEY ALL SAID.

"I can't keep the visitors from coming up," said an office boy dejectedly to the editor of a popular newspaper. "While waiting with his wife at a railway station to start for Pine Bluff, Ark., to test a cotton picking machine which he had recently invented which he declared would revolutionize the cotton industry."

"Well, said the editor, 'just tell them that it is what they all say, I furnished by the management, Maine being a prohibition state.' He was told, however, that should he succeed in having the desired wines delivered from outside sources care would be taken to have them properly taxed and served.
The host-to-be set about to procure the necessary beverages and evidently succeeded, for about three days later a sturdy countryman strode up to the desk and in a voice loud enough for all to hear demanded of the clerk: 'Is Mr. Blank any ways round?' Tell him to hurry down to the dock. There's a box of books down there for him, and it's his last!"

AN ADDED ATTRACTION.

"Ah, Elsie, it is fine to be married to an officer—such a beautiful uniform and so many decorations!"
"Yes, and besides that, he'll have a band at his funeral!"—Wahne Jacob.

IRISH FAMILY ARE IN STATE OF SIEGE

Boycott Declared Against Clark Estate at Holy Cross and Armed Force Guards House.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Ian Malcolm, formerly honorary attaché at the British Embassy at Berlin, and a writer for magazines, writes to the Times a story of his experiences in Ireland, where he is now staying at the house of Charles Clarke, at Holy Cross, near Thurles. The Clarkes, with their employees and dependants, numbering over 100, have been completely boycotted. Mr. Malcolm says of Mr. Clarke:

"He never evicted a tenant and is paying over $5,000 yearly in wages. He sold all his lands to his tenants except 1,000 acres of the home farm. This was coveted by the populace, who determined to make his life unbearable until they got it. I found the front door windows damaged and smashed. There was no bread in the house, and no one in the neighborhood dares to supply any. A police barracks, with a sergeant and five men, guard a former gamekeeper's cottage. There are also a head constable and five men in the butler's cottage. Seven other policemen protect the labors and cattle. Five policemen live in the house."

"All night long," continues Mr. Malcolm, "I could hear the tramp of the patrol pacing the paths with loaded shotguns. When Mr. Clarke goes in broad daylight to Thurles or Cashel, armed policemen ride in his motor car. A force of from two to three hundred constabulary line the streets of the town to enable him to reach the court house in safety."

EQUADOR EXCITED BY PERUVIAN MOVEMENTS

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Feb. 9.—Considerable excitement has been caused here by the news that the Peruvian gunboat Lima, recently arrived at Tumbes, which lies close to the coast near the Ecuadorian border, has landed a military commission with 250 well equipped soldiers. It is believed here that the intention of the commission is to study and prepare plans of the frontier.

The three Peruvians, who were captured two weeks ago near the Peruvian frontier and brought here by soldiers are still in prison.

MEN, HERE'S AN OFFER.

Wear My Electric Belt Free Until I Cure You.

You've doctored and doped till you are sick of it all. You would pay for anything that would give you back your old vim.

You don't want to pay out any more money till you are sure. I will cure you first, and you can pay me afterwards. Is that fair? Then get in line.

I know what I can do, because I've done it and am doing it every day. I can cure Electricity in the life, and that I can restore it where it's lost. So if you need what I offer and don't want to risk my price, wear my Belt free until you are cured, then you can pay me.
And when you do pay me the cost is less than a strict season of drugging, and how much more pleasant! You put my Belt on when you go to bed; you feel the soothing, exhilarating vigor flowing into your weak body, and while you sleep peacefully it fills you full of the fire of life. You wake up in the morning feeling like a giant. Now I can't cure everything. I don't claim to, and I won't take a case that I don't feel sure of, but all these troubles which come from an early waste of vitality, from dissipation of any kind, from decay of nerve power, or from any organic stomach, liver or kidney weakness, I can cure, and those are the cases I am willing to tackle and take the chances on. I am curing them every day.

All I ask is a reasonable security for my Belt while you are wearing it.
Miracles are worked every day. Read the story of Philip McGhee, River Aux Fine, St. Gabriel, P. Q., as he gives it in his own words:

"Dear Sir—Your Belt is all you claim it to be. My back is all right. I am very well. I should have written you sooner, but I wanted to give your Belt a thorough test. I considered mine a very bad case, as I have been troubled with my back a great deal, but I have found a cure in your Belt."
Tell me where you are and I'll give you the name of a man in your own town that I've cured. I've got cures in every town.

That's enough. You need the cure. I've got it. You want it. I'll give it to you or you need not pay me a cent. Come and get it now. The pleasurable moments of this life are too few, so don't throw any away. While there's a chance to be husky and strong, to throw out your chest and look at yourself in the glass and say "I'm a man," do it, and don't waste time thinking of "ifs."
I've got a beautiful book, full of good, honest talk about how men are made big and noble, and I'll send it to you, free, sealed, if you send this coupon.
