The Folio says that Fritz Giese, the most example to the world, is soon to receive from his father, Jos. Giese, in Europe, a collection of wonderfully rare and valuable stringed instruments. Among them are the old Amati Viola which Mr. Giese used while learning to play—a Stradivarius and a Villiaume 'cello. These together with those he already owns will constitute one of the most valuable collections in this country.

The favorite harp of Madame Albani.

Jos. Giese, in Europe, a collection of wonderfully rare and valuable stringed in the Boston theatres are and have been of tering bills of attractions among the best of the season.

The favorite harp of Madame Albani, the Canadian nightingale, is owned by a lady in St. Johns, P. Q. The Toronto World says that in very early childhood, little and the properties of the season of the season of the season of the season of the season.

The favorite harp of Madame Albani always had a special predilection for the latter instrument. She was obliged, for substantial reasons, to abandon her favorite harp and devote herself exclusively to the organ and vocal music. With this object in yiew, she sailed abroad, leaving the much-loved harp in Chambly. For many years the harp was mute. Subsequently Mr. Lejeunesse, Madame Albani statter, became the tutor of a pupil resembling Madame Albani very much in personal appearance, and still more as in musical talent. He was not slow in discerning the revenorla appearance, and still more as in musical talent. He was not slow in discerning the resemblance and resolved to mould the related to his youthful pupil upon the model of the great diva. Two years ago poes presented the former with the harp of Madame Albani, the condition of the same than it was provided to disappointment. His pupil, Miss Clara

Mention of Mr. Tom Daniel's arrival in the city was inadvertly omitted last week. It is needless to say that he was warmly welcomed back; the only thing to spoil his stay was its shortness, as he returned to Boston on Monday.

On Sunday evening those who attended St. Andew's kirk had the pleasure of hearing Mr. Daniel sing "Lord God of Abraham," from the Etijah. The very great improvement in his rendering of this solo must have been remarked by all who heard him interpret it before he left here. In the first place, the upper notes of his voice have been very much developed, rather perhaps to the detriment of the lower register, which seems to be slightly weaker. Then there is a marked improvement in expression, the solo being sung with a great deai of feeling; and last, but not least, his enuncian is wey much clearer, although there is still a good of her to make the still a good o

Mme. Patti announces that "she has no present intention of quitting the English concert platform," which, an exchange says, is not surprising, seeing that she has signed for a tour commencing in November, 1894.

If the music of "Marching Through Georgis" can be arranged into a tuneral march, there is no reason why the same thing cannot be done with a good many other popular airs, yet that was the last work of note done by the late Patrick S. Gilmore. He marched at the head of his band as it played the new dirge at the funeral of Gen. Sherman.

The New Wing which was the opening play at the pretty Columbia has been withdrawn, and another new play, Settled Out of Court, has taken its place. This piece comes with the New York stamp of success upon it, but time will show if it is a winner in Boston.

Agatha still holds the stage at the Museum, and if the statements of the press agent of the house amount to anything, is likely to do so for some time. The play is a pretty one, well acted, well costumed and well staged, but I doubt if it is a piece that will be heard of after its run at the Museum is over, as to my mind it has not lasting qualities.

The Park still draws good houses to hear the bright music and see the pretty chorus girls in 1492, and its near and larger neighbor, the Boston, has a good drawing card in the Old Homestead, which will run for some weeks longer, and will be followed by Jos. Jefferson in a revival of Rip Van Winkle.

LONDON COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

At summer examinations, held 5th August last, in connection with the London College of Music, there were seven entries at the St. John centre. All the candidates were unusually successful, one indeed gaining the highest possible number of marks. The result of the first examination held in this city, is consequently most or gaining the highest possible number of marks. The result of the first examination held in this city is consequently most encouraging and should result in a good increase in the number of candidates at the next examinations which it is proposed to hold during the month of December next. Full particulars and all necessary papers can be obtained by teachers from the representative of the college. Miss Morley: A. Mus. S. C. M., 196 King Street East.

The successful candidates were, in the Elementary Section: Bertram R. Haydon, (93); no. 11, 199, (92); in the junior honors section; Mary Theodora Haydon, (93); No. 11, 194, (93) marks. The number of marks necessary to give a certificate is 65, the highest possible number obtainable is 100, so that Miss M. T. Haydon is to be congratulated on her great success in both sections.
