On Lectures . . .

The University of New Brunswick is noted among a very great many other things, for the vast number of public speakers giving lectures and addresses during the academic term. The past month has been noted for visits by Lewis Perinbam, E. R. Rowzee, J. H. MacKay and James B. Hunt, just to name a few. These speakers all noted men in their fields, have found, on their visits here, a complete lack of interest in their topics and discussions. This exhibition of attendance is not to be blamed on the students alone, it also runs rampant among the teaching and administration staffs.

There is no way to condone such an attitude in this university Since these men have come to the top level of their professions and their talks are of definite benefit to every person on the campus students and professors should be compelled to attend these speakers. Mere courtesy alone on the part of the university body should at least be regarded as a reason for compulsory attendance

It appears that one of the main reasons that our guest speakers feel like mere "voices in the wilderness" is the administration's attitude in assigning cancellations of lectures for these short visits. We are all too aware that the administration's past policy has been to assign the last period of the morning for guest lectures. Everyone, from the lowest student to the most lordly professor regards the hour as an extra one for dinner, and not for its real purpose, that of attendance at the lecture.

It would seem quite in order then, that the university assign the hour from ten to eleven for these lectures, and that they make attendance at these lectures compulsory. We all know how low our student facilities have sunk this year with the loss of our canteen and the postponement of the completion of our student centre. The administration has no need to fear that the lectures would not be attended. There is no other place for the students to go.

On Councils .

There has arisen a feeling of mistrust, among a certain group of students, that the Student Council Meetings are not being run in the proper methods of parliamentary decorum. They are quite right, parliamentary procedure goes by the books at the Wednesday night conferences held in the Forestry Building. The Student's Council has created a grave error in this respect.

However, there is a great deal to say in support for their seeming ignorance of the proper way of doing things. So much so, in fact, that the Brunswickan heartily condones this horrendous breach of parliamentary discipline.

Parliamentary procedure demands certain protocol at all times. The demand, when applied to several of the members on baters or speakers, or perhaps the council, would only lead to their complete silence on all matters even have the occasional stag night of discussion. Lack of these rigid rules has lead everyone to voice where bull could be shot. their thoughts, whether they have or have not th floor at the proper

The method so used by the council has made the meetings a series of interesting discussions that seem to be mere venting of humour by some of the more voluble members. Rather it has be"campus spirit"?

The S.R.C. recently gave the come a means of keeping interest up in the rest of the members of the council. Last year the mood established by the council's dreary meets was, "Another damn council meeting — I suppose I'll have to attend this one". This year not only do the members want to go, they even arrive early and hold a gab-fest before the council

Lastly, the method used by the council is producing their required work in a much shorter time. Last week's budget meeting took a little less than two and a half hours to hash out. Previous councils would still be in session in the Forestry Building. trving to allot their funds to one hundred and one uneless organizations and still trying to stay in the black.

On Politics

Mr. Ballance's decision to pass the correspondence pertaining to the proposed Maritime Mock Parliament into the hands of one organization was a grievous mistake on his part. By doing so, ne effectively pushed the action required to elect delegates back two weeks while the conference in Halifax is just four weeks away.

We wish to disagree with Mr. Ballance and his statement that such attention to this matter would involve the council in political controversy and that the council should not maintain any political stand. The only thing the council has to do in this case is to hold the elections. They do not have to create parties. Nominations as such will come from the student body. The student body will do all the creating of political opinion.

As for the matter of maintaining a political stand, we believe that the council has a definite political stand to uphold. The council should foster the inception of political parties on this cam-They are the only organization on the campus that can hold an honest and representative college-wide election and they are the only organization on the campus with the funds to finance such an election. There is a committee already created for the purpose of holding elections, let's use it.

Mr. Fred Drummie was snowballed by the council to accept a mandate to investigate the situation. We trust that his recommendations to the council will have the effect of shaming the honorable members into concrete action on the Maritime Mock Parliament before the sessions are over.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Editor, The Brunswickan

I wish to take violent exception to the innacurate letter last week in this column entitled "From Our International Correspondent".
In disagreeing with the comrade correspondent's report, I very much fear that the comrade has been looking through the bottom of his Pepsi-Cola bottle at the Club 252, blocks away from any of the incidents mentioned. The glorious Coup d'Etat of August 19th has not been a great success. In fact, it has been a big fizzle. There has been no reaction of any kind, enith-er a general strike by the slaving students nor a mass movement of the imperialist faculty to the Rush-agonish Salt Mines. The patriot that the cmrade correspondent re-fers to in the UNB cell are nothing but the panty-waist sons of capitalist beasts, without party unity, party spirit, or, party discipline. It has been years since any fascist bandit has been hanged, burned or shot on this campus. Where has the zealous spirit of the purge gone

Students unite! We are being kept from our true destiny by re-actionary scum; Down with these violators of culture! Long live stu-dent freedom, student democracy,

The five delegates can be apporand student solidarity.

I have heard that we are going to build a student centre. Will it be a glorified Art Centre? A meeting place for society club members? A place to study with "Keep quiet, do not move" signs all about? A developing room for weight lifters or photography fans? — Or a Student Centre?

To be successful, to be worth-while, as I am sure you will agree. the centre must attract all stu-dents AND must fill some presentdents AND must fill some presently existing need. Let us not put a table tennis set in it; we have them: nor a large room to study;
we have many. It isnt likely that the canteen will exist to sell pop and doughnuts alone. What then shall we use it for? Has anyone thought of that?

The Editor, The Brunswickan. Dear Sir:

With the New Year come denideas. One of these is the proposed plan for the Maritime University Student Parliament sponsored by Acadia University. university campus is traditionally a center of political controversy and many universities already have active political organizations. Whether you have or not, here is a chance to gather with students of other Maritime Universities to debate our views on Maritime and National issues across the floor of the Model Parliament, and at the same time learn more of the form and functioning of our parliamentary institutions.

The Premier of Nova Scotia has graciously given us permission to use the Legislative Chambers in Province House in Halifax for our meetings. Sessions are expected to be held Friday and Saturday, March 5 and 6, 1954.

Each university woll be repre sented by five delegates, at least one of which should be a girl. These delegates must represent student political opinion. tioned according to the party per centages of the votes cast. In any case, when you have made your selections, send us the names of your five delegates and two alternatives, together with their party affiliations.

The Model Parliament will be organized along the lines of the Federal Parliament with a party system. Liberals, Conservatives, etc., from the various universities will unite to form their respective parties. For example, the Liberals from UNB would join with Liberals from the other universities to form the Student Liberal Party. The party with the majority will form the government. It is important that you inform us well in advance of the political affiliations of your delegates so that you can be notified as to what party will form the government. We hope to have prominent members of Parliament present to lead the major parties at the opening session.

The programme has not yet bee finalized. However, we intend to include time to get acquainted, time to see the city, time to or-Friday evening? things up with a farewell dance.

Money is something students always think about first, so here it are we going to finance the parliament? We hope that by charging all delegates a ten dollar registra other method of locomotion. On Sunday evening some go to one of the service messes: others attend meetings of our three religious organizations. Is this the best we can do?

to bring from SIX to TWELVE good films before the students at a very nominal average cost per student of from 4 to 8 cents.

My few chats with people involved in this centre have led me to believe that the general policy outlined above is not that in the minds of the administration. I think it might be considered. Yours truly.
